The eldest son of Dutch immigrants, he studied to enter the Dutch Reformed ministry. In college, along with other activities, he was captain of the state championship basketball team,

Dr. Lyon Speaks On Basic Issues In Modern France

Last evening Dr. E. Wilson Lyon, sponsored by the 1917 Alumni Lectureship, spoke in Scott Auditorium on "The Basic Issues and Development in Contemporary France."

Dr. Lyon, who was born in Heidelberg, Mississippi, in June, 1904, was graduated, Phi Beta Kappa, from the University of Mississippi with a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1925. Following his undergraduate education, Dr. Lyon attended St. John's College, Oxford, as a Rhodes Scholar where he received the Bachelor of Arts and the Bachelor of Literature degrees in Modern History. Later, he received his Ph.D. from the University of Chicago, his LL.D. from Colgate University, and his Litt. D. from Occidental College.

Before Dr. Lyon became President of Pomona College in 1941, he taught at the Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Colgate University, Syracuse University, the University of Rochester, and the University of Missouri.

Besides writing a number of articles for The American Historical Review, The Journal of Modern History, and The American Scholar, he published two volumes: Louisiana in French Diplomacy, 1759-1804 and The Man who Sold Louisiana: The Life of Francois Barbe-Marbois.

Dr. Lyon has also been President of the Western College Association, a member of the board of editors of The Journal of Modern History, and a member of the Governor's Commission of Organized Crime in California, 1951-52.

Prexy Reports

Dr. Lowry announced in chapel on Tuesday that only one letter was received by the Board of Trustees Committee on compulsory church. Even though this avalanche of mail did not represent the student opinion fully, the board voted to continue compulsory attendance.

Dr. Lowry states that ground will be broken this spring for the new men's dormitory and this summer for the Otelia Compton women's dorm. The new organ for the chapel is to be installed and the choir loft remodeled. Next on the building plans will be a new student union and a fieldhouse.

Church Street was written by Lennox Robinson while he was director of the Abbey Theatre in 1936 in an effort to stimulate young playwrights to produce more original scripts. The plot concerns a young playwright who, returning to his home as a failure, is convinced by his old Aunt Moll that the characters for a good play could be found right in his own home town. Hugh then proceeds to construct a play with the people who are at the house for a party. Cast in the leads are Dan Collins as Joseph Riordan, Hope Hunter as Kate Riordan, Ed Moore as Hugh, Marion Emke as Millie, Beverly Bond as Aunt Moll, Eleanor Reeder as Mrs. DeLacy, Charlotte Wiegand as Miss Pettigrew, Jan Ackerly as Sallie Long, Bud Campbell as Jim Daly, Jenny Kendrick as Honor Bewley, Bob Mathewson as The Evoked Hugh, Dick Roeder as Dr. Smith, and Dick Craig as A Clergyman.

Both plays will be given "in the round" on a rectangular stage with the audience seated on all four sides. The arena staging is particularly effective in that it establishes an intimacy which creates, for the audience, a sense of participation in the play itself.

To preserve this intimate impression, only ninety tickets will be sold for each performance. The tickets will cost twenty-five cents each, and there will be no reserved seats.

The novel plays combined with the novelty of arena staging should provide a new experience for Wooster theatre-goers.

Cast Announced For St. Joan

Cast selections have been made for the Color Day play, "St. Joan" by George Bernard Shaw. In the lead roles are Jan Coulson as Joan, Walter Bushnell as Robert de Baudricourt, Bill Caskey as Earl of Warwick, Dan DeArment as Dumois, Jim Homer as the Archbishop, and Jim Jolliff as the Dauphin.

Tide Of Optimism

The Easter season is one of great joy. People the world over rejoice in the spirit of the newly risen Lord. It has become the one common bond we have in a world where there is so little peace. Even in Russia, which has become a Godless country, the churches were filled on Easter Sunday. It would seem that no earthly doctrine can take the place of a life in Christ. For this, at least, we can be grateful.

But within the last several weeks, developments have been taking place which would indicate we are moving closer to world peace. Russia has asked to resume talks for the eventual exchange of prisoners of war. This is a large step in the right direction. And even more recently Moscow has announced the release of fifteen doctors who were falsely arrested for plotting against the lives of top Soviet leaders. One of the most interesting facts about this affair is that six of the doctors were Jews. This would seem to indicate an end to the Soviet's anti-Semitic campaign.

