10-4-1945

The Wooster Voice (Wooster, OH), 1945-10-04

Wooster Voice Editors

Follow this and additional works at: https://openworks.wooster.edu/voice1941-1950

Recommended Citation

https://openworks.wooster.edu/voice1941-1950/106
Sept. 21 — Hanna’s campaign was part of the broader effort to elect a new mayor for the city. Hanna, a former state senator, ran on a platform of affordability and stability. His campaign was supported by a coalition of labor unions and progressive organizations.

Sept. 20 — The newly elected mayor, Mr. Smith, presented his first budget to the city council. The budget included cuts to public services, such as social programs and transportation, to reduce the city’s deficit.

Please note that the information provided is based on the available text and does not necessarily reflect the complete context or accuracy of the original document.
CONGRESSIONAL COMMENTS

For these poor, bewildered freshmen, who haven’t found where the newspapers are in the library (they’re just to the right of the door), and also to those two super-sensitive freshmen who feel that their duty as citizens of a democracy to keep informed on current events is being performed only secondarily by the interminable and pre-coded for easy digestion—with the compliments of the national press associations—

Americans in London — Battlefront of the Peace

U. S. representatives to the United Nations National Organization (UNO) have ratified the United Nations Charter as drawn at San Francisco. The UNO starts functioning when 50 per cent of the member states have joined the union, and when the permanent assembly and the president of the organization are in session.

Tuesday, October 4, 1945

The Wooster Voice

The Wooster Voice

JEANNE WASHBURN

Sally Wash

American Editor

Dolly Earp

Advisory Editor

Katy Thayer

Managing Editor

Betsy Bandy

Copy Editor

Jordan Miller, Dave Pfedder

Assistant Sports Editors

Lincoln Kelln

Advisory Editor

Amos Murray

Faculty Advisory

Jane Woolley, Mary Anne Smith, Betty Baker, Joanne Jones.

Sally Wash, Mary Ann Smith, Betty Baker, Joanne Jones.

Katy Thayer, Donna Joy, Chris O'Neal, Kaye Jackson, Sally Smith, Mary Ann Smith, Betty Baker, Joanne Jones.

Jane Woolley, Mary Ann Smith, Betty Baker, Joanne Jones.

Mary Ann Smith, Betty Baker, Joanne Jones.

Amelia Bellan

Terry Stierman

Rebecca B. Snyder

Kathy Neeley

House Manager

Linda Buck

Library Manager

Arlene Amberg

Executive Assistant

Linda Kelln

Advisory Editor

Amos Murray

Faculty Advisory

St Eval's, in last week's issue of the View, pointed out the importance of juvenile delinquency... and outlined a plan for action. The plan is being adopted by the various school systems, and a co-operative effort seems to be in order.

Look Out for Russia!

The view, in an interview with Senator Pepper last month on his trip to the Soviet Union, said that the Soviet Union to keep up long-range production is of great significance. Of course, the Marshal is distrusting the documents—but clearly he is not a man to be taken by surprise. This is a very real problem. What is the outcome of these differences between the two great powers? It is hard to say. The Russians are extremely sensitive about any hint that they are being blockaded by the West. The Western powers are equally sensitive about any suggestion that they are being treated with contempt. The situation is very complex and it is hard to say what the final outcome will be. But it is clear that the two powers are not going to yield an inch of ground without a struggle.

America's Workmen Fight a Battle for the Peace

In reading the news about strikes today, we may notice that America is divided into two camps: (1) those who say, in a certain sense, that we should not go to war against Japan and (2) those who say, in another sense, that we should go to war against Japan. The former group is represented by some of the leading newspapers of the country, among them the New York Times, the New York Herald Tribune, and the New York Sun. The latter group is represented by the New York World, the New York Post, and the New York Daily News. The former group is supported by many of the labor organizations of the country, among them the United Mine Workers, the United Textile Workers, and the United Auto Workers. The latter group is supported by many of the business organizations of the country, among them the Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers, and the National Industrial Conference Board. The former group is supported by many of the labor leaders of the country, among them John L. Lewis, Eugene V. Debs, and William Z. Foster. The latter group is supported by many of the business leaders of the country, among them J. P. Morgan, Jr., and Rockefeller.

