Whose Fault?

Blame may be levied at the administration for the general apathy which is permeating our campus. Thrice have the new rules been passed and the bulky rules and regulations, though they may have some bearing, but the faults lie in the administrations' choice of a mediocre student body. This student body will make no difference in the progress of the college.

Meanwhile in the world? We should make it stronger. Our school is sclerotic with organizational lethargy. We should take any action to improve it.

The administration may not have the power to lower the competition, but they can at least try to make campus rearing interesting. All this seems to amount to nothing but the administration having a wide berth of power. The student body is in the middle of a life mentally and artistically paralyzed, yet the administration does not even think of doing anything to change these conditions.

For the sake of education I think the administration should take a break, and the student body should relax. The student body is in a vital state in which the college should create a new atmosphere inside the campus.

And as the new gang has taken over, it doesn’t seem as if any of our younger teams are going to catch up with Doc or anyone else. Doc has the same cast of characters and the same old tricks to try to make us look bad, but that doesn’t work anymore. Doc seems to have more at his command than any other coach. He has a great deal of experience and he knows how to use it to his advantage. He is a master of the game of baseball and he knows how to get the best out of his players. The fans are looking forward to seeing the new Doc gang in action.

The team has been playing very well and fans are excited about the upcoming season. The team has a lot of potential and they are working hard to realize that potential. The fans are looking forward to seeing the new Doc gang in action.
