But weighing, kitchen waste attacked

MacDonald calls ‘Food Ecology’ a success

By Bill Hooley

Food Service next week will discontinue weighing garbage to determine the amount of food waste. According to Food Service Director Ted MacDonald, the garbage-weighting has served its purpose and has shown the Food Ecology program to be, so far, a success.

Food Service figures show the total waste in the dining halls has declined by about one-third. Food waste per week in Lowry has declined from 3,776 pounds to 2,683, a saving of 1,093 pounds. In Kittredge the figure has gone from 763 pounds to 357, saving 406 pounds.

MacDonald said that “I didn’t expect this much savings,” and commented that he was highly pleased with the students’ response. He cited many favorable comments from students on the program.

Asked about the cost of the garbage-weighting project, MacDonald said that the cost was “minimal” at most, since nobody worked overtime to do the weighing job. He admitted that the weighting required “greater effort on the part of the people in the dish crew” and that those people might not have liked it. “But,” MacDonald said, “it didn’t work for a particular reason.” But he felt that the garbage-weighting had been of definite value.

A dissenting view came from Beth Woodrow, a dish-crew employee, who said that the weighting had been “a pain in the neck,” not worth the trouble it caused.

Another Food Service employee suggested that waste in the kitchens was at least as great as that caused by the students and that nothing being done about it. Woodrow confirmed that, while she thought kitchen waste was not as great as student waste, there was still room for improvement.

However, MacDonald claimed that it is “ridiculous” to believe that kitchen waste is still a problem. The program to eliminate kitchen waste started sooner and has been more extensive, he said, than the student-centered “Food Ecology” program; and there is no longer a “significant amount” of food waste from that quarter.

Told that some people doubt whether the figures given out on food waste are accurate, MacDonald said rather bitterly that “I don’t understand why some people assume that Food Service is dishonest” and asked how people thought it would profit anyone.

MacDonald hopes to turn the Food Ecology program over to the students next year. Previous experience elsewhere with such programs, he says, has shown that they are most successful when run solely by students. He believes that the Food Service Committee of SGA may be able to take over the program.

Asking whether he felt there might be any “backlash” against the program, with students becoming annoyed or resentful about the signs and publicity and deliberately ignoring them, MacDonald said he doubted any such reaction was occurring. He agreed that students who avoid wasting food normally might be amoyed at constantly being reminded to do what they do anyway, but he does not believe this will turn them against the idea of the program.

Students show three kinds of basic attitude toward food waste, MacDonald believes. There are the normal non-wasters, as noted above.

There are the conscious, deliberate wasters, such as the boy MacDonald once saw take six dishes of ice cream, eat part of one and put the rest back in the dish rack untouched. Asked why he did this, the boy replied “I pay for the damn stuff, and I’ll take what I want.” MacDonald doubts that the Food Ecology program can do much about this kind of waste.

And then there are the more or less unconscious wasters, at whom the program is largely aimed. MacDonald notes that “in cafeteria lines, a lot of people’s eyes are bigger than their capacity for consumption!” Many people take more than they can eat thinking that they want it, and end up leaving the remainder as food waste. The Food Ecology program is meant primarily to remind these people to be more careful to take only what they can actually use.

The Food Ecology program here is part of a national program developed jointly by Michigan State University and the Coca-Cola company (which provides the program to the University free of charge), MacDonald says. Some of the advertising is paid for by the Coca-Cola company, while the University is paid for administering the program.

Whatever the results of the Food Ecology program, incidentally, they may not be reported in any further Food Service Bulletins, MacDonald said. He got a mixed reaction on his newsletters and does not plan at present to issue any more. Asked whether the appearance of a fake parody food bulletin in a while back had any effect on the decision, he claimed never to have seen the parody or even known of its existence, and said that he would love to see a copy.

Mme. Pandit asks for balanced view of India

By Margaret Pfitzka

It came as a major surprise to many of us here at the College that Madame Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, a former President of the United Nations General Assembly, was teaching the spring quarter on campus as a visiting lecturer.

Mme. Pandit, who is the sister of India’s late Prime Minister, Jawaharlal Nehru, is herself an important figure in international politics. Among the several diplomatic positions she has held have been ambassadorships to the United States, the U.S.S.R, and the United Kingdom. She also participated in many sessions in which the original charter of the United Nations was drafted, and served as the President of its General Assembly in 1953-54. In addition, she and her late brother played an important role in India’s struggle for independence. Both served long prison terms during this struggle.

Mme Pandit is teaching a course in the Political Science Department entitled ASIAN FOREIGN POLICY here at Wooster this quarter, as well as delivering a series of Food lectures on contemporary Indian affairs. The two remaining lectures of the series are entitled “Progress and Problems of Contemporary India” and “The Indus Valley,” and they will be delivered on May 20 and June 8 respectively. Both lectures are to be held at 7:45 in the Lean Lecture Room.

When asked to comment on her impressions of American students, Mme Pandit said that she is currently finding Wooster students to be quite well informed about India. “I have been amazed at the awareness, not only of students in my class, but of other students to whom I have deliberately talked,” she said.

She enjoys meeting and talking with Wooster students, and has entertained groups of up to thirty in her home.

She expressed concern, however, that the general American public may be getting a one-sided interpretation of India. “India is being interpreted now by the yellow media, the swami who are seldom the best representatives of Atma, ambitions and destinies—the things that have made the world one. When you sit down with a group of people, you find so much similarity,” she said, and continued on page four.
VOICE rapped for not writing news or views

To The Editor!

Fellow readers of the VOICE: I do not know what you think of our college newspaper, but in my mind, I find the VOICE deplorable. Week after week, this travesty continues to be published.

Have you ever noticed what is contained in the VOICE? Reviews. There are record reviews, play reviews, popular music reviews, and movie reviews. There are enough reviews in the VOICE to convince people that nothing occurs on our fair campus.

But there is news here, things happen on campus, by reading the VOICE, chances are you would not know what is going on, (I often think that those running the VOICE don't know what is going on, I assume that it must be hard to review the present or things to come, so therefore little mention of immediate issues is made.

