Orahood And Watts Debate Proposition With Oxford Team

The debate team of Oxford University of London will be the guest of the College of Wooster on November 2, at 8:15 p.m. in the chapel. The proposition of this annual international debate for this session will be: "Communist objectives in the United States are being promoted by those who have usurped the anti-communist cause."

Nancy Orahood and Richard Watts will represent Wooster in the negative. The affirmative will be taken by the Oxford team of Derek Bloom and Peter Tapsell.

Derek Bloom

Both of these men are the presidents of their respective debating societies and editors of their school magazines, in addition to having served in the army. The public is cordially invited to attend this event.

Senate Changes Voting Procedure

At its Monday night meeting, the Student Senate decided to change the voting procedure used in all college elections. The alterations voted upon run like this:

On election day, all candidates are to be introduced in the morning chapel. Having arrived at the election room, each person will sign his name prior to voting. Contrary to the former system, the Senate voted to put locked ballot boxes into use. Immediately after the counting, the election results will be given to the student body over the college radio station, WCW, and all candidates will be

CROWNING OF DOGPATCH KING HIGHLIGHTS WEEKEND DANCE

Sponsored by the YWCA, Wooster's annual Sadie Hawkins' Day Dance will be held Saturday, October 30, from 8:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. in the gym. Selma Hokanson and Bob O'Meara have announced that Phil Mason's band will supply the music.

SCC Group Plans Brotherhood Meals

Brotherhood meals were an important topic at the Student Christian Council meeting last Tuesday evening. The group will ask the student body to vote for or against a monthly Brotherhood Meal, and also to make a preferential choice of three agencies to receive the funds from these meals if they are accepted. The SCC has chosen the Inner City Protestant Parish in Cleveland, the Save the Children Foundation, and the World University Service. A 75 percent affirmative vote is necessary for this brotherhood program to pass.

Chuck Eaton, chairman of the SCC Fund Campaign, announced that $2219.28 had been turned in by campus solicitors to date. He said that by November 6 the remaining student and faculty contributions should be in and tabulated.

Will Poll Campus

Beth Irwin reported that the Religion-in-Life Committee will be polling a cross-section of the campus about their opinions on the Religion-in-Life program in the near future. James Stoner, who spoke in chapel this morning and who will be on campus through this evening, is advising the committee.

The Wooster-in-India committee report, given by Betty Romig, said that the appointment of the successor to Dick Brubaker, Wooster's present India representative, would be made before April 1955, thus giving the person one year to prepare himself for his two year period abroad.

Committees Report

President Dave Little called for the reports of various other committees of the SCC. Jordan Dickinson discussed the work of the commissions of UCF and announced an All Saints' Eve service on Sunday evening, October 31. The UCF and YWCA plan to hold joint discussions to clarify their roles as non-denominational organizations on the campus. The David Brainerd Society has collected a great deal of material concerning church vocations, Terry Bard reported. IVCF has made plans to go to their fall conference this week-end.

During the business discussion the group considered the possibilities of a college religious co-ordinator and the concise definition of his role. The duties and restrictions of the position were discussed, but no definite decision has been made. A committee was named to formulate a statement on the matter.

The meeting was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Iver Yeager. Jim Lindsay, student elder of Westminster Church, and Anne English, president of Freshman Forum, were introduced to the group as new members.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the crowning of a Dogpatch king, elected by the coeds. Candidates are Dick Dickerman, First Section; Pete Mortenson, Second; Mac Hazel, Third; George Dawkins, Fourth; Rod Buckson, Fifth; Al Wasson, Sixth; Milt Khoolgarian, Seventh; Ned Peachy, Eighth; and Tennessee Watson, freshman candidate.

In order to give a Halloween air and autumn spirit to the dance, the gym will be transformed into a barn. Nancy Johnston and Nancy Peters are co-chairmen of decorations. There will be judging of costumes and corsages. John Buechner and Ned Peachy will provide entertainment during the evening. Kay Demmon, Tom Justice, Alice Wishart, Tom Hill, Marion Golding, and Jim Landes are in charge of refreshments.