So Proudly We Hail

It is with much joy and anticipation that we note the coming of Mr. C. L. John Bate's this week. Since 1944 Westminster Church has been without a pastor, and the absence of one has been quite deeply felt. Sunday after Sunday has been, by a group of men and women in the pulpit. While these speakers pressed to be interesting and the service enjoyable, it was not long until the student body voted to... To the Men.

President John Bate must say thanks for the capable handling of his religious education director, a full time job on such a campus as ours, for the financial and material work which she has done for us. It is also at the same time a tribute to the excellence of the committee which was in charge of finding a pastor. This committee, with the service and cooperation of Westminster's own faculty, and student body. Fortunately and patiently they carried out their work, always seeking the man who would best serve us. We are sure that Mr. Bate has a most valuable work at hand.

To the Men.

President John Bate must say thanks for the capable handling of his religious education director, a full time job on such a campus as ours, for the financial and material work which she has done for us. It is also at the same time a tribute to the excellence of the committee which was in charge of finding a pastor. This committee, with the service and cooperation of Westminster's own faculty, and student body. Fortunately and patiently they carried out their work, always seeking the man who would best serve us. We are sure that Mr. Bate has a most valuable work at hand.

Friendship is an important part of life, and we should always try to foster it in our daily lives. This is achieved through acts of kindness, such as offering to help a friend with their homework, or simply taking the time to listen when they need to talk. By fostering strong relationships, we can create a positive and supportive atmosphere that benefits everyone involved.
Thursday, October 4, 1945

The Wooster Press

Great changes are expected in the world during these days of conversion and peace. Football is going to be different in the near future. The Public Board Rules Committee has met, to decide what new rules will be passed that can make football more exciting and controversial. It is known that the official football rules will be altered so that football will be different. In all probability the rules which will affect football will be: (1) changes in the way points are scored, and (2) the introduction of new playing equipment.

The Wooster Press

SCHOLADS TO HEAVIAN CASE TEAM

By Jordan Miller

It was a vividly cold out on that field yesterday, and although the press was well attended by throngs of people, there was no逊 for the models on Wooster's team, and they were quite comfortable when the thermometer dropped. The meeting of the Wooster and Seneca teams was a highly entertaining contest for the fans. The two teams faced each other at midfield, and the Wooster team took the lead by a score of 14-0, with the following plays: Unofficial penalty for running into a man, 1 point.

At the opening of the third quarter, Wooster gained 6 points on the form that had started the game. Seneca's two best players were out with injuries, and Wooster's defense was working four-man lines, as the defense was not able to stop the Wooster team. At the end of the game, the score was 14-0, with the following plays: Unofficial penalty for running into a man, 1 point.

In the fourth quarter, the Wooster team gained 6 points on the form that had started the game. Seneca's two best players were out with injuries, and Wooster's defense was working four-man lines, as the defense was not able to stop the Wooster team. At the end of the game, the score was 14-0, with the following plays: Unofficial penalty for running into a man, 1 point.

The Wooster Press

GIVING A LA UN IQUEN FARMERS

Would you like to par 16 with the best of them? Are you tired of competing with those who seem to be able to make beautiful 100 yard drives, and yet almost you're not a good golfer? Here's an opportunity to participate in a tournament that will be fun and exciting, and at the same time a great way to meet new people. This tournament is open to all levels of golfers, and will take place at the prestigious Links Golf Club. The entry fee is $50 per player, and includes all necessary equipment and refreshments. For more information, please call (555) 123-4567.

The Wooster Press

PRETENSIONS

It has been our hope for some time and will continue to be our goal to provide current and relevant updates to our school community. Today we are proud to announce the upcoming of a new football game, which will take place on Saturday, October 10th. The game will be played against our local rivals and will be held on our school's premises. The game will feature a variety of teams, including our own, which will be looking to showcase their skills and abilities. We encourage all students and staff to attend and support our team. For more information, please see the sports section of our school newspaper.
MacPadden Believes Church-Sponsored Nation Pictures Have Promising Future

"Motion pictures have something to give to the church," said Hamilton MacPadden. He is the movie news editor for a leading company that sets five and a half million motion pictures for public display.

