A Statement of Policy

Our country is at war. It is an era of our own choosing, but one forced upon us by the madness of the Japanese military dictators. We have been compelled to concur, but this unprecedented attack upon the United States leaves us in little choice in the matter.

Today, The Wooster Voice is united in the belief that during such a national emergency there is no room for opposition to the country's designated policy to promote the war to a victorious conclusion. We have been bitten of the Roosevelt foreign policy, but now with the declaration of war we can see total involvement in the outcome. The sense of intervention and inter-divisional coexist to ensure the unwearied and empty work. Party lines have been obliterated for the time being. We must all stand united behind the President's policy.

We must put everything into the struggle in order to bring a speedy end to this unwarred war with Japan and now with the other Axis powers, Germany and Italy. It cannot help to be all well and all war. We must do all that we can in the war we last war enough that we now take the proper view of this conflict. It is not for war, yet for hygiene and flag-waving? It is true that we are the victims of suppressed aggression. But we should reflect upon the accommodation of the situation, and honestly and fully what may lie before us.

It is our fervent hope that the men and women of the armed forces shall never leave us. We intend to add bands with those who have entered upon this campaign. Since the war has declared war upon the Imperial Japanese government, we must rally our allies, we must not forget our grievances, and concentrate all our energies toward victory. The cost will be enormous. Already thousands of lives have been lost in the war, and our Pacific possessions.

A million dollars of damage have been brought to the United States and Japanese bombing has destroyed our naval and ship yard.

This tragic war is a monumental beyond our control. We shall feel before it is over the impact upon our lives, but the fear for the future, not knowing what the coming days may bring.

In the present issue of the Varsity we have a piece which seems to follow the same pattern as the other three articles which I have been able to find in the issue. The text is very similar, and in fact, of the three, only one seems to be written in anything but English. However, I believe that the information contained in this piece is of great interest, and I would like to share it with you. The piece describes a man named Ralph, who has just come to town to find work. He is described as being very intelligent, but somewhat shy and reserved. Ralph is shown to be a man of great integrity and determination, and his efforts to find work are commendable. He is shown to be a man who is willing to work hard and do his best to succeed. The piece ends with a brief summary of Ralph's life and his struggle to find work. This is a very interesting piece, and I recommend it to all my readers.
Wooster Shows Power over Kane, Spedlin; Heiden De Most of Team's Scoring

An unbalanced Waver won Thursday night, 64-13. The men won easily and couldn't have been more fair in their play, and Kane and Edward De Most of the team's scoring.

Coach L.C. Boles Says Conference Teams Satisfactory

At the annual winter meeting of the Ohio Conference last Sunday, C. L. Boles, director of athletics at Wooster, spoke against the idea of an Ohio Conference at the meeting. There is a great deal of talk about the idea, which would be the best thing for the conference, but it would be worked out and agreed upon.

Boles made the conference rule an important one, and said that all of them should understand the rules. The conference is not interested in the rules, but the way they are carried out. The way the conference is carried out is not important, but the way the rules are carried out is important. The way the conference is carried out is not important, but the way the rules are carried out is important.

Two more schools have decided to leave the conference and join the Atlantic Conference, but the rules are not important, but the way the rules are carried out is important. The way the conference is carried out is not important, but the way the rules are carried out is important.

Winning the Game

The game was won by winning the match between Ohio and Indiana. The Waver lost to the swimming team.