Tickets are on sale for $1.00 per couple in each women's dormitory. Marty Emmons and Mary Frank, co-chairmen of the Ticket Committee, are selling tickets in the Annex; Susie Taggart, Bowman; Peg Lamont, Miller; Mary Haupt, Westmister; Carolyn Fisher, Hoover; Sally Underwood, Babcock; and Shirley Seidel, Holden.

Chaperones for the evening are Dr. and Mrs. Baird, Dr. and Mrs. Peyton, Mr. and Mrs. Hauge, and Dr. and Mrs. Schreiber.

Joan Craig, Jane Bancroft, Carol Thomas, Sue Bender, Eleanor Norfleet, and Gail Steinhoff are responsible for the posters and other publicity for the occasion.

Production Class Lists Cast Leads

The casts for "Amahl and the Night Visitors" and "Trial By Jury" have been announced by the operetta production class. The part of the judge in "Trial By Jury" will be portrayed by Walter Bushnell. The plaintiff, who takes her sweetheart to court for breach of promise, will be played by Pris Cortelyou, and Edwin, the defendant, by John Wilson. Dave Little will act in the role of the usher who shows partiality to the plaintiff, and George Hillocks will take the role of the foreman of the jury.

Frank Ellsworth, youngest son of Professor and Mrs. Clayton S. Ellsworth, has been chosen from approximately 40 young boys to portray the boy soprano role of Amahl in "Amahl and the Night Visitors". Frank, who was eleven on his last birthday, is a sixth grade student at the Beall Avenue School. He has been a member of

by SHEILA McISAAC

The calendar has been full this week, with girls' club meetings taking up most of the space. Why club initiation and mid-semester examinations seem to hit the same days I'll never know. All the dancing, football playing, and general running around that we pledges have been doing ought to take care of our exercise problems for awhile. I've always wanted to be distinctive, and if carrying a pail of jelly beans and balloons makes one distinctive, I've succeeded.

On the male side of the ledger, rushing has just begun in force. Most of the sections have had their smokers and are now planning other rush functions. Sixth got an early start with their County Fair last Saturday. Bob Loebell made quite a hit telling fortunes. Cider and doughnuts were served to the always-hungry Woosterites attending.

Eighth Section held a Bar-B-Que for the present members and their dates. The meal consisted of beef, potato chips, cider, and beans, among other things. Bob McQuilken led group singing around a bonfire to conclude the evening.

While we're talking about meals, the French department sponsored a picnic Thursday night. The main dish was the famous Paris food, hot dogs. (That was a sad attempt to inject humor.)

THE CHATTER BOX

by DON REIMAN

Chuck Eaton's girl goes to Dickinson College. In saying this, I am not trying to initiate a gossip column into the pages of the VOICE. It's just a trick to introduce my topic for this week. The fact is that through his contact with Dickinson, Chuck came up with a very fine idea last spring, and now is the time to give it the publicity it deserves.

Dickinson College has a glee club which is slightly different from ours. They have no paid, professional director, but are led by one of the students. It is a small, select group of singers, too. Evidently they come from all parts of the male student body, and they combine their talents because they really like to sing together. At any rate, this group has recorded two 45 r.p.m. records on which are preserved all the Dickinson fight songs, their alma mater, songs from other colleges (Amherst's famous fight song), and selections from The Student Prince.

What does all this have to do with Wooster? Well, Wooster has every spring an event known as the Men's Association Serenade Contest. About 275 men under eight directors sing 24 songs, and do a creditable job of it. Last year's event was acknowledged to be the best in years around here, and it was pretty good as a whole. Of course it didn't run competition with the Robert Shaw Chorale, but then again Shaw doesn't have to try to pull music out of people who are tone-deaf. What I'm trying to say is that this school has a lot of men who can sing (some of whom aren't in the glee club or the choirs), and at least a few men who can direct a choral group of the serenade singing variety.

