Kathie Williams portrays Joan of Arc in Shaw's SAINT JOAN, presented tonight and tomorrow at 8:15 in the new theatre.

SAINT JOAN opens Freedlander Theatre

George Bernard Shaw's version of the story of Joan of Arc, SAINT JOAN, is this year's Parents Day Play, the premiere performance in the Herman Freedlander Theatre, and this year's College-Community show.

Shaw takes debunking aim at the romantic view of Joan of Arc in this play. Shaw aims rather at tragedy, where Joan is the victim, not of malevolent forces, and unjust judge, and a cruel inquisitor, but of the inevitable.

In Shaw's view Joan of Arc was a Protestant, a nationalist, and (though he would doubtless shudder to the depths of his Shavian soul to hear the term) a woman's liberationist. The first explains why she was burnt, and the second what she was doing at the head of France's army, and the third why almost no one could endure her. Caught among these three, she perished.

Portraying the title role of Joan is Kathie Williams, a blooded actress of Shaw who appeared two years ago as Dona Amora in DON JUAN IN HELL. Two other alumni of that production, Niall Slater (Bishop Caudon) and Walker Joyce, also appear in SAINT JOAN. Community players in the show include Don Curie as the Earl of Warwick and Peter Havholm as John de Stogumber. Other principal players include James Finney as the Dauphin and David Schieve as Dunois.

A special feature of the presentation will be the music of the period performed during the intermission by a Renaissance musical group from Baldwin-Wallace. Curtain time for the production tonight and tomorrow is 8:15 p.m.

Energy apocalypse foreseen

by David Johns

"Ultimately we are going to come to an end and this is a fact that Americans are not going to accept easily. We're the largest consumers of energy in the world and the largest wasters."

Richard J. Anderson stressed the need for Americans to conserve energy and find new ways of producing it, in his lecture last Tuesday in Severance Hall. He spoke of the history of waste in America, which led to the current energy shortage, and of the outlook for the near future.

According to Mr. Anderson, associate director of the Battelle Energy Program, the current attitude toward energy originated shortly after America was discovered. The settlers believed that the natural resources around them were virtually unlimited. They rapidly burned up wood, their principle energy source, in order to cook and heat their homes. The same careless attitude prevailed after petroleum was discovered, according to Mr. Anderson. "It seemed as though everywhere we looked we found oil. It was selling for ten cents a barrel. For over a century natural gas was burned to get rid of it. Americans believed then and believe now that we have endless resources, without limit. If I say we don't, they think I am trying to set up prices or deceive them."

The present oil shortage is a result of the fact that the rate of consumption exceeds the production. The U. S. was the number one producer of petroleum and natural gas until 1974, when the Soviet Union took over that position. Mr. Anderson said, "We use 18 million barrels of petroleum a day, compared to 17 million last year. In November of 1970, we did not recommendations for reappointment or tenure.

This statement is submitted to the Teaching Staff and Tenure Committee in early November. The committee carefully reviews each evaluation of faculty members which it recommends for reappointment if their contracts are up for renewal, suggesting what faculty members should not be re-appointed and what faculty members should be tenured.

President Drushal presents his recommendations to the Board of Trustees based on the recommendation of the Teaching Staff and Tenure Committee. The Board of Trustees has the ultimate decision making power, although it has never disagreed with President Drushal's recommendations.

Open forum poses tenure questions

An open forum was held last week by the Student Government Association in response to the non-re-appointment of some faculty members. There was much controversy over tenure itself, as well as over the specific faculty members.

Students posed many questions about tenure. These questions were compiled by SGA President Lyle Hanna and presented to Dr. F. W. Cropp, Vice President for Academic Affairs and a member of the Teaching Staff and Tenure Committee of the College.

Among the questions posed by students at the forum were how many people were granted tenure, was there a quota for tenure, were people not rehired because of economic reasons and were people given tenure who were not here long enough to get it.

Other questions included; who pulls the strings when the Educational Policy Committee approves a position and the department wants the professor but he is laid off; questions of outlining the evaluation procedure, how are student evaluations seen and how much influence do the deans have in decisions.