What can be done to improve the VOICE? One immediate answer would be to fire the editors for negligence of duty. But I doubt that would accomplish much. (Relax Rich, I'm not out for revenge."

Another possibility might be to incorporate the paper. Since the VOICE is a part of the College of Wooster, laws seriously effect the stands the VOICE may take on political or controversial issues. (Ever wonder why the VOICE did not endorse Brian Ross? They can't. If they did the College would run the risk of losing their tax exempt status.)

Incorporation would not raise some financial and alumni hassles, but it would permit better speech on important issues.

Or maybe the VOICE should offer to "pay" its writers. Retribution could be made in cash (per article) or for credit as is done in theatre or radio workshops. The competition for article acceptance would almost assure the VOICE of having plenty of informative, interesting material to print.

Finally the VOICE could be sold by subscription. That way they would have to print what people want, not what their writers prefer to pound out.

I may prove simpler would be to leave the VOICE as it is, and print an alternative paper. To my knowledge there is presently an irregularly published newsletter for Blacks, written by Blacks. This I see as a direct result of the VOICE's obvious lack of minority reporting. But why should we have two papers? Why have the VOICE if it is so lackadaisical, so pointedly, so just plain second rate?

That is the irony of the situation. We don't need the VOICE. We don't need the VOICE as it presently is, but it might be. The VOICE might be, it very well could be, a thought provoking, stimulating paper, with interviews, and exposes, wild ideas and special interest stories, personal advocation of what is not always proper or popular, cartoon strips, minority reporting and even (gasp) reviews. How the VOICE could be - a truly informative paper. With a few changes, the VOICE could be something better than the present review laden, lobotomized, ineffectual entity that it is.

Oddly enough... Carl Ketchum

Love return is always right forgiveness

To the Editor:

People get so involved in so many conflicts, frequently trivial, that they too often fail to make the effort to realize that there is a common bond (love) between everyone which can patch things up. Love is like glue, the more you use the stronger the bond. Why are we so afraid to offer love even with a smile (much more interesting than the headline): "Black's Section? They are only more frightened.

We think but do we really think? We think but do we ever act? We see faults elsewhere but do we look for and attempt to correct those within ourselves? Must we ridicule? Do we care enough to discipline ourselves? We can show one another that we need not be afraid and help each other with love. This is possible. Each of us has a chance. For all my friends and especially those in particular who have helped me find the way during those long talks. Wendy G., Linette, and Holly.

If we are rejected, ridiculed, or taken advantage of, it happens all over again and again. But one thing is certain, to do the same in return is no solution. It never has been, love in return, always the right, forgiveness. This is the only hope for a real solution, it is hard and we do get hurt. Can't we offer Mother strength? - For Paul.

Dear Deep Thought: You are so right. (who doesn't?) But you are caring, searching, and reaching out. Keep beating, love and love.

Ever noticed the difference between the before and after someone becomes a good friend? Every wished the "after" kind of caring would be obvious in the life of yourself or someone else during the "before", to be shown without having to inquire that somebody thought it important enough to work and take risks in order to reach out and touch another? to go beyond. - For Duane.

Let us help each other fight fear caused by ignorance and begin to become aware. Let us become united through love.

Lisa Kane

Deep Thought

They tell me I don't think deeply. Ah, that's a fact! I've heard it said: How can you expect anyone to listen to you-—let alone READ you—when your vehicle is the VOICE? Ah, yes, this seems a trite question, most articles seem to lose something (except for sport) by being associated with the VOICE.

But so what? I've tried and shall continue to go on in different modes, Expanding energy in different ways, to explain the unexplainable...love.

So you may not hear from me after this week, unless I get inspired. Like everyone leaving this place next month, I'm in no mood to care anymore, Greener fields lie (lay) ahead.

How is it possible to find among the acts of men those of the highest and most imaginative order alongside the cruelest and vulgar actions against himself.

Surely neither these heights or depths could possibly be reached if the were naturally of the one or the other. It stands, then, that man is neither naturally of neither. Only from one stance could both positions be held.

Man is basically and most naturally mediocre. Hence, it being so recognized that it is basically mediocre, and this in turn being acknowledged as equivalent to anything-being equal, it is obvious that no outside influence affect's a man's attainment of heights or depths, for he attains both with a regularity and a balance, showing no inclination of preference for one or the other, that defies any hint of applied influence. From this it follows that God, apparently in no manner affecting mankind for better or worse, is himself mediocre.

For, unlike the terminology of 'mediocre man,' a mediocre god is internal mental structures, regardless of his purpose, aims, or influence. Hence, we do not recognize God's lack of mediocrity and shall identify him now as merely indifferent, for in no other way can seemingly impossible contradictions be seized.

This is written only to say: Life is a joke, and if you realize it as such, it is no longer a joke. Life is full of contradictions and screwy events (chance) which mess up our internal mental structures. But if you realize all this and say, "so what," everything becomes a joke to make sense, and the joy of living becomes obvious, and easy. When a man is trying to make a joke.

But it only causes further pain, You realize that all along.

Something in us is going wrong.

(Pete Townsend)
Play was bitter sweet, serious, comic, happy

by John Hamlin

Last weekend Wooster audiences were charmed by the Little Theatre's production of Leonard Gerseh's BUTTERFLIES ARE FREE. The show, which made its place in Pepper- nia, Arena Theatre of Severance Art Studios, was bitter sweet, serious much of the time, yet manage to be quite comic and end happily.

Director Pam Sprosty, assisted by Mark Landis, did a fine job with a good cast and script. She showed consistent very well action of language of what level of comic action is most proper for each moment of the play. From choice of script to down to details of production, she has demonstrated remarkable talent.

The use of Severance Arena Theatre for BUT- TERFLIES was effective. With a set designed by Bill Doyle, the audience came much closer to the world of the lyrical and psychologically, some people may be bothered by the arena type seating of Severance; you either like it or you don't.

The dialogue of BUTTERFLIES requires precise and appropriate timing by the actors. The entire cast showed a good sense of timing throughout the play. The acting was consistently good.

As the hard, rude, obnoxious Ralph, Evan Reynolds was very enjoyable. Unfortunately, he is another who will leave Wooster without being seen enough on its stage.

