Arrivals in Senate Car Plan

Student car rental will come to Virginia soon as the Student Senate last Tuesday night took the first step toward the program’s institution. With the passing of Morton-Backer-Knight rules, the Senate will complete contract talks with Goggin Chevrolet Co., of Wooster for the use of one car to the Senate for the school year.

The plans call for a compact station wagon, leased to the Senate for an approximate $60 per month. The Senate will, in fact, make the car available to student organizations and individuals on an ad hoc basis for a per diem on the 10th-of-the-month basis.

The advantages which this program, if fully developed as an economic experiment, offers to students interested in doing Independent Study, a research away from Wooster or to those interested in attending cultural events in neighboring communities. Whether Street Deluxe, 1000 miles or across the country, the car will be a station wagon implies the feasibility of splitting the cost among several students.

Details of the contract and of the Student Rental program were delegated to the Senate Services sub-committee. The Senate expected the cost of eventually being able to expand the program to several cars, dependent on the success of the operating enterprise.

Several appointments high on the agenda of the meeting were made. Responsibility for the Student Rental program was assigned to the appropriate sub-committee, and the Senate approved the appointment of Treiber, the Senator’s most popular candidate, to be decided at the next meeting from those applicants who apply.

Seniors Phyllis Daly represents SCA and senior Pat Towson represents WSCA on the Senate this year.

In a program featuring pieces by Leonard Bernstein, the Cleveland String Quartet will present the program at the next meeting of the music department at the Chapel on Monday evening. There will be a repeat of "Quartet" in E-flat Major, Opus 135, No. 2, by Wolven. The Carnegie String Quartet in F Major, Opus 28, No. 6, by Beethoven; and the quartet will then be repeated. The three pieces will be performed under the direction of the music department and the Library Corner Crew, consisting of several per cent per person.

Commitment

In what he called one of the frankest speeches he has ever delivered, the college president raised the question of Wooster's church-relations last Sunday evening in an attempt to delineate what is perhaps the most crucial question of the day for the campus, but not be or church—Christian church-related?

At the beginning of the meeting, the president spoke of a recent drawing in which the college must decide which way it will cast its lot. The future, believing it speaks for the vast silent majority, wishes to state its position.

We are untenably opposed to any plan which advocates advancing church and college ties. We feel the consequences of the latter course of action will be disaster-ous.

As a result, we do not recognize or will not work to change certain weaknesses and inconsistencies which now exist within this Christian context. Yet many people, in an effort to throw off the atmosphere of fear and anxiety as well as fear.

Admittedly, many of the outward manifestations of Wooster's religious experience tend to be negative. However, the burden of proof about the good of any change falls on those advocating the change. It is easy to disparage and tear down. Building or rebuilding is the greater challenge. This must be done to keep our experience dynamic and vibrant; but it can, and must, be done on the basis of less objectionable course of action.

We have a common problem. When we fail to appreciate the positive aspects of our religious experience. Boys' Villages, Wooster-in-India, Westminster choir and affiliations, Caravans, work camps, Community Council, etc., are attempts to bring the students, Even the neglected area of personal and continual devotional experiences is now being ministered to in the religious life of the group.

Wooster as a Christian college owes it to her students to assist them in their personal growth. It is not that Christians nor evan-en her students have been constrained to this commitment. There is no such thing as half-Christian.

Red China in UN—Yes!

Red China should be admitted to the United Nations. This is a point in principle that is far from different. The New York Times Magazine, Sept. 17, 1961

The United States' leadership is a shaky group of "neutrals" in the international community, and it is a bad display of blindness.

The vote to postpone the question whether to invite China into the United Nations was 42 to 34, with 22 absentees. This is a barrier firmly itself behind settling questions.

If the U.S. continues to make a vital issue out of a lost cause, it is now a real and definite will to turn opportunities for propagandistic purposes against the United States.

So Realistic

This policy of resistance suggests the needlessness of the resistance. It is not subject to the United States' whim to define the world and its problems as realistically as it desires.

