Students Choose President

Candidates Lening, Clay
Make Statements on Coming Election

Toward every other John Clay and Bob Lening, candidates for the Student Senate, have been named for the 1942-43 president with the annual election to be held Wednesday, 8:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Bob Lening, a member of several societies, comes from South Orange, N. J., and is an active member in a number of campus organizations. He was Secretary of the Student Government, a member of the Student Senate, and a member of the Army Reserve Officers. Other activities include being a member of the National Student Association, G. A. R. representative of his school, a member of the Boy Scouts, and director of the Censor Appendix.

"Since we are aware these days that the decision you make is the one I'll have to rejoice in and the one on which my future depends, the choice you will make is a very important one," he said.

The fourth in the series of the "Choose President" campaign, this week's topic is "Constitutional Law." The candidates are being registered by the Student Senate, and will be called upon to make their statements on the subject. The debates will be held in the Censor Room.

Hough To Speak At Club Banquet

Dr. John M. Hough of Ohio State University will be the guest speaker at the Campus Club annual student banquet being held tonight in the Student Union. Mrs. Mabel Hough, of the class of '42, will entertain in this talk with a number of songs.

Dr. Hough, a native of New York City, graduated from Princeton with his degree in 1911, and in the fall of that year he accepted a position in the classical language department, at the University of Virginia, and was appointed assistant professor of Greek.

He met his future wife in 1922, and married her in 1923. Mrs. Hough's voice will be heard at the next annual student banquet being held tonight in the Student Union. Mrs. Mabel Hough, of the class of '42, will entertain in this talk with a number of songs.

AFTERSHOCKS

By: John Miller

During the past year the Voice has been prominent in its demands that something about the Music Department be done. The M.S.G.A. has been founding its organization enough for awhile. The MILLER.

Definite proof can be found that the M.S.G.A. has taken the initiative in keeping the music major on campus. Its roles have been broken or disregarded, it is in the red financially, and it is in its last years. However, the continuing existence of its helplessness for betterment of the music major is running for the president of the M.S.G.A. In short, only one major has enough courage to run for this position, and it is a definite proof that the organization is near collapse.

It is not our contention that the major of the music department should not have some sort of an organization to help them through the process. There is currently no organization to help them through the process. There has been a definite effort on the part of the music major to form an organization that can look after the needs of the music major, but it has not been sufficient to do so.

This past week would not work perfectly, but it certainly would not be as big a fly as the M.S.G.A. has been. There seems to be no organization that the music major has that has failed with year in spite of constant efforts to offer services.

Tales By A Shack Rat

Don’t know much about different kinds of wood, but I am reasonably sure that the library cats are not made with white paint.

Had a cold white sandwich for lunch the other day. The cats are still looking for a rabbit substitute.

One faculty member recently addressed that freshman men should be required to sign up for lunch hours, etc., etc., etc.

Some of our chapel speakers have wondered why they are not doing too many talks to do.

Went home on a Monday last week-hand it stopped frequently—no diagnosis possible.

Senior Struggle

By: John Whittaker

I THAT GREATEST lassitude of all, the senior class, is about to be given its due. The senior class is the greatest class of all the classes. It is class of 43. Seniors are strong new generation of students, or rather it is the generation of students who have had enough of studying. They will pile it on, and the rest will surrender and whisper and dig in. This is the way the game will be played as a necessity for making the most of the time.

CURRENT COMMISSIONS

by: Jack Miller

Two-thirds Machiavellian Congressmen, the pundit who two years ago predicted that the Temple was a Commie, has dropped his old hand out of the “Dine Bums”. The explanation for this rather drastic change in the way in which M. Dins activities are labeled is that the Dine Bums have been doing rather more than stimulating better attendance at the dance. I am not sure that I understand the reason for the change in the way M. Dins activities are labeled, but I am sure that it is a good thing for the Dine Bums that the change has occurred.

Last week with all the hoopla preparing for the Presidential Nominations, the difference in the support of the various candidates was quite evident. It has already within a book on realism, it is not true that the nominations were acquired by the College Board. Some people believed that the Dine Bums had been killed by the move of the college, but in the end, they are the ones that have been the losers.

It appears that the famous black cat that the M. Dins has been using to symbolize their organization has finally disappeared appeal for any last hope had been all назад.

Professors Which Type Are You In Wooster’s Classroom Catalogue?

This is an article about professors and students from whom you can get a ‘B’ in the course and a “C” in the course. “You’re a professor, aren’t you?” is a question that you can ask a professor. The question contains a message of professional dignity and respect. You should be able to determine the type of professor that you are dealing with. Duke's Win East Liverpool Tournament
As Woofter Loses in Second Game

Duke's University's basketball team around their second annual tournament in the classical 32-player tournament held in East Liverpool, Ohio. The team from Winston-Salem placed first, the team from Wooster placed second, and the team from France placed third.

Many football lecturers have come to the conclusion that the game is that which is new and in the sports section of the program that has not yet been tried.

A large number of the Woofter lecturers are now in the Library on the second floor of the library, advising the students on their machines in the first floor.

The annual intramural softball season opens on the basketball courts this year. The games will be played on consecutive Saturday nights. The second game on Saturday, March 16, and at 7:30 p.m. on March 17, with a $5.00 admission charge. The games will be played in the gymnasium in the same manner as the intramural games were played.

Minor Diseases Need Correction

By Dr. W. E. Jacoby

The treatment of minor diseases in children is the subject of this week's column. All too often, parents are unwilling to consult a physician until a condition becomes serious.

These minor diseases include infections which are common among children. The symptoms of these infections may be milder than those associated with more serious ailments, but they should not be ignored.

The prevention of minor diseases involves good hygiene practices and prompt medical care when necessary. Parents should be aware of the signs and symptoms of these infections and take appropriate action to treat them promptly. The use of over-the-counter medications should be done with caution, as they may not be effective for all conditions.

The column also highlights the importance of maintaining a healthy lifestyle, including proper nutrition, regular exercise, and adequate sleep. These factors can help strengthen the immune system and reduce the risk of developing minor diseases.

In conclusion, parents are encouraged to recognize the importance of addressing minor diseases in children and to seek appropriate medical care when necessary. Prompt treatment can prevent the progression of these infections into more serious conditions. The prevention of minor diseases is a key component of maintaining a healthy lifestyle and ensuring the well-being of children.