So back to Chuck Eaton and his idea. Chuck thought that it would be a good idea if the better singers of the different sections would get together sometime, perhaps soon after the Serenade Contest, and form a short-term glee club. This group would not try to compete with Mr. Trump's fine organization, but would exist only to do one thing—record Wooster's songs for campus sale. This doesn't mean just the alma mater and the fight song either, but all the traditional campus favorites, as well as section songs. One doesn't have to be in First to enjoy singing the Beta song, Third to join in on "Hello, My Wooster College Baby", or Fourth to harmonize on "Phi Omega Rose".

You may be wondering why I chose this time of year to bring up an idea like this. It seems to me that the spring is perhaps not the best time to carry out a program of this scope. After the contest there are section formals, I. S. dealines, and other time-consuming activities (not all of which are academic). Most of the sections put on Christmas serenades, and the newly activated freshmen would be able to find their places in the musical arrangement of the sections at this time. Maybe the section song leaders could then get together and decide what talent they had at their disposal. Next a Men's Association song leader would be chosen, and someone else would be commissioned to arrange the music. By the beginning of the second semester the group should be ready to start rehearsals. These would last for about three weeks, maybe more, and then the first record could be made. Later on either the same group, or a similar group could practice the remaining songs chosen and record those. The first record should contain the all-college songs, and the second record should be made up of the best songs of each section. The records would be ready for sale by the time of the Serenade Contest, and they would go like hot-cakes.

Voice Of A Young Republican . .

by Jim Lindsay

This is the voice of a very, very young Republican. I have been a member of the party about two weeks. I have always considered myself a Democrat; but I am switching sides now in order to help assure an Eisenhower Congress.

My purpose here is to give as clearly as possible the reasons for my decision. Perhaps they may carry some weight with other disillusioned Democrats.

I have been a Democrat because I am in internationalist, and the Democrats have stood for internationalism. I have always been opposed to the welfare state philosophies of the Roosevelt and Truman administrations; but in spite of this I remained loyal to the party because I considered isolationism a greater evil than semi-socialism. In addition, I had hoped that men like Byrd of Virginia and Johnson of Colorado, disciples of the true Democracy of Thomas Jefferson, might someday win control of the organization.

Obviously this hope was illusory. Today the Democratic party is firmly in the grip of "Soapy" Williams, Hubert Humphrey, Paul Douglas, and other "big government" advocates. Furthermore, the Republicans, led by President Eisenhower and John Foster Dulles, have firmly committed their party to an international foreign policy.

A speech given by Paul Douglas on a Moline, Illinois, street corner crystallized my decision to become a Republican. He was ranting and raving about the "Wall Street boys" who were causing unemployment. Senator Douglas is a former economics professor; and as such he should know that Wall Street is a useful and essential part of our economy and that to picture it as the root of all evil is mere Communist-line demagoguery. He is no doubt aware that Averill Harriman, Democrat candidate for governor of New York, is a Wall Streeter par excellence. I cannot join Senator Douglas in condemning him on that account.

Let's face it. Some unemployment is inevitable in a free economy. If you leave the consumer free not to buy, there will be times when some industries will not be able to sell their products and will have to lay off workers.

World War II solved the unemployment problem which the New Deal had been unable to cope with. In my opinion the Eisenhower administration is doing a masterful job of easing the transition from a war to a peace economy with only a fraction of the unemployment that existed under the New Deal.

As the Democrats suggest, there is a way to insure complete employment. That is for the government to control industry and insure jobs for everyone. One word describes this situation—socialism.

I do not say that the Democrats are socialists. I do emphatically say that the policies which they are advocating because of political expediency will inevitably lead to socialism.

The future of our free economy belongs with President Eisenhower and his "middle of the road" philosophy, not with the apostles of "cradle to the grave security". If there are some of you who have the courage to face life without the hairy paw of "big brother" for support, then vote Republican, for President Eisenhower and free enterprise.