Juniorita Erle Mills and Pam Pepper were superb. Their scene together was the most powerful scene in the show. Erle (Mrs. Baker) made a hard, but successful transition in insisting that Don, who had been apparently jilted by his volatile neighbor Jill, stay in his apartment and tire out. In returning to Don, Pam (Jill Tanner) had an impossible, unbelievable change in character to make, but carried it off rather well. The entire show, particularly during the first act, I was struck by how well Bruce Browne, the actor to play, was playing, but he handled the difficult part of Don, playing a blind character. He kept it up for two acts is really quite tough. Bruce sweet moment, called for by the script and stressed by Pam Sprosty's direction of Bruce Browne, then Jill Tanner comes back to the act and the play ends on a happy, but romanticized and unrealistic note. Although there is some preparation for this ending, it seems out of tune with the objectivity of the rest.

Rapp blends fiction, fantasy, poetry in songs

“My life is like the young man
Dead in space again
Risen and abandoned
Above the grace of rain
The magic flowers of Mars
They see so far from me
The visions of their crystal petals
I shall never see”

—Tom Rapp, “For the Dead in Space”

Tom Rapp is a musician of another era. I sometimes think he belongs among Medieval troubadours, singing to knights and nobles. While most folk-singers today are singing about country roads or living in the city, Rapp continues to create the songs which have made him so unique among folk musicians. Rapp blends science fiction, fantasy and poetry into his songs. The result is music which not only conveys a poetical message, but also creates a mood for the listener.

Tom Rapp began recording albums in 1967, when he was nineteen years old. His first albums, ONE NATION UNDERGROUND and BALACLAVA, were recorded on ESP Records, a small folk and jazz label which is well-known to music fans for its high-quality and willingness to record new music. Rapp performed the Pearls Before Swine band during this time. Although the band changed personnel with almost every album, they continued to record with Rapp. The Pearls were really little more than studio musicians who played behind Rapp.

Although Rapp's first two albums were not commercial successes, they were extremely well-received by music critics. Rapp's unique vocal sound and his ability to handle lyrical and musical work won him a recording contract with Jem/Reprise Records. Rapp recorded five albums on Reprise: THESE THINGS TOO, THE USE OF ASHES, CITY OF GOLD, BEAUTIFUL LIES YOU COULDN'T LIVE TH, and FAMILIAR SONGS. Rapp produced and mastered works on Reprise. He recorded a song version of Ray Bradbury's famous science-fiction story "Rocket Man." He also put to music works by W. H. Auden, J.R.R. Tolkien, and William Shakespeare. In addition, Rapp continued to write his own songs--songs of love, fantasy, and ballads of strange and unusual characters, such as "Snow Queen," who "knows the ways of ice," or "The Jeweler" who "worshiped God with ashes.

Rapp's works on Reprise were somewhat successful with the public. Critical comments were in general very good. Critics were pleased with the development of a new and unique music style, as well as his musical talents. In 1972, Rapp signed a contract with Blue Thumb Records and has so far recorded two albums on that label: STAR-DANCER and SUNFOREST. Both albums are a culmination of his work, with the songs featuring the usual flute, cello, and bass work which help to create the mellow sound Rapp is famous for.

Tom Rapp is a mellow musician. His songs and music create a relaxed mood, and yet they contain powerful poems and lyrics which introduce the listener to a whole world of characters and events. Rapp has had so many of his songs that "they just float unauthored and orphaned in the air and I have just continued to pass through them," he has once described his songs as "short stories", and that is a very fitting description. In concert Rapp is a wonderful story-teller and entertainer as well as an excellent musician. Rapp has a lack of good-quality "hits," and Rapp promises to be one of the best this area has seen. He is an artist who has continually produced high-quality musical material and his songs are guaranteed to transport you to another time and place.

Views on SLA

By Chuck

As the incidents connected with the Symbianes Liberation Army grew more intense America and I become more avidly interested in the facts, the fancy and the future - the - the hungry things have perased. One envisions a field Marshall Donald De Freeze as Robin Hood of the underground movie PINK FLAMINGO's "Divine," Divine is a 250 pound transvestite who asked me, "What do you think of Patty Hearst?"

I returned: "I do not know. What do you think of Patty Hearst?"

Divine fixed her eyes on my press pad and instructed me: "I will not tell you my $700 worth of food." Throughout the entire tense affair, this steal-from-the-rich-to-the-poor thing to - the - hungry theme has perased. One envisions a field Marshall Donald De Freeze as Robin Hood black, "Tania"Hearst, gun in hand, transformed from Snow White into Maid Marion of the guerilla underground:

When the SLA robbed the San Francisco bank, however, interest flip-flopped from that of media-machine fairy-tale character to - the - hungry theme has perased. One envisions a field Marshall Donald De Freeze as Robin Hood black, "Tania"Hearst, gun in hand, transformed from Snow White into Maid Marion of the guerilla underground:

When the SLA robbed the San Francisco bank, however, interest flip-flopped from that of media-machine fairy-tale character to - the - hungry theme has perased. One envisions a field Marshall Donald De Freeze as Robin Hood black, "Tania"Hearst, gun in hand, transformed from Snow White into Maid Marion of the guerilla underground:

When the SLA robbed the San Francisco bank, however, interest flip-flopped from that of media-machine fairy-tale character to - the - hungry theme has perased. One envisions a field Marshall Donald De Freeze as Robin Hood black, "Tania"Hearst, gun in hand, transformed from Snow White into Maid Marion of the guerilla underground:

When the SLA robbed the San Francisco bank, however, interest flip-flopped from that of media-machine fairy-tale character
Poor nations' needs growing, Pandit warns
continued from page one

they don't want the modern India to be mixed up with all the parad-

(a) things that are giving way now gradually."

Many young Americans are gaining a greater awareness by studying India. It should be noted here that, after two years of negotiation, Wooster's program at Madras University has become the only American undergraduate program to be approved for South India by the Indian government. The twelve students participating in this year's program will leave for India on July 5, and will return next March.