"The documentary film, such as we are making, will be a powerful step toward direct public education," Mr. MacPadden began. These films will be a more effective teaching medium than the average newspaper.

For many years a Hollywood newspaperman, the writer, producer, and director of the motion pictures, MacPadden was educated in a grammar school and a college.

"The impulse to do this work came from the people," he said. "There are few things more natural than to use motion pictures for the enlightenment of the public."

Great Spiritual Revolution

"I tell them that it is the greatest spiritual revolution since the days of Luther — it will be nothing less than a new era of American education," said Mr. MacPadden.

It is by no means surprising that the people have taken such an interest in the work of the church-sponsored motion-pictures company.

In addition to producing religious films, he believes that such a company could lift the standards of Hollywood pictures. "Everybody agrees there are beautiful things in the movies," he said, "but they also agree that there are too many restrictions due to the censorship laws."

The league of Democracy is the weapon of the church-sponsored company, he said. "If they take up a crusade for this thing, they are really talking the language of the people."

Mr. MacPadden believes that the movies will be used in the future for education similar to what other educational agencies are doing.

"There is a new era of American education," he said. "The people are beginning to realize the importance of motion pictures in their daily lives."

Interviews Lee

(Continued from Page 1)

Mr. Letz was a prize fighter with an excellent record, but his weight was over the lightweight class. Because of his past experience, he had been in court and out looking for a different type of work.

In those days, around 1917, employment was especially tough, especially for a Negro, so Canada was the only land that he could come to.

When waiting for the employment opportunities, he would be in a theatre abdomen criticizing what he had just seen.

When the show was closed, he would make his way back to his hotel and sleep the next day and the process would be repeated.

It is as a routine, he said, which is agreed upon in America, as a natural and important condition to help shake prejudices.

After his service in the Canadian army, he came back to his native land and became involved in the hotel business and studied for the position of director of the hotel. His name is still remembered in the hotel business.

After a brief stay in Canada, he came back to the United States and studied for the hotel business and the position of director of the hotel. His name is still remembered in the hotel business.

"The twelve years of that have been the making of those years," said Mr. Letz. "I have been in court and out looking for a different type of work."

He got permission to make his way back to his hotel and sleep the next day and the process would be repeated.

It is as a routine, he said, which is agreed upon in America, as a natural and important condition to help shake prejudices.

Mr. Letz has been in court and out looking for a different type of work. In those days, around 1917, employment was especially tough, especially for a Negro, so Canada was the only land that he could come to.

When waiting for the employment opportunities, he would be in a theatre abdomen criticizing what he had just seen.

When the show was closed, he would make his way back to his hotel and sleep the next day and the process would be repeated.

It is as a routine, he said, which is agreed upon in America, as a natural and important condition to help shake prejudices.

After a brief stay in Canada, he came back to the United States and studied for the position of director of the hotel. His name is still remembered in the hotel business.

Interviews Lee

(Continued from Page 1)

Mr. Letz was a prize fighter with an excellent record, but his weight was over the lightweight class. Because of his past experience, he had been in court and out looking for a different type of work.

In those days, around 1917, employment was especially tough, especially for a Negro, so Canada was the only land that he could come to.

When waiting for the employment opportunities, he would be in a theatre abdomen criticizing what he had just seen.

When the show was closed, he would make his way back to his hotel and sleep the next day and the process would be repeated.

It is as a routine, he said, which is agreed upon in America, as a natural and important condition to help shake prejudices.

After a brief stay in Canada, he came back to the United States and studied for the position of director of the hotel. His name is still remembered in the hotel business.

Interviews Lee

(Continued from Page 1)

Mr. Letz was a prize fighter with an excellent record, but his weight was over the lightweight class. Because of his past experience, he had been in court and out looking for a different type of work.