Exhibit Features Modern Layouts

by Marilyn Roth

The first art show of the season stars Noel Martin of Cincinnati. This design exhibit, in Josephine Long Wishart Museum on third floor Galpin, includes Mr. Martin's commercial lay-outs in modern art. Most of his pieces are for book covers, brochures, and magazine layouts for various industries.

Robert H. Luck, Curator of the Cincinnati Art Museum, speaks of Martin as a "Resident designer who, in the space of a few years, has achieved national reputation. In March 1954, Noel Martin was included in New York's Museum of Modern Art exhibition, 'Four American Graphic Designers'."

Educated in the fine arts, at first he refused any jobs that concerned commercial lay-out. However, he later agreed that this belief was a form of "art school snobbery" and that fine art could be applied to commercial work. Now he feels that there should be no separation between fine arts and utilitarian art.

His work is colorful, unusual, and esthetic. Anyone interested in design should not miss this show. It will be taken down the third week in November.

Annual Exam Set By Civil Service

Announcement has been made by the U. S. Civil Service Commission of the annual examination for Junior Management Assistant. Its purpose is to bring into the government those young men and women who show outstanding promise of developing into future administrators. Initial assignments may be as management assistants engaged in program analysis and planning; or as management services technicians in organization and procedure studies, or budget preparation, or personnel recruitment, placement, position classification, and training.

The closing date for application is November 30. The written examination is January 8. See Mr. Barrett for announcements and application forms.

WOOSTER VOICE SPORTS

Scots 'n Soda

by PAUL MARTIN

Nobody can say that they played a poor game. "They" of course meaning the Wooster Scots. They know, to a man, that they were up for last week's game. Everyone knows that they wanted to win. They fought as desperately as any team has ever fought to win a football game.

The Scots were outclassed in personnel all the way. No one knows it better than Coach Shipe. You can't just look at the line-up and say, "Here is the man who cost us a defeat." There was more to it than that.

Muskingum had the distinct and unique advantage of being able to put two full teams of players on the field at different times and each was capable of whipping the Black and Gold. They had the material and the ability.

As we sat in the press box last Saturday and tallied the day's events into permanent records, we listened to experienced writers say that it was a game between David and Goliath—but there was a catch—this time David didn't quite make it.

After the final gun, the remarks we heard were different. If this player had done this—if Shipe had seen that. Why, it's the easiest thing in the world to sit back and second-guess after your favorite has been whipped. But just try sometime to run the show yourself. Then it's a horse of a different color.

Saturday the armchair coaches will get another crack at their home squad. We'll sit back and hope that it's not our boys who will have to take it in the teeth, but who knows? It could as easily be you.

Rose Bowl here we come! If those Buckeyes come through, yours truly will set a new precedent and write the first sport's page for this paper from the West Coast.

Ohio State rolled last week and the next three games look like tough ones for the Buckeyes. Northwestern leads the trio and they could be the roughest of all after the romp over Wisconsin last week. Then come the Boilermakers of Purdue led by Lenny Dawson. Anything is possible here. The last game of the Big Ten season will feature Michigan at Ohio State. Needless to say, we won't even open our eyes until that one's over.

We think it quite safe to predict from our seat of pins that the Buckeyes will sweep by three touchdowns tomorrow. If they don't we'll be packing our bags early—ready to look for another way to the Rose Bowl.

Lou Boudreau, the former manager of the Cleveland Indians and the Boston Red Sox, made known a few of his personal ideas earlier this week. The most interesting of these is that Ted Williams will be back to play ball next spring. The Splendid Splinter has supposedly already purchased his equipment for '55. See you in Florida, Ted.

The Scot Harriers were supposed to meet Akron in an Ohio Conference cross-country match last Monday but the Zip runners never showed up. Coach Munson will take his boys into a meet with Slippery Rock this afternoon on the Wooster course.

Muskies Score Five Times On Aerials; Scot Pass Defense Crumbles In Rout

Sparked by the passing of quarterback Joe McDaniel, Muskingum spilled Wooster last Saturday by a score of 41-7. The Homecoming victory for the Muskies was their sixth straight defeat of a Scot team.