Mme Pandit was recently invited by Kurt Waldheim, General Secretary of the United Nations, to participate in a special session of the UN to study the current world food and energy crisis. She expressed the desire to broaden the emphasis of realizing the interdependence of the world's population, which is particularly important for the developed nations, which constitute 77 per cent of the world's population, while accounting for only 35 per cent of the world's income. "The developed countries are realizing the implications of not giving to the fullest extent for the uplift of the developing countries, You see, this has been a slogan since the beginning of the United Nations, but it's been accepted in theory, but not put into practice. This time I think it has really joined the developed nations when they find that each year the number of dependent nations grows," she explained. The conference was largely a meeting of experts whose aim was to compile the facts and figures necessary for developing practical means of dealing with the current food and energy crisis. Hopefully, the next United Nations conference, to be held in July, will give rise to more concrete suggestions for dealing with these problems; "If it is not done in a positive way in July then, ac-

Crusades, Croix, Indian suspension, young to May, United Nations, General	Mme Croix, American slide, and United Nations. Is this the budget acceptance? This was not the philosophy of the United Nations, and it is particularly important to the developing countries, which constitutes 77 per cent of the world's population, while accounting for only 35 per cent of the world's income. "The developed nations are realizing the implications of not giving to the fullest extent for the uplift of the developing countries, You see, this has been a slogan since the beginning of the United Nations, but it's been accepted in theory, but not put into practice. This time I think it has really joined the developed nations when they find that each year the number of dependent nations grows," she explained. The conference was largely a meeting of experts whose aim was to compile the facts and figures necessary for developing practical means of dealing with the current food and energy crisis. Hopefully, the next United Nations conference, to be held in July, will give rise to more concrete suggestions for dealing with these problems; "If it is not done in a positive way in July then, ac-

EXPOSE STUDY
Undersea World and Tropical Environments
Fully accredited undergraduate and graduate (6 credits) courses in Introduction to Marine Sciences, Biology of Coral Reef Invertebrates, Field and Sedimentology of St. Croix, Special Problems, Marine Algalogy, Ecology of Coral Reefs, Carbonate Environments. New, modern, year-round teaching and research on laboratory and tropical marine setting on St. Croix, U.S. Virgin Islands.

TWO SUMMER SESSIONS
June 12 – July 17
July 24 – August 28
FOR INFORMATION AND BROCHURE
Write: West Indies Laboratory, Field Station, St. Croix, U.S. Virgin Islands, 00820 (201) 377-4700, ext. 269.

Mme Pandit also gave some interesting insights into two of her country's most prominent neighbors; the U.S.S.R., and the People's Republic of China. India, being a very close neighbor, can be very useful to her as a friend, and can be an irritant if not a friend," she said, speaking of the U.S.S.R., one of the countries in which she served as ambassador. "According to the Indian plan, India has been accepted by the United Nations, and it is particularly one as large and undistinguished as India. Persuasion takes a long, long time."

Her observations on her position as a woman who is prominent in international politics, as well as the internal politics of her own country, are particularly revealing. She stated that in political circles in India, the men with whom she worked have treated her as a comrade, while she began being treated differently only after she left India. Only outside of India has she had some difficulty in feeling a sense of comradeship with her colleagues.

The report of the ICC evaluation of girls club half week period of the proposed LCB constitution was brought before Council once again, as the second item of business. It was pointed out to Council members that under the new draft, the adviser would have been revised. The board now consists of representatives from all faculties of the college community, including administration, faculty, students and LCB members, Council was pleased with the new realignment as they approved Jeff Bates motion to accept the document by a 12-0 vote.

Treasurer Steve Schmidt presented to Council the 1974-75 Campus Council budget as the third item of business. Schmidt gave a brief summary of the report to Council members. He noted that this year's budget has been cut by four thousand dollars from last year's. This cut was mainly due to administration's taking over the publication of the Scoot Key from SGA. Schmidt went on to say that the total amount of money requested was $75,000. Schmidt finished off by accepting the responsibility mentioned in the budget, to be fair to all budget requests from student organizations. A motion was then made by Schmidt to accept the budget. LCB Chairman, Larry Kurth, presented a summary of the budget of the council's report. The members found the report, "The proposed LCB constitution was brought before Council once again, as the second item of business. It was pointed out to Council members that under the new draft, the adviser would have been revised. The board now consists of representatives from all faculties of the college community, including administration, faculty, students and LCB members, Council was pleased with the new realign-mation as they approved Jeff Bates motion to accept the document by a 12-0 vote.

Under an amendment to the Social Security law people can now be asked to prove their age, identity, citizenship or lawful alien status when applying for a social security number for the first time.

For proof of age, a birth or baptism certificate is sufficient. To prove your identity, you'll need a voter's card, school record or school identification card or something similar, provided with your signature on it. If you are an alien or a naturalized American citizen you'll be asked to prove your citizenship or legal alien status. To get a social security number, you can submit an Alien Registration Receipt Card, an Arrival-

 alist card, an Alien registration card, an Appro-

Council Capsule
By Mark Morey
Campus Council met Tuesday afternoon, May 21, to discuss several items on their agenda. The review of the 1974-75 Campus Council budget was the principle item of business, Council also reviewed the ICC evaluations of girls club half week along with the proposed LCB constitution. The review of the ICC evaluations of girls club half week was the first item on the members were generally pleased with the report, as no major questions were asked concerning them, Frank Glamo's motion to accept the evaluations was carried by a vote of 13-6.

The proposed LCB constitution was brought before Council once again, as the second item of business. It was pointed out to Council members that under the new draft, the adviser would have been revised. The board now consists of representatives from all faculties of the college community, including administration, faculty, students and LCB members, Council was pleased with the new realignment as they approved Jeff Bates motion to accept the document by a 12-0 vote.