Dr. Cropp responded to some of these questions in an SGA cabinet meeting last week. Dr. Cropp discussed the implications of tenure. They included the question of whether students want a turnover in faculty or a tenured staff, the fact that there is currently less turnover in higher education than ever before, the fact that the College now has 70 tenured professors, and that the College does not want more than 93 tenured faculty as the projected enrollment by 1989 is only 1,400 students. There is no quota system for tenure in departments, but it was recommended that no more than a specific number of professors per department be tenured, and there are very few ways to dismiss a tenured faculty member.

Population bomb more than just a myth

According to the VOICE, Frances Frech, a speaker at C.O.W., declared that the world's population will decline due to low birth rates, that fear of a population explosion is misplaced, and that our energies should be placed exclusively in economic development rather than population control. Hopefully only a few believe these myths.

The only way the world's population will decrease from the present population is by vast numbers dying from disease, famine, and other ills that may result from our rape of the Earth. From world population will increase from its present four billion people to 6.5 or 7 billion people by the year 2000. That is an increase of 2,500,000,000 or 3,000,000,000 people in twenty-five years. At present we have grave difficulties improving the standard of living for the present billions, a few billion more will make it only more difficult.

We have invested millions into increasing food production with some results. From 1956 to 1972 food production rose by a factor of about 1.6 in developing nations. But due to population growth, per capita food intake rose only slightly, with people still hungry. Population growth did not increase food production and in fact negated any increases. It should be added that the technology that increased production has caused ecological problems that in the end may reduce food production.

Some like Mrs. Frech argue that creating high economic development will slow population growth. We must ask if it will slow growth enough and if it will be soon enough. Also there are simply not enough resources for the present and growing population to live at America's or even Europe's standard of living. Even reducing our overconsumption will not be enough. As the People's Republic of China experiences show, redistribution of wealth and greater development AND efforts to curb population growth by better medical services, free birth control services, and later marriages must be made.

The realities of the world demonstrate that population growth is a problem that must be solved.

Honor Code should reflect real attitudes

Dear Editor,

I've noticed in reading POTPOURRI that SGA is having discussions of the Academic Honor Code. It is my understanding that changes in the Code are a student government matter, and I offer the following ideas in support of a position on the Code which I assume will have come up in such discussions. For the Code to be reliable it will have to reflect the values of those who promise to abide by it. Students agree, I take it, that giving and receiving material during exams is a breach of obligations which they have to themselves. That principle therefore can be lived with, even when one violates it. On the other hand, the principle that one is to report others who violate the Code is a principle that nobody seems to practice or believe. To sign such a pledge—that no one fulfills—weakens the fiber not only of the entire pledge but of the very concept of giving one's word. The Code ought to be brought into line with this belief.

It should be understood that such an adjustment in the Code would effectively shift the responsibility for violations back onto the faculty—and this will mean a change in the conditions under which exams are taken.

Sincerely,
Ron Hustwit

SGA acts to support Code of Integrity

by Jim Van Horn

What do you think of the Code of Academic Integrity, under which all Wooster students are governed? This topic came up at a recent S.G.A. meeting and reactions were quite interesting. It was suggested that the code should be done away with, for student violations are an everyday occurrence. It was argued that many students may, in actuality, NOT realize just what the Academic Code of Integrity is, and that they probably don't even realize that they signed an agreement to abide by this code before they came to Wooster.

Alternatives to the code, if it were done away with, were also discussed at the meeting. Among these was the frightening idea of proctored examinations, which met with hearty disapproval from the S.G.A.

The major decisions made at this meeting involved sending a copy of the Code of Academic Integrity of all faculty, in order that they may remind their students of it for mid-terms, and placing a copy of the code in the next POTPOURRI along with a statement from S.G.A. President Lyle Hanna. Students will be able to read the code and come to your own conclusions.

Energy apocalypse

Mr. Anderson, "... unless we import from other countries. But 45 percent of the world's coal is in the U. S. Can you imagine such a marvelous endowment? At the present rate of consumption the coal supply will not be used up until 500 years."

