Erno Balogh Opens Career Week
With Chapel Concert Sunday

In conjunction with the Career Week Schedule which was published in last week’s Voice the following biography of the performers and the student body may have a better insight into next week’s program.

There has come to the light in the last few days the midst of a misunderstanding among the student body due to entry into these panels.

The President is now on a nation-wide tour for his duties as the Assistant Secretary of the State Department. He has been addressing the students at various forums.

The students have been discussing the issues that are currently being debated.

The President has been speaking about the importance of education and its impact on society.

In a recent speech, he talked about the need for more investment in education and the role of universities in preparing the workforce for the future.

As a result, the students have been discussing the importance of higher education and the need for more resources to be allocated to it.

Meanwhile, on the other side of the country, Congressmen are having a heated debate on the budget and its impact on social programs.

The House and Senate are divided over the proposed budget cuts, with Democrats calling for a more balanced approach.

In the Senate, Republicans are pushing for deeper cuts in non-defense programs, while Democrats are opposing them.

On the other hand, the House is considering a bill that would increase funding for education and healthcare.

The President is expected to meet with Congress this week to discuss the budget.

Meanwhile, the administration is working on a comprehensive plan to address the ongoing budget crisis.

The plan includes proposals to reduce government spending, increase tax revenues, and stimulate the economy.

The President is expected to unveil the plan in a joint address to Congress next week.

In terms of economic policy, the administration is trying to strike a balance between short-term stimulus measures and long-term fiscal responsibility.

The President is expected to focus on the need for job creation and economic growth in his speech.

Meanwhile, the Federal Reserve is considering raising interest rates to combat inflation.

The decision will have a significant impact on the economy and financial markets.

In the meantime, the administration is working with Congress to pass a stimulus package to boost the economy and create jobs.

The package is expected to include funding for infrastructure projects, education, and healthcare.

The President is expected to receive a detailed briefing on the stimulus package from his economic team this week.

In terms of foreign policy, the administration is trying to tackle a number of challenges, including the war in Afghanistan, the situation in Iran, and the ongoing crisis in Syria.

The President is expected to discuss these issues in his upcoming address to Congress.

Meanwhile, the administration is working to improve relations with key allies, including the United Kingdom and France.

The President is expected to meet with British Prime Minister David Cameron next week.

In terms of domestic policy, the administration is working on a number of initiatives, including healthcare reform, energy legislation, and immigration reform.

The President is expected to make significant announcements on these issues in his upcoming speech.

Meanwhile, members of Congress are working on legislation to address these pressing issues.

The administration is also working on a comprehensive strategy to address the ongoing financial crisis.

The program includes proposals to regulate Wall Street, increase oversight of financial institutions, and provide relief to American families and businesses.

The President is expected to receive a detailed briefing on the financial crisis from his economic team this week.

In terms of social policy, the administration is working on initiatives to help the poor and vulnerable.

Senators Action

A letter was received by the presiden t of the Students' Union from the National Student Organiza tion, which was mailed to Chicago in December, expressing its dis taste for the Student Senate's decision to issue two delegates, requesting that Student Senate and a delegate to a meet ing be held in Cleveland on April 10 and 11, which will be attended by the presi dent of the Students' Union. The Senate voted to send two delegates and a representative to the conference, but the choice of those delegates will be made at a later meet ing.

The report was made that the parlia tmentary principles of the Student Senate, as adopted, would be Peculiar [or similar] to this make; it is not to be included.