In those days, around 1917, employment was especially tough, especially for a Negro, so Canada was the only land that he could come to.

When waiting for the employment opportunities, he would be in a theatre abdomen criticizing what he had just seen.

When the show was closed, he would make his way back to his hotel and sleep the next day and the process would be repeated.

It is as a routine, he said, which is agreed upon in America, as a natural and important condition to help shake prejudices.

After a brief stay in Canada, he came back to the United States and studied for the position of director of the hotel. His name is still remembered in the hotel business.

Interviews Lee

(Continued from Page 1)

Mr. Letz was a prize fighter with an excellent record, but his weight was over the lightweight class. Because of his past experience, he had been in court and out looking for a different type of work.

In those days, around 1917, employment was especially tough, especially for a Negro, so Canada was the only land that he could come to.

When waiting for the employment opportunities, he would be in a theatre abdomen criticizing what he had just seen.

When the show was closed, he would make his way back to his hotel and sleep the next day and the process would be repeated.

It is as a routine, he said, which is agreed upon in America, as a natural and important condition to help shake prejudices.

After a brief stay in Canada, he came back to the United States and studied for the position of director of the hotel. His name is still remembered in the hotel business.

Interviews Lee

(Continued from Page 1)

Mr. Letz was a prize fighter with an excellent record, but his weight was over the lightweight class. Because of his past experience, he had been in court and out looking for a different type of work.

In those days, around 1917, employment was especially tough, especially for a Negro, so Canada was the only land that he could come to.

When waiting for the employment opportunities, he would be in a theatre abdomen criticizing what he had just seen.

When the show was closed, he would make his way back to his hotel and sleep the next day and the process would be repeated.

It is as a routine, he said, which is agreed upon in America, as a natural and important condition to help shake prejudices.

After a brief stay in Canada, he came back to the United States and studied for the position of director of the hotel. His name is still remembered in the hotel business.

Interviews Lee

(Continued from Page 1)

Mr. Letz was a prize fighter with an excellent record, but his weight was over the lightweight class. Because of his past experience, he had been in court and out looking for a different type of work.

In those days, around 1917, employment was especially tough, especially for a Negro, so Canada was the only land that he could come to.

When waiting for the employment opportunities, he would be in a theatre abdomen criticizing what he had just seen.

When the show was closed, he would make his way back to his hotel and sleep the next day and the process would be repeated.

It is as a routine, he said, which is agreed upon in America, as a natural and important condition to help shake prejudices.

After a brief stay in Canada, he came back to the United States and studied for the position of director of the hotel. His name is still remembered in the hotel business.

Interviews Lee

(Continued from Page 1)

Mr. Letz was a prize fighter with an excellent record, but his weight was over the lightweight class. Because of his past experience, he had been in court and out looking for a different type of work.

In those days, around 1917, employment was especially tough, especially for a Negro, so Canada was the only land that he could come to.

When waiting for the employment opportunities, he would be in a theatre abdomen criticizing what he had just seen.

When the show was closed, he would make his way back to his hotel and sleep the next day and the process would be repeated.

It is as a routine, he said, which is agreed upon in America, as a natural and important condition to help shake prejudices.

After a brief stay in Canada, he came back to the United States and studied for the position of director of the hotel. His name is still remembered in the hotel business.

Interviews Lee

(Continued from Page 1)

Mr. Letz was a prize fighter with an excellent record, but his weight was over the lightweight class. Because of his past experience, he had been in court and out looking for a different type of work.

In those days, around 1917, employment was especially tough, especially for a Negro, so Canada was the only land that he could come to.

When waiting for the employment opportunities, he would be in a theatre abdomen criticizing what he had just seen.

When the show was closed, he would make his way back to his hotel and sleep the next day and the process would be repeated.

It is as a routine, he said, which is agreed upon in America, as a natural and important condition to help shake prejudices.

After a brief stay in Canada, he came back to the United States and studied for the position of director of the hotel. His name is still remembered in the hotel business.