It is only natural that such moves on the part of Russia are looked on with great suspicion on this side of the curtain. We are being constantly warned against letting down our defenses and raising false hopes for world peace. Government officials are urging us to remember the past actions of the Klemelin, in an effort to "stem the rising tide of optimism".

Are we, as a nation, so very perfect that we can look with suspicion on the overtures of the Soviet Union? It is quite true that we must not overstep the bounds of common sense, but we must meet any peace moves with equal encouragement on our part. When the peace of the world is at stake we, not only as a nation but as individuals, must tread warily. Only by doing so can we continue to think of Easter as a time of great joy and thanksgiving.

The Essence

The attempt to understand is the first step toward valid civilization. Real understanding implies an attention to the essence of the object rather than to its externals. Unfortunately, concentration on essence often leads to a sterile kind of idealism. However, this concentration can lead to knowledge of the true nature of the object. External judgments are often unreliable because the superficial characteristic may be so composed as to be opposite to the essential characteristic or it may be unimportant when viewed in respect to the essential goal of the person considered. To take a broad example: Those who participated in the American Revolution were outwardly traitors, while at the same time they acted on principles which we commend.

Opposed to the sterile idealism attained by the over-concentration on essence, there is the narrow-minded hypocrisy reached by examining externals solely. We judge from our own essence (and we wish to be judged on our essence), hence how can we peacefully judge others on externals only? We consider our essence to be our true self; to judge others not for their true selves is narrow-minded and often hypocritical.

For example: The difference between judgment on essence and judgment on externals may be paralleled in Christianity's phrases, "The Fatherhood of God" and "The Kingdom of God". "The Fatherhood of God" embodies man in his common understanding, his common inheritance, and therefore, his common susceptibility to evil; entrance to or exemption from "The Kingdom of God" is through individual man's actions.

If we concentrate solely on the importance of man's essence we are brought to a standstill in metaphysical mid-air; if we concentrate solely on the significance of his actions we are lost in futility.

To turn from someone because of his actions (despite their unimportance in regard to time, despite their inaccuracy, despite the possibility that they may be a different means to our end), is to deny his inclusion in "The Fatherhood of God", to deny the stature of his essence. And which of us have that power?

—Mary Crow

It Says Here . . .

by Don Reiman

This column marks the beginning of a long series of what we hope will be newsy lines on the clubs of the College of Wooster. There are a good many organizations on campus whose total publicity and news coverage has been contained in the Scot Calendar and in chapel announcements. We would like to better this a little. If you are a member of one of the many departmental, interest, or honorary clubs on campus, and if your club is doing something that you think the student body would like to know about, get in touch with yours truly, all right?

To start things off this week we have a run-down of the 34th Annual Athletic Banquet. This banquet was held on Wednesday evening, April 8, 1953, at Smithville Inn. The dinner was a traditional Smithville chicken dinner, family style. Right here it is safe to say that nobody starved.

The program opened with Dr. Harold Dalzell pronouncing the invocation. Then Stuart Ling led a round of group singing. The featured portion of the program consisted of a symposium of distinguished speakers. Five men spoke on five different views of the current athletic program. First John R. Miller, sports editor of the Wooster Daily Record, spoke for the town. He was followed by Ralph Ely, president of the "W" Men, who talked on behalf of the alumni. Then three men who need no introduction, Dan DeArment, the Reverend James Blackwood, and Dr. Harold Lowry, gave the views of the students, the faculty, and the administration respectively.

The completed list of letter-winners was announced. Seventy-five "W"s were awarded to sixty-eight Wooster men for varsity athletics. Four managers also received monograms in recognition of their work.

Also on Wednesday evening, the International Relations Club met in Lower Babcock to hear Mr. John Hendrickson of the Political Science Department, who spoke on the Iron Curtain countries' view of a united Europe. Following the meeting refreshments were served, and Bill Gramberg, a sophomore from Riga, Latvia, introduced the social life from his part of Europe.

Westminster Fellowship this Sunday presents a challenging speaker. Those of you who enjoyed Dr. Jordan's talks during Religion in Life Week will not want to miss hearing Mr. A. J. Muste, National Secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation.

I've made up my mind to keep ahead in my work this semester.

We should be served a good dinner tonight after that lunch we had.

We can relax for a while, now that mid-terms are finished.