According to Mr. Anderson, coal cannot fulfill our energy needs unless it can be converted to petroleum and oil. "It will be a great task, but we can make a synthetic gas from coal. During World War II Germany was cut off from her oil supplies and had no crude oil to power planes. Hitler asked the chemists to make gasoline out of oil. We need time to develop new sources of energy if we are going to be denied our old ones."

Mr. Anderson seemed to feel that a better approach to the immediate problem of energy is to cut down on waste. "We've invented ways to waste energy. One half of the houses are not insulated in Columbus. The average power plant employs the Carnot cycle, where millions of dollars are spent to heat water and then to cool it off again. If we cut out thirty percent of the waste, we could produce what we consume and would have some bargaining power in the world."

"Between now and the next five years will be the most difficult period for America to endure, if we do endure," warns Mr. Anderson. "If we continue on the current path, we will not endure and will only have ourselves to blame."

Lurid bacchanals to mark Packard Day

Wild revelry and lunacy unleashed will be the order of the day next Friday, May 9, as the COW presents its anthropophagically animated celebration of Alfred E. Packard Day, in fond and reverent memory of the only man in U. S. history ever to be convicted of cannibalism.

The comedy team Edmonds and Curley will be Masters of the Revels, appearing on stage from 12 to 12 on A.E.P. Day. Edmonds and Curley appeared here last year in McGaw and have been seen on the MERV GRIFFIN and

JOHNNY CARSON shows.

From 12 to 3 p.m. acoustical music will be presented by Barb & Kim, the Harlequins, the Prophets, Evie Ziegler and others. At 3:00 the Gross Fashion Show is scheduled. From 4 to 5 Art Hook's band, Water, will perform.

Dinner will be served outside, with dinner music by the Kappa Choir and others, from 5 to 6:30. From 8 to 11 the music of Alias Funk & Soul will be heard.

At 11:30 p.m., a special free showing of the film AMERICAN GRAFFITI will be seen on the roof of McGaw Chapel.

The area between Lowry Center and the PEC will be a fairgrounds, with arts & crafts exhibits, pastry booths, dunking booths with your favorite professors on the seats, balloons, kites, volleyball, popcorn, lemonade, gladiatorial combats, throwing of Christians to the lions, and orgies.

'Melting pot' idea to be examined

The United States is often idealized as a place where persons of all cultures and nationalities find a welcome, as distinct parts of one harmonious "American" whole. Is this a realistic concept? Can minorities find a real place in American culture; and, if they can, has it been only at the cost of losing their own identity, pride and uniqueness in the American melting pot?

These questions will form the theme for the COW's "Third World Week", scheduled for next week, May 5-8. The questions will be considered in terms of four "Third World" minority groups; Blacks, Asian-Americans, Spanish-speaking Americans and Native Americans ("American Indians").

The planned series of talks, discussions and films, in addition to considering the "melting pot" theme, will discuss some positive cultural aspects of the Third World groups, and present some examples of oppression.

The projected schedule for Third World Week, May 5-8, is as follows:

MONDAY, MAY 5

4:00--Pit Stop Panel Discussion on the Melting Pot Theory and alternatives to it; in Lowry Pit.

7:00--Films: "Education and the Mexican-American" and "Puerto Rico: The Caribbean American"; in Lowry Pit.

TUESDAY, MAY 6

7:00--Sr. Oscar Gamuccio, member of Cleveland School Board & Cleveland Spanish American

Major events scheduled for Parents' Day (Saturday, May 3) include a Faculty-Administration Coffee Hour in Lowry Main Lounge (9-10 a.m.), a Parents' Day Convocation with addresses by President Drushal and Vice President Hans Jenny in McGaw Chapel (10 a.m.), and Open Faculty Lectures from 1:30 to 2:45 p.m.

Also scheduled are a tour of the Herman Freedlander Theatre at 3 p.m., a Steak Fry for dinner at Lowry, the play SAINT JOAN, and, at 9 p.m. in Lowry Center Ballroom, a Jazz Ensemble Concert-Dance conducted by Terry Gardner.

Committee speaks in Lowry Pit on bilingual education & problems of Spanish-speaking people in Cleveland.