Treasurer Steve Schmidt presented to Council the 1974-75 Campus Council budget as the third item of business. Schmidt gave a brief summary of the report to Council members. He noted that this year's budget has been cut by four thousand dollars from last year's. This cut was mainly due to administration's taking over the publication of the Scoot Key from SGA. Schmidt went on to say that the total amount of money requested was $75,000. Schmidt finished off by accepting the responsibility mentioned in the budget, to be fair to all budget requests from student organizations. A motion was then made by Schmidt to accept the budget. LCB Chairman, Larry Kurth, presented a summary of the budget of the council's report. The members found the report, "The proposed LCB constitution was brought before Council once again, as the second item of business. It was pointed out to Council members that under the new draft, the adviser would have been revised. The board now consists of representatives from all faculties of the college community, including administration, faculty, students and LCB members, Council was pleased with the new realign-mation as they approved Jeff Bates motion to accept the document by a 12-0 vote.

Under an amendment to the Social Security law people can now be asked to prove their age, identity, citizenship or lawful alien status when applying for a social security number for the first time.

For proof of age, a birth or baptism certificate is sufficient. To prove your identity, you'll need a voter's card, school record or school identification card or something similar, provi-

dered with your signature on it. If you are an alien or a naturalized American citizen you'll be asked to prove your citizenship or legal alien status. To get a social security number, you can submit an Alien Registration Receipt Card, an Arrival-

alist card, an Alien registration card, an Appro-

Council Capsule
By Mark Morey
Campus Council met Tuesday afternoon, May 21, to discuss several items on their agenda. The review of the 1974-75 Campus Council budget was the principle item of business, Council also reviewed the ICC evaluations of girls club half week along with the proposed LCB constitution. The review of the ICC evaluations of girls club half week was the first item on the members were generally pleased with the report, as no major questions were asked concerning them, Frank Glamo's motion to accept the evaluations was carried by a vote of 13-6.

The proposed LCB constitution was brought before Council once again, as the second item of business. It was pointed out to Council members that under the new draft, the adviser would have been revised. The board now consists of representatives from all faculties of the college community, including administration, faculty, students and LCB members, Council was pleased with the new realignment as they approved Jeff Bates motion to accept the document by a 12-0 vote.

Treasurer Steve Schmidt presented to Council the 1974-75 Campus Council budget as the third item of business. Schmidt gave a brief summary of the report to Council members. He noted that this year's budget has been cut by four thousand dollars from last year's. This cut was mainly due to administration's taking over the publication of the Scoot Key from SGA. Schmidt went on to say that, the total amount of money requested was $75,000. Schmidt finished off by accepting the responsibility mentioned in the budget, to be fair to all budget requests from student organizations. A motion was then made by Schmidt to accept the budget. LCB Chairman, Larry Kurth, presented a summary of the budget of the council's report. The members found the report, "The proposed LCB constitution was brought before Council once again, as the second item of business. It was pointed out to Council members that under the new draft, the adviser would have been revised. The board now consists of representatives from all faculties of the college community, including administration, faculty, students and LCB members, Council was pleased with the new realign-mation as they approved Jeff Bates motion to accept the document by a 12-0 vote.

Under an amendment to the Social Security law people can now be asked to prove their age, identity, citizenship or lawful alien status when applying for a social security number for the first time.

For proof of age, a birth or baptism certificate is sufficient. To prove your identity, you'll need a voter's card, school record or school identification card or something similar, preferably with your signature on it. If you are an alien or a naturalized American citizen you'll be asked to prove your citizenship or legal alien status. To get a social security number, you can submit an Alien Registration Receipt Card, an Arrival-
Beach Boys promoter loses money, but stays with COW

by Sue Tew

"The Beach Boys concert functionally was a big success," said LCB Concert Chairman Dick Kleiner.

"However," he continued, "it never became successful due to the date change." This does not mean that Wooster lost money, he explained. The promoter, Ross Todd, is the one who lost money. He was backed and expected to produce enough money to break even and hopefully make a profit. This did not happen due to the change in date. However, Ross Todd has agreed to continue as Wooster's promoter. He thinks "Wooster is a charm for Sunday afternoon concerts."

Kleiner was not sure what other groups would be coming to Wooster next Fall. He said that the concert committee is at the mercy of whatever group is in the area. Any open date would be worked through the promoter.

There were only two weaknesses to the concert, said Kleiner. There were about 100 student tickets sold, almost Kleiner. There were about 100 students working security, which boosts the total to 966 students, still, there definitely weren't as many students there as expected.

The other weakness Kleiner cited was the Weak security measures. A confusing system of passes, complicated by the Beach Boys' own pass system made the whole concert run not quite as smoothly as was expected.

The next concert sponsored by LCB will be Michael Stanley, a rock singer. He will appear in McGaw on Saturday, June 1. Stanley has appeared on in concert a few times and has released a few albums.

Of Patty Hearst and cocktail parties

continued from page three

ters, to a "psychological perspective," The emphasis shifted from What (i.e., full page illustrations of seven-headed cobras, and Webster definitions of the word "Symbiotic") to Why (i.e., a scad of photographic experts who pointed to guns trained on Tania during the robbery and psychiatrists who tested tape recordings for "stress and dures" as evidence that Ms. Hearst might have been blackmailed into calling her mommy and daddy all those nasty names). Complete schools of thought began to conglomerate over cocktail party potters on the "publicity." The "Conversationists" believed Patty had been brainwashed. The "Revisionists" publicly disposed of their first notion (that she was innocent) and now took up the belief that Patricia planned even her own kidnapping. (Though there was some discussion as to whether she was really interested in feeding poor people, or just "rip- ping off her old man.") Finally there was the school of "Collective Conspiracy." This small but influential group maintained that the entire SLA operation along with the Mid-East War and Will Brand's resignation was an effort by an underground arm of the Committee to Re-elect the Premier, in an attempt to draw heat off the Imposement proceedings.

Now, with the most recent development, the leveling of the SLA headquarters by the S.L.A.P.D. (symbiotic Los Angeles Police Department), "Tania Watchers" have entered a new phase. Attention has focused on the HOW, rather than debating WHAT reason SLA had no need for releasing Ma. Hearst so she could garner them $4 million dollars, or WHY kidnappers left Patty's boyfriend intact knowing he was to be charged with "the crime," instead people are amazed at HOW the SLA was able to flaunt the law and remain (up until last weekend) unscathed. How could they be so brilliant to rent the cars that they used in the Picasso Fisher's daughters, 4-H members and ex-convicts has caused some of America's social apathy to lapse. In light of the SLA, (not excluding the violence or the exaggerated rhetoric) one wonders WHEN racial re-pre- sion will come to an end? WHEN will Ageism, Sexism, and Militarism be eliminated?