Things that make news at other colleges are many and varied this week. At Ohio State two students have been suspended for attempting to steal examination questions. At Michigan State, college officials have decided not to press charges against a student involved in a series of campus thefts, on the theory that he "needs treatment instead of punishment." The student stole articles having a total value of $5,800, $4,000 of which was photographic equipment.

This one comes from the Otterbein Tan and Cardinal, via the Akron Buchtelite. (Although we have had to switch phrases, we're sure that most of you will know what the original was.)

Frosh: "What do you mean by 'stirring up dust'?"

Soph: "To do that is to prevent the professor from realizing that you are saying nothing in a great many words."

Junior: "That's when you say little in a great many words so as to give the impression that you are familiar with what the test is covering."

Senior: "To stir up dust is to say as much as possible in well chosen words so as to convey the impression that you are familiar with the material under examination in spite of the fact that you have been unable to devote sufficient effort to study adequately an unduly difficult assignment."

The Michigan State News, with unconcealed pride, tells of a student who became so engrossed in reading that campus paper one day while walking to class that he walked right into a deep construction hole.

A survey taken at the University of Wisconsin refutes the statement that all girls come to college to catch a husband. Among the 600 coeds contacted by the survey only 68 were primarily interested in marriage as a career, while 154 were interested in jobs only and 369 were as much interested in jobs as in marriage.

This comes from the Wheaton (Illinois) Record and was written by the vocational counselor of that college who states that students are in a large part responsible for "cut and dried" courses. Says he, "Who did the drying? Admittedly some professors have a withering effect on a subject. But if you bring a fresh approach and attitude, you can restore a lot . . . do you . . . say to yourself 'What's in this course for me?' or do you say 'This boils down to fifteen pages to read for each assignment, one outside reading book and one term paper.' Do you look at the course as if you were an artist or a butcher?"

"If you reduce it to a skeleton . . . then I'd expect it to be a dry course. With that attitude you wouldn't even get a bang out of a course in Fireworks."

"So, if it's cut and dried—you've dried it, and brother-sister, you'll cut it."

WCW's Mr. Anonymous

by Marcia Lizza

It all started in Kenarden VI four years ago. In this section a little Marconi was groomed who went by the name of Mr. Anonymous. Mr. Anonymous and a group of his fellow classmates had an idea — an idea about a radio station. This endeavor would permit students to hear Broadway music, jazz, Bach, Lowry, and what have you from a campus radio station.

However, this was only an idea. Mr. Anonymous had many obstacles to surmount. If Marconi himself would have had one such obstacle, he would have given up in despair on wireless telegraphy and invented something like an automatic change of tires or push-button wipers for eyeglasses. There were no power wave lengths to use, no equipment, no approval, and no place for the station. However, this didn't stop Mr. Anonymous and his classmates. No, sir, sixth section doesn't give up that easily. (Their pledges know that.)

The first problem to solve was equipment. Mr. Anonymous inquired among his friends, some of whom were majoring in the physics department and do you know what? You guessed it. They built the cabinets, turn-tables, engineer's boards and all the complicated equipment needed for the station's operation. (With the exception of one power amplifier given to Wooster's WCW by Cleveland station WHK, all equipment has been constructed by the students themselves.)

Approval of the project was received and it was decided to operate the station on what is called "carrier current." This means it is projected on a regular electrical power line rather than the wave lengths commercial stations use. Taylor Hall was selected as the place to lodge the station and WCW was chosen as its name.

After much red tape, Mr. Anonymous found out that it was impossible to get credit for his endeavor. It was also made clear to him that the station would have to be self-supporting. Wooster is a liberal arts college and money cannot be granted for this particular field because it would then be considered a vocational training class. However the station could receive some funds from the Student Senate.

It was decided to broadcast an hour a night of up-to-the-minute news, classical music, disc-jockeying, occasional drama, and special events. (Today these same features are broadcast but the time is from 9 to 12 and on every night but Saturday.) Mr. Anonymous was told by the FCC (Federal Communications Commission) that he would be allowed to broadcast 24 hours a day. However, college restrictions limit programming so it does not distract personnel from doing college work.

The only restriction made by the Government, besides the ordinary rules governing any type of radio station, concerned the area which the station would serve. Power was to be held down where the productions could not be heard for a distance of more than 290 feet. (The station sometimes can be heard up at the "Point." However, that's a long 290 feet — about 10 blocks long.) Seriously, though, there is an occasional "leak" which can account for the above reference but there is seldom any complaint because the station is not a powerful one.