9:00--Discussion in Douglass Lounge on "The Future of Third World Concerns".

WEDNESDAY, MAY 7

4:00--Film on the American Indian, "The Forgotten American"; in Lowry Pit.

7:00--Film, "A Song for Dead Warriors", on background to the Indian occupation of Wounded Knee; in Lowry Pit.

7:30--Jerome Warcloud, State Co-ordinator for the American Indian Movement, speaks; in Lowry Pit.

THURSDAY, MAY 8

7:00--Film, "Yo Soy Chicano", on the past heritage and present activities of Mexican-Americans; in Lowry Pit. Film, "People Are Different and Alike", discussing how various groups can come together.

Jerome Warcloud, Ohio Coordinator for the American Indian Movement, will speak Wednesday at 7:30 in Lowry Pit as part of a series of Third World Week events.

appeal to President Drushal the recommendation of the committee and the decision of the board.

Faculty members who are being considered for re-appointment are not kept in the dark. There is a memo sent to them, inviting them to submit any extra material they wish to have considered. They are notified of the decision by April 15 of the year prior to the end of their contract. This is true for assistant professors associate professors and professors, all of whom have renewable two to three year contracts. Instructors, those faculty members who do not have a Ph.D., have renewable one year contracts. They are notified by December 15.

Tenure may be conferred at any time upon an associate professor and is automatically conferred upon promotion to professor. Tenure may be conferred under special circumstances upon an assistant professor. Tenure does not however "imply promotion in rank or increase in salary" (STATUTE OF INSTRUCTION).

"The Committee makes the best judgment possible," Dr. Cropp explained. "We are seeking the truly outstanding faculty member. Some letters we have received (in response to the non re-appointment of certain professors) charge the teaching staff and President with making decisions which downgrade the quality of the institution. What we are trying to do is to increase quality--we are not going to hire a replacement who is not qualified and judged to have the potential of being an outstanding teacher."

Scot laxmen tripped by Kenyon Lords

NEWS SERVICES --- Maybe The College of Wooster laxmen should have recited "The Lord's Prayer" prior to their Saturday afternoon contest with Kenyon College.

At least the Scots could have then asked forgiveness for challenging the Lords in Scot land.

But instead, Wooster paid for their "sin" with a punishing 7-5 Midwest LX Association loss.

Victory raised Kenyon's conference record to 6-1, 8-1 overall. The Scots dropped to 1-3, 2-3 overall.

later Kenyon's Bob Samit retaliated with a tip into Wooster nets. This tip came after Wooster's goalie, senior John Cope-land, made a save four feet from the net only to lose it to Samit.

Three minutes later, Samit struck again with an assist by Brokaw. Then Ewing concluded first period scoring at 7:01 to give the Lords a 3-1 advantage.

Netwomen lose to Oberlin,

Miami in tri-meet

by Janet Smeltz

In one bleak afternoon, the tennis Scotties' record dropped from a comfortable 4-1 tally to a cramped 4-3 mark. The reason: a tri-meet at Oberlin College, where the Scotties lost to Oberlin 0-5 and to Miami U, 1-4. Coming up this week are two chances for the Scotties to redeem themselves. Yesterday the women took on Muskingum College and tomorrow in the final home match of the season the ladies rise to a 10 A.M. challenge from Baldwin Wallace College.

Miami and Oberlin played first, so the two teams were not tired but instead warmed up by the time the Scotties arrived. The wind factor was involved in last weekend's match, and two opponents were also accustomed to that problem sooner than the Scotties. Oberlin defeated Miami 3-2; the two teams were evenly matched, both being tennis powerhouses. Oberlin touts their '75 team as their best ever.

Wooster Coach Dr. Sexton was pleased with both Wooster doubles teams. First team Joan Doeze and Fran Kielbowicz scored Wooster's only win,

At the outset of the second stanza, the Scots maintained their lack of offensive control in passing and movement down the field. By this time, one may have wondered if Wooster had any offensive plays.

But at 8:29, the Scot attack came alive and thrashed Kenyon goalie, George Parker, with six straight shots. And finally at 7:57, Jamie Thomas, senior co-captain, was successful in his attempt.

