It was a quiet and peaceful night to the dance floor. The music was soft and soothing, creating a relaxed atmosphere. People were dancing, enjoying the rhythm and energy of the night. The dance floor was illuminated with soft, warm lights, casting a cozy glow over the scene.

The atmosphere was electric, with a sense of connection and unity. People were talking and laughing, sharing stories and creating memories. The night was truly magical, a moment to be cherished and remembered for a lifetime.

As the music faded away, the place went quiet, and everyone seemed to be lost in their own thoughts. The dance floor was empty, and the night was over. Yet, the memories and connections made that night would last a lifetime.
Unreasonable Facsimile
The Greeks had a word for them. They called them Pi Phis and Tri Deltas and Kappas. We call them Arrow and Peanuts and Trout, and I ought to stop there and get a cost analysis. From the students who are members of social clubs — and who ought to be — we hear tales about the boys and girls, women, members or not, that the rest are in a casual manner.

Why? For the dubious honor of belonging oneself in 330 pages of social club literature, we are asked to read the stuff that is not even remotely commendable, in some cases. Then we are asked to understand that the future of our fine social club promises may not vary with the social clubs of the general populace, or the general populace may not vary with social clubs.

The primary argument against social clubs is that people get hit, it is a point of study to the core, "You should not do it." Social clubs should be abolished, the social club of Wooster would not run down. To take the piece of club dance, men, and bridge, and all college fraternities and sororities, and a precise reason.

At any rate, there is no reason why women of the College of Wooster should belong to social clubs, and they should be shunned. Here's our chance to leave behind the club system with our class and move forward into the neighborhood gang. Here's our chance to choose monarchy. — W.

There'll Be Some Changes Made
Today we are living in a world of change. No longer is our society static, nor should it be. In order to have any program, changes are necessary. The program for this year has been made through a change in personnel. As a result of the change, the student body has been asked to choose a new director. It has been chosen, and we are looking towards the future with hope.

In the short time that we have been back at Wooster this fall the student body has been quite frequently heard. True, traditions are more than the observance of sentimentalities and their place on the campus of Wooster is as it must be secure. But we must also take up the following of these traditions with more than the myth of performing them. We must be sure that the meaning which lies behind them, the reason for which they exist, is carried forward to fulfill the original intention. Little things like the often abused "hello"; society is called, and midnight shifts will simply remain "little things" unless we go further and realize their purpose.

As for the traditions which some students feel have gone by the board, perhaps it would be better to call it by the word. The use of the alley should be continued, and the student body is being asked to vote on the matter.

The Sunday morning church service gives an excellent example for the student body to follow. The church service is an example of the new order of service was both diverse and intense. Those of us who have become accustomed to the new order of service should take note and be thankful for the changes that have been made. We have all been introduced to the new order of service and we have all been asked to vote on the matter. Those of us who have not been introduced to the new order of service should be thankful for the changes that have been made. We have all been asked to vote on the matter.

A church service on a Sunday morning is an excellent example for the student body to follow. The church service is an example of the new order of service was both diverse and intense. Those of us who have become accustomed to the new order of service should take note and be thankful for the changes that have been made. We have all been introduced to the new order of service and we have all been asked to vote on the matter. Those of us who have not been introduced to the new order of service should be thankful for the changes that have been made. We have all been asked to vote on the matter.

Brevity
A proctor once addressed the student body of Wooster University in a large auditorium. He told us that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull. He went on to explain that we should be careful to avoid being either obvious or dull.
By Herb Reinhart
It's been a "productive life," in the way Ernest Hemingway might put it, when one has devoted his time to something he loved. In the eyes of many, sport, and in this case football, is an excellent highway for the job of a lifetime. After the death of Lawver C. Bos, he had served as football coach and athletic director of the College of Wooster for 11 years.

It was in the fall of 1913 that Mose Hut was given the task of recruiting the early football players. He was a man of great influence and respected by his players. He was a man who could inspire his team to play their best, and that is what he did at the College of Wooster.

Mose Hut was born in 1860 and died in 1933. He was a man of great influence and respected by his players. He was a man who could inspire his team to play their best, and that is what he did at the College of Wooster.

No names are mentioned, but a system of numbers is used. This list of seniors is accompanied by a form explaining the purpose of the catalog, and making it easy for students to access the information. Attached is a form for the recipient to fill out, in which he can indicate the descriptions which he wants to know. To the right of the form is a place where open jobs can be listed.

This bulk of material—that is, the list of seniors, the explanatory letter, and a blank form for the recipient to fill out and return to the Personnel-office—is being sent to high schools all over the United States. While it would be impractical for the Personnel-office to collect all the new college seniors in each city, large cities will receive this material, too.

When a newspaper releases the enclosed blank, indicating an interest in one of the descriptions, the second phase of the Personnel-office's search begins. A complete survey of the student's interest is then performed.

The Personnel-office has a list of all descriptions that are available, and the Personnel-office will send out a form that is a complete list of all the courses completed (with no grades given), a complete list of campus activities, a full statement of campus and professor evaluations, and any other material that the Personnel-office may have on file for a given position.
Freeman Forum

Sylvia Rose and Tom Mastron are the leaders for Freeman Forum. The topic of the Forum will be 'Teenage vs. Adult.' Rose and Mastron will be in conversation with several freshmen about the different perspectives of being a college student. The Forum will be held in Sutherland at 9:15 p.m. in the Music Room.

Officers will be elected at this meeting for the 1964-65 term. The officers are President Concetta Lazzaro, Vice President Alice Welton, Secretary Hazel Mehl, Treasurer Mary Holcomb, and Librarian, Joan S. Desenberg.

Lowry Appears Throughout Ohio

Dr. Lowry goes to Columbus on Sunday evening at 7:30 to present the regular Sunday morning service at the Broad-street Presbyterian Church. In the evening he will attend the Parents' Institute on Christian Education, where he will deliver the closing address.

Cynthia Selby, the high school age daughter of the President, is visiting with her parents on their trip to Europe.

Group Ask Social Clubs Be Abolished

The subject under discussion at the Social Club discussion evening on Sunday evening will be "How Will Self-government Work at Wooster?" Miss Mary Z. Johnson of the faculty will open the floor to the meeting.

The opening devices of the forum this year will be under the charge of Plan Minor.

The Tempest

Group members present included Dr. Lowry and Dr. Miller, Robert H. Green, and Dr. Miller. All present enjoyed the evening and the musical and dramatic program.

Lowry will be speaking at the Old Stone Church in Public Square.

S.E.F.

Group members present included Dr. Lowry and Dr. Miller, Robert H. Green, and Dr. Miller. All present enjoyed the evening and the musical and dramatic program.

The Tempest

Group members present included Dr. Lowry and Dr. Miller, Robert H. Green, and Dr. Miller. All present enjoyed the evening and the musical and dramatic program.

Lowry will be speaking at the Old Stone Church in Public Square.

S.E.F.