The return of Patricia Sherman warns jaywalkers

by Sue Flatt

Chief of Security Robert Sherman expressed strong concern about the walking problem along Beall Avenue. The problem is the safety of the people crossing the street," he said, "Students assume that as long as they're in the crosswalk, whether the light is green or not, that they are safe. If a student is hit by a car, end? WHEN will Ageism, Sexism, and Militarism be eliminated?"

Hearst does hinge (however indirectly) on the return of the Water gate tapes to the people who paid for them (namely the American citizens), perhaps Tania will come home when America's C.L.A. in Southeast Asia is Brought home. It might be that the aggravation of the SLA is directly related to the re-pression in the U.S.A. And regardless of WHAT is done to Tania if she's captured or WHY it has taken the F.B.I. so long to even close to capturing her, or HOW the SLA will recover from the Los Angeles headquarters loss, the questions will persist as to WHEN hungry people will be fed, WHEN blacks and women will be freed and WHEN this "land of plenty" will reabide to the BET- TERMENT OF ALL.

In the end Patricia Tania Hearst may be forgotten. One wonders if, before that happens, "DIVINE" might get her $70,000 worth of food...

MARRIED STUDENTS!
OPEN WED. 12 to 6
SAP. SUN. 12 to 4

WOOSTER TOWERS
Now taking applications for 1, 2, and 3 Bedroom Apartments with Range, Refrigerator & Disposal. From $128 including utilities.

FRANK KRAUSE INC. REALTOR
222 W. Market St. Akron, Ohio 44303
535-5551 262-7247
Women's lacrosse: 5-1-1 regular season

by Janet Smeltz

"It's too bad our only loss came in our last game," painfully remembers women's lacrosse coach Robin Chambers. "The game left a bitter taste in our mouth." Playing against Ohio Wesleyan May 15, the Scotties lost a close one, 9-8. Wooster was plagued with first half difficulties, play was termed "embarrassing," as team play, cutting, and passing were virtually non-existent. The Scotties gave a psyched-up OWU team no trouble in the first half, Francis Randall was Wooster's only first half scorer, marking the tally Wooster 1, OWU 5, at the end of the first half.

Corrections accomplished, a different team took the field second half. Quite a change was evident in Wooster's play - described the coach, "Wooster looked terrific." Passing and cutting was much improved, and the Scotties' determination was the key. Wooster certainly bounced back, scoring seven goals in this half, to Wesleyans 4. Says Chambers, "we were able to come from behind and save it," and "we did well." Francis Randall scored three times and second half, Dale Kennedy cucked with two, and both Betsy White and Mary Forbes had ones. With two minutes to go the two schools were tied 8-8, then, OWU scored in one of three attack plays as Wooster failed to really get going. However, the Scotties did find the second half, played more like a team, and came so close to a victory.

This game finished regular season play for the Scotties, giving them a final 5-1-1 record which the coach feels is "not bad for our first varsity season."

Continues the coach, "This season was an excellent one from many standpoints. We met and surpassed all goals we set for ourselves. The amount of experience on the team, plus the large turnout of interested women, were big factors in our success. Finally, extremely important to this season was the total spirit and sportsmanship the players demonstrated in helping each other out. Once again I would like to thank senior co-captains Annie Baird and Francis Randall, Assistant coach Brenda Messer, manager Marilyn Kester for their excellent help."

The squad loses seniors Kathy Thomas, Annie Baird and Francis Randall this year, Chambers has much back-up depth in her JV team, and incoming freshmen for next season will create another fine line-up. Next year will feature an expanded JV schedule along with games scheduled between new and strong teams added to the season.

---

Tennis Scotties win last match, go to state tournament

by Janet Smeltz

A 7-3 record is a fine one for a team playing its hardest schedule yet. The Women's tennis team closed out their regular season home on May 14 with a 3-2 win over Kent State University, May 15, the Scotties headed to Bowling Green State University, for the Ohio College Women's Tennis Tournament.

The Kent-Wooster meet was decided in the last set of the match, when Joan Doseman and Pat Vittum, ably pulled through to win 7-6, 4-6, 6-4, Mary Randall and Carol Hahn were the other victors. Mary disposed of one of her opponent in two 6-5 sets; Carol's match had drawn at one set apiece when the Kent player suffered a knee injury and de-faulted, placing Carol's score at 6-1, 5-6, default.

Third singles, Wooster's Diana Westcott couldn't quite stick to her strong net strategy and bowed out 4-6, 3-5, Judy Donaldson and Janet Smeltz had problems playing up to their normal strength, too, and never gained the necessary momentum, losing 4-6, 3-6.

The tennis Scotties spent last weekend in Bowling Green, where all Wooster repe won at least one match, and Mary Randall brought home the first woman's title Wooster has ever won.

Faced with a tough first round draw, Mary suffered her second loss of the season to capital's Kim Rupen, 2-6, 3-6. All first round losers automatically advanced to the consolation round, and Mary breezed through that to beat Kay Taylor of Wittenberg in an exciting 6-3, 6-4, 6-2, championship decider.

Both of Carol Hahn's losses were to eventual title winners, first to OSU's Barb Weiters, and then to the second singles consolation bracket winner, Wesleyan's Lynn Joseffoff, 4-6, 6-3.

Diana Westcott won her first round 6-3, 6-1, and then gave her opponent of two days before, KSU's Tony Rossi, a tough fight before losing 6-1, 4-6, 5-7.

First doubles team of Donaldson and Smeltz lost first to old friends Wittenberg, 5-7, 6-4. The pair won their first singles consolation match over Capital's 6-1, 6-1, and then was knocked out by the U. of Cincinnati, 7-6, 6-5, 1-6.

Pat Vittum and Joan Doseman overcame Oberlin, 4-6, 6-4, and 7-5, but then lost to the second doubles runners-up, Miami University, 6-4, 6-6.