Well, finally, Mr. Anonymous sent out a call for his new station. Fifty students answered and the station was on its way. Each year a new station manager takes over the job of Mr. Anonymous and new ideas are put into operation that work for the betterment of the station. This year WCW completes its fourth year of operation and can compete with any other college station.

Your Privilege

Blood cannot be manufactured. You, as a volunteer blood donor, are the only source. There is no substitute. The blood which the students at the College donate will not only be used for service men, but also for local hospitals, veterans, and the manufacture of gamma globulin. The recent announcement concerning the addition of a new drug for combating polio, does not mean that there isn't a need for the manufacture of gamma globulin. A cessation in the supply of blood may mean that you or someone close to you will be crippled from polio.

If you are between the ages of 18 and 60, enjoying normal health, you can be a Volunteer Blood Donor. If you are between 18 and 21 you will need written consent of parent or guardian. Send home for that consent today. Sign up with your dormitory or Section representative. Yours is the privilege of being a partner in this humanitarian service. You will be proud to become one more person adding to the continuous success of your Blood Program. Don't forget your parental permission if you are between 18 and 21.

You will have an opportunity on April 27 to donate your blood. On April 20 and 21 Red Cross Representatives will be in the Union, from 7:30 to 10:00 in the evening, so that you can arrange for a suitable time for donation. Don't forget your permission.

Notice any changes in the "Voice?" With this issue the new staff takes over. I really mean "takes over." That is, the paper has "taken us over." Yours Truly is going to write this social column and I'd appreciate any social news (good, bad, or indifferent) that you can give me.

The past week has been filled with the return of the Scots and the cherry greeting "How was your vacation?" (what a question to ask!!) has left little time for social events.

Last Sunday, April 5, Pyramids held a breakfast and then went to Easter service together. Rolls were on the menu and because of a mistake made by an anxious delivery boy on Saturday, the rolls were delivered to the wrong house. About 10:00 p. m. Saturday the mistake was discovered by one anxious Pyramid who called the grocery store to ask why the rolls had not arrived. When they were finally rescued several had already been eaten by our canine friends who were celebrating their Easter breakfast a little early.

The Girls' Chorus tour seems to have been quite a success. Let them tell you about the time they stopped for dinner in a rather small town and the store wasn't quite equipped to handle 65 girls all at once. (Who would be?) So they all helped out by cooking, serving, and washing the dishes themselves.

The Outcrop

by Fred Cropp

The Wooster Scot spring athletic program gets under way Monday when John Swigart's baseballers play host to Mount Union. The golf squad will take to the home links against Ohio Northern Wednesday, and the tennis team has its first meet scheduled for Saturday when they journey to Alliance to play Mount Union. Track enthusiasts will be forced to wait until April 21 to see the thinclads in action.

* * * * *

Coach Phil Shipe has three lettermen returning from last year's golf team to form the nucleus for this season's linksters who will be out to better the 7-3 record compiled in 1952. Dave Augspurger, Ralph Ely, and Mel Riebe are the returning lettermen. Six other candidates including Jack Dowd and Bill Gurley, alternates on last year's squad, also answered Coach Shipe's call.

The golf candidates have been spending their time on the practice field or playing on the Hillcrest course while waiting for the College course to open.

Wooster plays five home matches this spring in addition to the eight away matches and the Ohio Conference match at Alliance on May 16.

* * * * *

Bob Buchan, Dave Cartlidge, Jim Lindsay, and Pete Vosteen are all back from last year's tennis team which won two, lost three, and finished fifth in the Ohio Conference meet. The tennis team was hampered throughout their season last spring by bad weather which frequently forced them from the courts.

While waiting for their home courts to dry out, Coach Mose Hole has had his tennis players practicing on the asphalt court in back of Kenarden and on the city courts.

* * * * *

Last Saturday the spotlight at Severance Gymnasium was entirely on football as Coach Phil Shipe staged the third annual football clinic. Approximately 142 coaches, reporters, players, and interested fans — the greatest number ever to attend a clinic — turned up at the festivities. Included in this number were 91 high school coaches from this area.

The clinic was aimed at the high school coaches who are faced with the problems of limited squads and facilities. According to Coach Shipe, Wooster merely provides the leadership for the clinic so that the coaches can get together to talk football and discuss their problems and interests.

In the morning session, following the registration at which coffee and doughnuts were served, the visitors were welcomed by Dean Tausch and Mose Hole before the series of speeches and discussions began. Joe Banks, head coach at Millersburg High School, was the first speaker and was followed by Bob Brownson from Portsmouth. Ed Sherman, athletic director and head football coach at Muskingum College, rounded out the morning's session.