McDaniel scored one touchdown himself and passed for the other five as the Muskies blasted the defensive dreams of the Black and Gold. The aerials were good for totals of 63, 62, 60, 20 and 28 yards. A sweep around the right end was good for six yards and the other score.

Muskingum is now tied for the conference lead with three victories and one tie. Heidelberg is the other leading team. Wooster now carries a 1-2 record. Including non-conference tilts, the Muskies are 4-1-1, and the Scots 3-2. Wooster plays their third straight away game tomorrow when they meet the Akron Zips in the Rubber Bowl. Muskingum will be traveling to Columbus where they tackle Capital University.

McDaniel completed nine of 11 tosses for a total of 203 yards. Muskingum carried away an edge of 197-113 yards in rushing and a 203-68 margin in passing for a total of 400-181 yards gained.

A solid line forced the Muskies to take to the air early in the game. It was because of the strong Wooster forward wall that the pressure was applied to the pass defense.

Co-Captain Dick Jacobs and fullback Bob Bush furnished the only offensive power that the Scots could muster as they were thrown back consistently. It was on a sweeping run by Jacobs that the lone Wooster score was set up. The stocky halfback raced through the Muskie secondary for 48 yards. On the very next play quarterback Ted Hole passed to end Bill Kardos in the end zone for five yards and the tally. Harry Hummel booted the conversion.

Except for a few brief flurries in the second half, Wooster was unable to move the ball. Muskingum managed to score twice but both sides were forced to punt to move the ball out of their own territory. Wooster had the advantage frequently because of infractions called in their favor, but they weren't able to capitalize on their gains.

Phi Delts Smash Seventh and First; Remain Unbeaten In League Contests

Fifth Section rolled on as the only unbeaten football team in the Kenarden League as they whipped Seventh Section 24-0 and then trounced the Betas of First Section by a score of 48-0.

The Phi Delts were in command of the situation all the way as they passed their way to an easy win over the Tri Kaps. Led by the quarterbacking of By Morris and the quick sprints of Dick Ogden, Fifth scored three times before they finally succeeded in making a touchdown count. The first two attempts were called back because the receiver was out of the end zone.

In the contest with First Section last Monday, Fifth led by only 12-0 at halftime but then poured on the heat as the score mounted rapidly in the second half.

Only three of the eight touchdowns by the Phi Delts came as a result of runs—directly at least. One of these was tallied by the quarterback sneak of Dick Milligan late in the second period. The ball was plunged from the two yard line.

By Morris passed for two touchdowns. Dick Ogden and Jim Landes each scored two, and the left linebacker George Kim intercepted a pass and raced 35 yards for the final touchdown of the game.

The two victories firmly established Fifth's hold on first place as the Kenarden League entered into its last week of play.

Elsewhere in the intramural field, Third Section spilled the Tri Kaps by a score of 12-0. Both of the Rabbis' touchdowns came as a result of passes with Lou Lecocq tossing to Dave Vandersall and Ed Moore for the markers.

WAA Hockey Team Meets Mt. Union

The WAA Hockey team will play against Mt. Union on Saturday, November 6. To play this game and the others scheduled, girls will have to attend at least one practice every week. Anyone interested should contact her dormitory WAA sports manager.

On Tuesday, October 26, the WAA had its annual election. It has been decided to have one representative from Hoover and one girl to represent the off-campus dormitories.

The volley ball tournament started Tuesday, October 25. There are two leagues. League One consists of Imps, Independents, Bowman, Trumps and Second Floor Hoover. League Two is made up of Peanuts, Sphinx, Faculty, Mixed Freshmen, and Pryamids.

Sharks has started weekly practice sessions on Monday and Wednesday nights, from 8:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.

Blood donors are reminded that scheduling for Wooster's Blood Donor Day will take place on Monday and Tuesday, November 1 and 2 from 7 to 9:30 p.m. in the Student Union.