Wooster's Jim Robinson, a senior middle, finalized first half Scot scoring with an able assist by Thomas. But the Lords were not finished. Samit scored his third goal at 2:25 to lead Kenyon point-makers.

Rob Rutan, a sophomore middle, found the nets on a slant shot that slipped by Parker to open the third quarter for Wooster. Kenyon countered with two goals to give them a 7-4 lead.

Wooster's Thomas then came up with his second goal to take Scot scoring laurels.

Wooster returned to first quarter sloppiness in the fourth period. The attack was unable to score. Kenyon, likewise, collected no goals.

"It was a hard fought battle, for we were fairly even," commented Coach Pat O'Brien. "They put shots on our goal and we put shots on theirs; but as one could see, they were more successful."

Women sailors bring home trophy from Notre Dame

by Cindy Skillman

The Wooster Women's Racing team brought home the Midwest Championship trophy for first place last weekend. The regatta was held on St. Joseph's Lake on the campus of Notre Dame. Eight schools participated, with Wooster taking first, Notre Dame second and Bowling Green third. Michigan State, Western Michigan, Purdue, Ohio Wesleyan and Wisconsin also competed.

Sixteen races were held (12 on Saturday and 4 on Sunday). Mary Lou Dunn skippered in the A division with Libby Price and Katie Swanson alternating as crews. Liz Britton skippered B division with Cindy Skillman as her crew. Liz was low-point skipper with 4 firsts, 5 seconds, a 7th and an 8th. Mary Lou was third in her division.

Saturday went fairly well for Wooster's team with light winds. Wooster ended second, two points behind Ohio Wesleyan. With only 4 races on Sunday, Wooster gained a place when Ohio Wesleyan dropped to 4th due to several bad races. The winds on Sunday were generally heavier and colder with a light rain.

The women's team has not raced intercollegiate prior to this regatta. They have usually been a part of the coed Sailing Team. The team is indebted to Ron Boehm and Ray Lyon for their assistance and coaching. The women's team is now eligible for the Nationals, which they will attend in Chicago, June 16, 17 and 18.

In nine years of professional football, Jim Brown gained 12,312 yards for an average of 5.2 yards per carry.

beating their Miami opponents 4-6, 6-3, 6-2. This pair's Oberlin outcome was decided in the last point of that match, as Oberlin pulled out a 4-6, 6-4, 7-6 win over Joan and Fran. Wendy Newton and Mollie Magee troubled their Miami opponents before bowing, 1-6, 6-3, 2-6, and lost to Oberlin 0-6, 3-6.

Carol Hahn's cold slowed her up a bit; she lost her Miami match, 1-6, 0-6, and her Oberlin trial, 1-6, 1-6. Concentration again gave Smeltz problems: her Miami score was 1-6, 0-6, and her Oberlin score was 2-6, 0-6. Betsy Seller had tough times, too. Against Oberlin the freshman newcomer bowed 2-6, 0-6, and her Miami effort was a 1-6, 1-6 downer. Almuth Wildeus competed against Oberlin in an extra meet, and she too fell to the Oberlin tide.

JV laxwomen bow to Ashland

The women's junior varsity lacrosse team was defeated by Ashland Saturday on the home field, by a score of 7 to 12. Coach Chambers stated that she was very pleased with the team's performance, especially against Ashland's experienced club team. "Our second team are really becoming developed players. After a couple problems in the first half, they were able to come back in the second half and match Ashland's skills." The score at half time was Wooster 4; Ashland 7.

Miss Chambers was very pleased with the play of first year goalie Beth Hastings, veteran Karen Alderfer with many interceptions, and offensive keys Liz Englehardt and Jo Tilbury. Englehardt was high scorer for the Wooster team with three goals. Also scoring goals were Tilbury, Linnette Lander, Betsy Robb, and Sarah Emerson, each with one. Coach Chambers feels that this is the most skilled and balanced second team Wooster has had.

The women's varsity lacrosse team travels to Denison Thursday for a game at 4:00. They are matched against arch rival Ohio Wesleyan Saturday at home.