The Afternoon Session got under way when Chuck Mather, head coach of the Massillon Tigers, who have been recognized as state champions of Ohio for the past five seasons, met a panel made up of coaches and newspaper men. Following the panel were speeches by Heber Meyers from Pottstown, Pa., Max Shaffer, an official from Ottawa, Ohio, and another talk by Ed Sherman.

The evening festivities were highlighted by a fish fry at which 124 attended entertainment by the Kopy Kats, a talk by Chuck Mather, and movies of Wooster's football highlights plus a technicolor, talking movie of the Massillon-Canton McKinley game.

Mather entertained the group talking about "The Positive Approach" with numerous humorous deviations about his coaching experiences. He referred to his first basketball team which was composed of four guys who had to "reach up to dribble" plus one big man who they had to bring up from the sixth grade to play. The big man was the type who could get eight or nine consecutive shots at the basket. His only defect was that he never made any of them. Mather related that they won their first game, but were upset in the remaining games of the season.

Several men from the College as well as two professors are competing in the YMCA Table Tennis League. Section VII-B composed of Eric Olsen and Ned Martin are currently in first place with a 38-7 record, while Section VII-A is close on their heels with 31-8. Jim Welsh and Joe Beebe play for VII-A.

Jack Munsee and Dick Watts, representing the Douglas Units, are in fourth place with a 12-12 record. Mr. Campbell and Mr. Davis of the Sociology Department are in seventh place with a 14-22 record. Section VI represented by Ralph Ely and Stan Slater are in last place with a 7-32 record.

Games are played every Thursday night. Each player competes in three single matches and then the teams play three doubles battles.

Scot Teams Start Spring Action

Thinclads Begin Drills Under Behringer; Baseball Nine Faces Mt. Union Monday; Six Returning Lettermen Bolster Squad

by Jay Cox

Taking over the coaching reins for the Wooster track squad, Jack Behringer has been working his team hard the past two weeks in preparation for the opening meet with Denison on April 21.

Twenty-five boys reported for practice after spring vacation, and have been working rapidly to get into shape. Only six lettermen are returning from last year's squad which placed second in the Ohio Conference meet. The Scots will be missing last year's captain, Dave Allison, who is the Conference titleholder of both the mile and two-mile distance races.

Two, Six, Eight Lead In Volleyball

Results of play in the intra-mural volleyball league have left Second, Sixth, and Eighth in a three-way tie for first place, with Third and Fifth tied for second slot and First, Fourth, and Seventh holding the bottom places.

On March 17, 8th trounced 1st 2-0 while 5th took 4th by an identical score. At the same time 2nd and 6th were edging 3rd and 7th 2-1. Just before vacation, on the 19th, 2nd beat 1st and 8th beat 7th to leave both teams undefeated. The score in both games was 2-0.

Returning from vacation, 3rd topped 4th 2-0, while 6th got by 5th 2-1. This left 6th also undefeated.

Play in the league will continue until April 21st. The standings now are:

	W.	L.
Second	2	0
Sixth	2	0
Eighth	2	0
Third	1	1
Fifth	1	1
First	0	2
Fourth	0	2
Seventh	0	2

Golf Schedule

April 15—Ohio Northern.
April 20—Kent at Kent.
April 24—Kenyon at Granville.
April 25—Denison.
April 28—Ohio Northern at Lima.
April 30—Mt. Union at Alliance.
May 1—Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware.
May 2—Akron.
May 6—Denison at Granville.
May 8—Heidelberg at Tiffin.
May 9—Fenn.
May 12—Oberlin at Oberlin.
May 16—Ohio Conference at Alliance.
May 20—Kenyon.

Heading the six returning lettermen is big Jack Hayward who will be out to retain his Conference titles in the shot-put and discus throw. Jack won the shot-put event at Denison a few weeks ago at the Conference indoor meet, and he will be out to break his own record in the discus which he set last year.

May Elected Captain

Dick May, who ran second to Allison most of last season, will be carrying Wooster's hopes in the distance events. Dick was elected captain of the squad this year at a meeting held last week.

Other lettermen include Bob Anderson whose specialty is the 440, hurdler Art Louch, dash-man Bill Prouty, and Bob Voelkel, high jumper and broad jumper.