OSU placed first in total points, and became state champions while Ohio Wesleyan came in second. State won most of the title play finals, whereas Wesleyan walked away with two titles and three consolation finals. "I want to stress the fact that this was our best tournament for all Ohio schools, big and little. We were a dark horse team, with few lucky breaks, but we exceeded our expectations, and performed no miracles," stated tennis coach, Dr. Sexton.

As for the 1974 season, Coach Sexton termed it a "good and comfortable" one, saying a 7-3 record is not bad with the teams we had to play. For next year the team is out to achieve more consistency, and improve its driving, up-to-the net game. The Scotties lose three seniors this year, singles player Diana Westcott, and doubles players Judy Donaldson and Pat Vittum. All three are experienced veterans whose enthusiasm and added depth will be sorely missed.

---

Sports and Society

By Glenn Forbes

Last weekend witnessed the rise of professional golf's "designated" tournaments, that is, tournaments that all the biggies (Nicklaus, Miller, Wielkop, Palmer, etc.) are required to participate in. A look at the reasoning behind this development will show us something about the role of professional golf and professional sports in general.

Professional golf seemed to be getting along very well without designated tournaments but tournament sponsors found that fans really wanted to see the "boggles" play and would come out in droves at $8 to $10 a ticket to do it. So in order to please the fans (of course, money had nothing to do with it) and make the designated tournament was developed. The players happily agreed (the extra prize money put up for the tournaments was purely coincidental) and the designated tournament is now a reality.

I think it's sad. Professional golfers have always been a symbol to me of independent athletes, athletes who could participate when they wanted to and not participate when they didn't. But, I guess that status has to go, the fans must be pleased. Of course, the money doesn't have to do with it.
8 players selected to Midwest teams

Laxwomen win two at Midwest tourney

by Janet Smelts

"Last Saturday, we were the most impressive team, the most cohesive team. We were the Harlem Globetrotters of lacrosse. Passing, sportsmanship, team play were unparalleled. The team peaked at Midwest. Our conditioning gave us a rhythm and in effect we were orchestrating on the field."

Women's lacrosse coach Robin Chamiers spoke only in superlatives as she described the Wooster lacrosse team's performance at the Midwest Selections trials held at Ohio Wesleyan University May 13.

Wooster drew two good teams, Wittenberg and Earlham, as game opponents. All participants teams play off, and Midwest representatives are chosen on their performance in such games. Nine Wooster players wished to be considered for selections; five were named to teams! Brenda Meese and Annie Baird were named to Midlest 1, Marjo Forsbus, Betty White, and Melinda Weaver were on Midwest 2. Cindy Steinacker, Betsy Bruce and Becky Wise made the third team. For White, Wise, Bruce and Steinacker to quality was exceptional, since all 4 had never bid before.

The strength of the Wooster team really came across in their two games. The Wittenberg game went to the Scnlettes, 14-9 as Melinda Weaver scored twice and Francie Rendall, Betsy White and Marjo Forsbus all scored 4. Earlham also fell before the Wooster lacrosse machine, 11-4. Forsbus fired in 5 goals, Weaver 3, and White, Meese, and Steinacker each scored once.

Chamiers termed the Earlham game the season's best. "The attack never looked better. Betsy Stears played third home for the first time, and was excellent. The key to our success was the performances of individual players all combined into a grand team effort.

"Melinda Weaver never gave up. Her dodges and footwork were extraordinary, Francie Rendall set up more plays than she had all season. Marjo was like a snake-elusive, making shovel shots on goal, Brenda Meese and Betsy White were the give-and-go twins, and Brenda's mad dashes and death-defying leaps down the field earned her the 'Evl Knivel' title. Cindy won all her draws in the center and made some acute cuts. Lisa Uppa, Annie Baird and Kathy Thomas were the 'Bermuda Triangle' of the defense-nothing could get by them. Betsy Bruce fell secure enough to leave the goal cage and advance down the field. Becky Wise, despite a taped leg, was open for the ball many times, "It was total team ball. At one point we had 30 passes within 50 yards-everyone touched it. People were zig-zagging down the field, making amazing cuts, Saturday was definitely the peak and climax of the season."

Today, six Scotties left for the Women's Lacrosse National being held in Germantown, Pa., until Monday. First and second team players plus alternate Cindy Steinacker are Wooster's fine representatives for the tournament.

Ptak pitches no—hitter

Scots split with Capital: 0-4, 3-1

by Bambi Mosenthal

The Wooster Fighting Scott varsity baseball team split a doubleheader with Capital here Saturday.

Grant Relle took the loss in the first game by a score of 4-0, although the score doesn't give a true picture of the game. Skip was tagged for 4 runs on 5 hits in the first inning but from that time on was never seriously threatened. He pitched nearly flawless ball, allowing the crusaders only two more hits and shutting them out for the remaining six innings. The offense didn't supply Skip with much of an attack. They combined for five hits and even though three of them were doubles, Wooster couldn't get on the scoreboard.

Gorsuch and Taylor had one single apiece and McLaughlin, Bullock and Porr each slammed doubles to constitute the Wooster attack. It was a tough loss for Relle who pitched an excellent sixth inning game.

The roles were reversed in the second game as the Scouts exploded for four of their five hits and all of their three runs in the first inning. That was enough as Freshman Frank Ptak knocked the Crusaders with an impressive no-hitter. Seven Capital men reached base as Frank gave up six walks. However, only once could they capitalize on their opportunities as their Crusaders tallied one run in the third inning. The Wooster first inning outburst was started off with a single by Dave Gorsuch, Mark Bullock followed with a single which moved Gorsuch to third who then scored on a passed ball. Denny Porr laced a shot into left field that scored Bullock from second, Rick Hopkins came through with another of his POWERFUL doubles and Porr scored Wooster's final run all the way from first base. Frank Ptak has to be given credit for superb pitching as he chalked up Wooster's first no-hitter in two seasons. The Scots overall record stands at 13-18 and they ended with an 8-5 mark in the OAC.
Sailors complete successful season

On the weekend of May 18 and 19, the Wooster Sailing team completed its most successful season to date. The team that year reached the level of professional membership in the Midwest Collegiate Sailing Association (MCSA) which counts four-year schools as members. This allowed Wooster to compete in the regional and district championships, the two steps directly preceding the national championships.