Without Red China, the U.N. can no longer act as a forum on Far Eastern matters. Since the U.N. has a key role to play in the political development of the region, we must work for a revision of the present situation.

For the Senate to represent student opinions, one simple step must be taken. Students must speak out.

This can be done with the ballot on election day, through participation in class meetings and through conversations with faculty outside the assemblies.

Frequently vocal minorities transfer into majority opinion for lack of expression from the other side. The Caldwell Amendment of 1945 and the recent proposal of the current Caldwell offer an excellent example.

A complete guarantee can be developed on election day. When marking your choices for class representatives, choose the individual who will support the creation of a majority Socialism, which may not coincide with his own. It is the policy of such concern transcends the microscopic world of food service and social activities. The Senate, the campus, the future poses more challenging problems than the immediate. Mentality of a higher order is required of a senator.

The means for every student to speak out are physically closer than many students realize. The majority of senators are available at least once a month at a definite location. All that is required now is the student to mow up courage.

The Student Christian Association provides the structure for a number of religious and educational activities that continually involve more than half the campus in participation.

These programs provide opportunities for participation both in the surrounding community and on the campus.

The service projects, such as Boys Village, Caravans and Children’s Home, give students the opportunity to work in the active life of the church.

These projects require all of the varied talents represented on the campus.

Through the SCA the campus yearly extends its service outreach to the community and the world. Wooster-in-India and Crossroads Africa programs provide opportunities for Wooster students to work and learn abroad.

The BrotherhoodMeal plan enables the student body to reside overnight on the campus.

But the SCA, as you will see, is more than just a religious service organization. It is involved in a variety of activities that are designed to develop the whole person.

In order that there may be unity of program and understanding of purposes, representation of the various activities is on a SCA cabinet.

Boys Village Volunteer Program

The Boys Village Volunteer Program has two main functions. The first, to help in the operation of Boys Village, will provide the permanent staff at the Village with an extra hand, and second, to help in the Village’s important task of helping young boys who are in need of additional training and guidance.

The second and most important function is to give the students of the College an opportunity to help the boys grow into responsible young men for life.

Although Students who participate in this program are not required to stay the entire school year, they are expected to commit themselves to participate in the program for one semester.

Crossroads Africa

Crossroads Africa is an SCA program that sends students to parts of Kenya, India and Africa. It has been a successful program.

This year’s Crossroads will consist of three groups.

1. Africa team (ticket: $1,000)
2. India team (ticket: $1,000)
3. Kenya team (ticket: $1,000)

Although SCA funds are not provided to finance this program, students are encouraged to sign-up as soon as possible in order to secure a place on the team.

The African team will depart in June and will return in September.

The India team will depart in August and will return in November.

The Kenya team will depart in January and will return in March.

Throughout the year the students will work and learn in rural African villages.

The students will be responsible for raising the necessary funds to support their participation in this program.

Assure CC Team

Wooster will definitely have a cross-country team this year. It won't last until Monday evening that Coach Carl R. Mason was sure that he would have enough men for the team.

His appeal in the last issue of the Future prompted freshmen Gurtz Murter and Chuck Balson to go out for the squad. This increased the team to six men, one more than is needed for running eligibility.

Most of the team has been practicing for about the last two weeks. Work-outs vary from long six miles run to shorter two mile runs with accompanying quarter mile sprints.

When Coach Mason was asked if he was trying to get anything he said, he replied, "Only that the men are working hard, trying and giving their best." It will be probable to determine some more about the fitness of the men after their next meet with Baldwin-Wallace on Oct. 12.

China has always been the true bastion of international law. They transmitted the law, the most vigorous and most universalized gesture of any civilization, in modern times. They have raised China to a greater power status. It would seem under more circumstances that their legitimacy should certainly be recognized,

Yet their morality by definition of the UN Charter is revolutionary and unaccountable... China's role in the world is inevitable. It would be foolish to unnecessarily ignore any part of the role.