Coach Behringer has strength in every event, but the main problem confronting him is the lack of depth. With only one or two men out for most of the events, those much needed second and third places will be missing.

The Scots face a tough schedule of eight meets beginning with Denison and ending with the conference meet at Oberlin on May 22 and 23.

The schedule:

April 21—Denison.
April 25—Hiram at Hiram.
April 28—Muskingum at New Concord.
May 2—Akron.
May 9—Oberlin.
May 13—Ohio Wesleyan.
May 15—Mt. Union at Alliance.
May 22, 23—Ohio Conference at Oberlin.

The lid comes off the Scots spring sports schedule Monday when John Swigart's nine faces Mount Union in Severance Stadium.

Six lettermen and three other members of last year's squad along with a group of promising newcomers have been working out every day since vacation pointing toward the opener.

WAA Sports Slants

California Jaunt — Heather Munson and Jo Slocum represented both Wooster and Ohio WAA's when they attended the Athletic Federation of College Women meeting at Stanford University March 24-27. The meeting was primarily a series of lectures and discussions on how to improve college WAA with well known speakers such as Ann Curtiss, the 1948 Olympic Swimming Champion.

* * * * *

Sphinx Jinx — The Sphinx copped the basketball championship for the second year in a row with virtually the same team. They beat out the Freshmen, Keys and Imps in that order. The squad was composed of Molly Harmon, captain, Nat Johnson, Ann Anderson, Barb Gwynn, Freddy Beam, Pat Lindbeck, Bobby Langdon, and Ruth Peterson.

* * * * *

This and That — Carolyn Venable promises lots of tennis activity as soon as the courts round into shape... The WAA is busy laying plans for the annual recognition banquet this spring... Don't forget co-ed badminton on Monday and Wednesday nights and bowling on Friday.

Returning Lettermen include Bud Barta at second base, Cliff Elliot, first base, Carl Fleming, outfielder, Keith Shearer, pitcher, Bill Stoner, shortstop, and Bob Baab, who did not play last year, but was an outfielder in 1951.

Also back from last year's team are Will Bowman, Al Rocco, and Derrill Smith.

Keith Shearer and By Morris will probably handle most of the pitching with several unproven freshmen also battling for a position on the mound squad.

At this writing very few positions had been clinched since Coach Swigart had had little time to see his prospective players in action.

Wooster also has two other home games this week when they entertain Kenyon on Thursday and Baldwin Wallace on Saturday.

April 13—Mt. Union.
April 16—Kenyon.
April 18—Baldwin Wallace.
April 22—Denison at Granville.
April 24—Baldwin Wallace at Berea.
April 30—Kenyon at Gambier.
May 2—Akron.
May 5—Oberlin.
May 8—Allegheny at Meadville.
May 9—Hiram.
May 13—Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware.
May 16—Oberlin at Oberlin.
May 18—Muskingum.
May 19—Mt. Union at Alliance.
May 21—Ashland.

Bradley Paper Wins Award At ACS Meeting

A delegation from Wooster attended a meeting of Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society along with students from sixteen other colleges of Ohio and western Pennsylvania. This fourth annual meeting was held at Case during spring vacation on March 27 and 28.

Those representing Wooster's chemistry department were Betty Goff, Mildred Bradley, Gil Ogawa, Jack Graham, Dick Swain, Dr. John Chittum, Dr. John Reinheimer, and Dr. William Kieffer. These meetings were originated by the Wooster Student Affiliate Chapter here in 1950, to enable students to receive the opportunity to gain valuable experience by preparing and presenting papers, broaden their knowledge of chemistry by learning what other students are doing, and in addition, become acquainted with chemistry students from other colleges.

Mildred Bradley, junior, received as one of the awards given for the five most outstanding paper presentations, a copy of Tange's Handbook of Chemistry. Her paper was entitled, "The Second Inner" Transition Series of Elements.

confirmed Trotskyite.
But in the summer of 1935 Muste went to see Trotsky, then exiled in Norway. He was troubled by the discovery that oppression no more converted the oppressed than it did the oppressor. At first enthusiastic, Muste was soon disillusioned, and in five weeks time he returned to the United States to re-enter the church whose ideals he had never surrendered.

Now convinced that Marxism only leads to war, by accepting the way of violence, and that only the forces of God can summon the complete devotion of men to achieve righteousness and brotherhood, Muste has returned to confront the church with the crisis of our race today, urging it to recognize and accept its responsibility.