New talent came to Wooster in the persons of Ray Lyons, Dave Peterson and Steve Sargent, who joined the regulars to sail to a good final standing. Team captain Tom Price, Chris Bates, Ron Boehm, Mary Lou Dunn, Cindy Skillman and Tom Clark make up the rest of the team.

The first regatta of the season was the Ohio State Intercollegiate, held on April 20 and 21. This drew most of the major competitors of the Midwest, as well as out-of-district schools such as Florida State, Kings Point (Merchant Marine Academy) and Penn State. There were a total of fourteen schools present. The weather was hot and so was the competition. When the spray finally cleared, Miami of Ohio and Florida State were in first and second, with 104 and 116 points respectively. To show the intensity of the competition, the next six places covered only a 14 point spread ranging from 120 to 134. In this wild scramble for places, Wooster came out in seventh, with 131 points. Ron Boehm, one of Wooster's skippers, was disqualified in his first two races for infractions of rules which led to contact between boats. If the protest heard the day he went in his boat, Wooster would have finished in third or fourth place. As it was, Tom Price finished third in his division and Ron Boehm finished in seventh place in his division.

The second regatta was hosted by Wooster, with three other schools attending, Ray Lyons and Steve Sargent skippered for Wooster, Ray Lyons swept his division with six firsts, a second and third. Steve Sargent took the Kent State skipper for first in division B. With the combined scores, Wooster won on Kenyon, Kent State and Youngstown.

The third regatta was held on May 4 at the University of Michigan. This series was to determine who would go to the district championships. Competing schools were Notre Dame, Michigan State, Wooster, University of Michigan, Kent State, and General Motors Institute. On a beautiful Friday night, the Michigan organizers could not find a course and each team was let to its own devices. Half the night was spent with the Notre Dame team trying to find a place to play. The Notre Dame team ended up sleeping in a station wagon. Special permission was given to Bimbo's and to Joan Doezma, for putting up with the team and putting the team up, respectively.

The weather the next morning was good for anything but sailing. There was very little wind and what there was couldn't declude where to come from. Wind shifts and holes (no wind areas) changed the sailors' positions almost continuously. It was not unusual for the last place boat to move to the front of the fleet in less than 50 yards. After the sixth race, the wind finally settled down to extremely fluky. Coming into the final race, Notre Dame and Michigan State held the first two places and Wooster was leading University of Michigan by one point. Ron Boehm and Bill Boutin of University of Michigan/TMI match-raced in the fleet, with Wooster's skipper finishing ahead. This qualified Wooster for the MCSA championships.

The championships were held the following weekend at Ohio Wesleyan. Of the nine schools competing, seven had been at the Ohio State Intercollegiate three weeks earlier. Since the races were held on the same waters, the competition looked ready to take up where they had left off earlier in the season. Since the national championships would be held in cat-rigged and slop-rigged boats, the MCSA championships did the same, splitting the racing up between Penguins and Flying Juniors. Tom Price and Ray Lyon, sailing in A division, could not work their way out of the tanks and never really put it all together. Ron Boehm, sailing in B division, started slowly, but improved as the racing went on, finishing fourth in his division. The combined score gave Wooster a seventh overall, out of nine schools competing. Michigan State, Notre Dame and Ohio State finished first, second and third, and therefore qualified for the Nationals.

Sailors complete successful season

Women's softball underway

by Janet Smeltz

Coach Norma Boetel has seen her team come from inexperience to competence, from lack of skill to a deepened knowledge of the game - always amid an enthusiastic hard-working atmosphere. A proud coach says, "This season has been very enjoyable because of the players enthusiasm and willingness to learn."

The women's softball team has an 0-3 record, with only Friday's game in Youngstown remaining. Two of the games were played on Monday, and the Scotties lost one to Ashland, 8-5, and one to the Ohio Northern team, 26-3. Marcia Clever is credited with two singles in the Ashland game. Junior Sue Mohnan took the mound to that outing, with good support from Meg Meakin behind the plate. The Ohio Northern loss was to a much better team, although the box score shows quite a few Wooster hits. In that contest, five women connected for singles: Laurie Priest, Evelyn Campbell, Meg Meakin, Addie Castell, and Sue Mohnan. Pitchers were both Sue and Debbie Beldner, while Meg Meakin and Marcia Clever filled in as catchers.

Early lack of hitting can be blamed on first game jitters, teneseness, and players inexperience. "Against Youngstown we were much better. The offense and defense were greatly improved," recalls Coach Boetel. Wooster played Youngstown at Fredlander Park last Friday, losing a close one, 9-8. Highlighting that game was the double play set up by the Scotties, along with Barb Hurdick's triple, Meg Meakin's two singles and one double, and Laurie Priest's two singles. Again, Sue Mohnan was the star pitcher. Meakin's catcher proved to be an excellent combination.

We're improving with each game. Considering most of the women haven't played before, we've done exceedingly well. Pitching is excellent. Neither of the two had pitched in a game this season. Meg Meakin is excellent as catcher. Our infield is fairly strong. The tremendous experience the team is getting this year will prove invaluable for next year's, sums up the coach.

The team's two juniors are the oldest on the squad with freshmen in the majority. In their first varsity year, the women's softball team has come a long way.

FLAIR TRAVEL CONSULTANTS

346 EAST BOWMAN ST.

For Your Convenience Just Off the College Campus — For All Your Travel Inquiries and Needs, CALL

264-6505

SAVE A LITTLE EVERY MONTH

($10 a month at 5.25% interest = $530.27 in 4 yrs.)

First Federal

135 East Liberty St. (264-9001)

Reg. $149.95

NOW $999.95

French tops winds of Tour de France

St. Etiienne 3 Time Winner of the Tour de France

MAFAC CENTER PULL BRAKES
26 POUNDS - 27" WHEELS
FULLY LUGGED HANDMADE & BRAZED FRAME - RAY TRAP
BALLS - SIMPLEX & HURET DERAILLEURS

St. Rt. 585
Wooster, Ohio 44691
264-0290