Serendipity Singers Appear As Trustees' Centennial Gift

The Centennial Year should definitely end on a high note with the appearance here of the Serendipity Singers, Friday, March 10th, at 8 p.m. This following group will appear in concert in Severance Gymnasium from eight to approximately ten p.m. A reception for the singers and the students will be held in Balchow Hall immediately following the concert.

The concert is a Board of Trustees' gift to the student body as a kind of post-Centennial dessert. It is entirely financed by the Board, although contracting and arrangements were handled by Bill Brown, treasurer of the SGA. The entire cost of the affair is around $500.

Admission is free to students, and only students and other campus community members will be admitted. There will be no tickets sold, nor will there be any reserved seats. All seats (the floor and others) will be on a first-come, first-served basis, with the doors to Severance opening at 6:30.

The "pop-folk" singing group is composed of nine members—seven men and two women (aptly described as strikingly beautiful by President Dr. Howell). The group includes: Tim Driver, Brooks Hatcher, Mike Hovenske, Clark (1st guitar), John Madden, tenor guitarist Jon Arbelo, tenor guitarist John Perry, and the two females—blonde Joan Cony and brunette Lana Rea.

The term "pop-folk" is their own classification to describe compositions rooted in pop music, but with folk arrangements and instrumentation. They compose much of their own material. Their act is "self-contained" in that they have no band, nor do they bring in any outside musicians. They "do things our way" and have been performing for two years.

Their weekend concert will be their first in Cleveland. They have worked in the Chicago, Los Angeles, and San Francisco areas, and have also appeared at several schools and universities on the West Coast. They are sure to bring new and interesting music to the enjoyment of the students.

Lecturers Support Status Quo, Spark Sharp Student Dissent

Wooster delegates to last weekend's Ohio Wesleyan Conference on Southeast Asia in lecture-style sessions, the conference, entitled "Weepers of the Decallion in Asia," was sponsored by the Ohio Wesleyan Student Government, the Great Lakes Colleges Association, and the Council on Religion and International Affairs. Eleven Wooster students and three professors attended the lectures and discussions which extended from Thursday through Friday.

The five lecturers represented different aspects of a position which falls within the scope of current Administration policy. None of the speakers argued against military activities in either the North or South; none supported unilateral reduction or elimination of bombing in the North. The conference represented a much wider range of opinion, which stimulated some exchange arguments.

Dr. William V. O'Brien, Director of Georgetown University's Institute of World Policy, opened the conference Thursday evening with an analysis of national war of liberation in Vietnam. He said, "Traditional, idealistic notions of political revolution" that consists of "calls for a never-ending struggle" always leads to negotiation.

President Candidates Impress, Color Day Queen in Campus-wide SGA Voting Monday

by Paul Lewis

Presidential Candidates Hicks, Jimison Compete On Social, Educational Stands

Next Monday student voters will face a full slate of candidates for SGA and CCA offices, as well as a list of proposed amendments to the SGA constitution. At that time final voting for Color Day Queen will also occur.

Voting will take place in all dormitories between the hours of 4 and 11 p.m. Those living off campus may cast their ballots in the library blue room from 7 to 11 p.m.

John Jimison, junior candidate for SGA President, states that a student who is not a student, will not work, for a but for a student, bh Deep, it will mean all student's activists, extracurricular activities and cultural events are at least as important as academic.

To further these social affairs, John, who calls for a reduction in "red tape in society," partly through a "drastic change in" or abolishment of, the student organization for men's: students. Among other; the present system of required cotizations at major are too heavy.

A Pleading Voice

Journalism is often branded a bastard of academic circles; many contend that journalism is a "trade school" for the ulterior motives of pseudos. Certainly large portions of student newspaper content reinforce such judgments. It doesn't need to be that way. Anyone who reads the New York Times regularly under- stands that the paper's editors are interested in stimulating such interests, and prepare students to experiment in the field of journalism during their summers.

Problems encountered annually by the VOICE staff are an excellent argument for such a course. It would provide a larger staff, and consequently a wider variety of opinions and interests. Most VOICE editors have learned their skills in high school or from their friends on campus; they have been forced to rely on close friends to carry much of the work load. The result can be a student newspaper which does not accurately represent the opinions and concerns of the student body.

An interdepartmental journalism course would encourage interest in a vital field and enhance the quality of the student newspaper. Journalism is the other side of writing, another way of understanding the framework on which to build understanding of today's events; it must be the product of a profoundly liberal education. The COACH can contribute to that goal by offering a course on journalism by investigating the possibility of offering an interdepartmental course.

Letters to The Editor

Coffee House, Inc.

To the Editor:

I was pleased to see the issue at this time to clarify what and who the Coffee House Inc. (Zeta Chapter) and the surrounding environment of Zeitgeist is composed of our stud- ents, faculty, and friends of Wooster Community Life Committee of West- minster Church, and a part of the Board of Trustees of Westminster Church, the Session of West- minster Church, and the Board of the College.

The program, duration, and food policy are subject to the written policies of various student committees and are subject to change. The SGA, or any other group, are not a campus organization and are not under the control of the faculty, Zeitgeist is run by students, a. a student-run publication, and some interested church members.

I cordially invite students and faculty members of the College of Wooster with a different atmosphere from that of the Tab or the Shub, and to provide them with a place to live.

Zeta Chapter

The March of Dimes committee have decided to raise funds to make contributions to the campaigns. The committee will focus on the poor for the less fortunate by donating so willingly. A total of $120.45 was collected. This donation was turned over to Mr. Wohly, Campaign Chair. The members of the Committee are: Carol Wood, Gail Gorden, Steve Sheehan.

in an oversimplified view, and that probably the chief reason for the increasing pressure was to find some "suitable" way of meet- ing the student's increasing public pressure for self-policing.

In any case whatever the real- cause for the increasing attention the Zeitgeist has been the political dis- cussion. The three major parties, the American people, and the Republican political decisions are dif- ferent; and the elections are at such a fever pitch. But when it comes to the candidates themselves it seems they are keenly extenuated—unless it is the congressman who got away.

I Don't Believe You

by Mike Hutchison

It's a fact that you see those so-called humanitarians are the greatest tyrants of all history? Some real need of people to take a common sense approach. What the hell are they doing there? We should be doing something. If we're going to give to the poor, we should be doing something.

As for the other half of the world, on the other hand, there is no problem with the poor. They are doing their best. The only thing that is really bothering us is the lack of food. The only thing that is really bothering us is the lack of food. The only thing that is really bothering us is the lack of food.

That's why our leaders had to admit that we were doing nothing. And that was the reason why we were doing nothing. And that was the reason why we were doing nothing.

The U.S. military leaders could admit that we were not fighting for Peace in Our Time, in War, All Wars; but that they were the only way to do what they thought, and that they were doing the best thing they could do.

Some of them were, we're all doing this, and that's probably not the best thing they could do. But it's the best thing they could do. But it's the best thing they could do.

The war in Vietnam was a disaster, but it was the best thing they could do. But it's the best thing they could do.

To the Editor:

Three cheers for Dr. Ling and the Stout Symposium! Last Sunday night, they gave us an excellent and well-balanced concert. It was only too bad that they performed for such a small audience. The band is the major student participation instrumental group on the campus, yet even with printed programs in places night after night over the campus, only several hundred spectators found time to their schedules attendance. In contrast to this, take the Concert Choir. Let no one be under the impression be all admired and defied by what I say: I myself have sung in this organization for four years and am not the least bit regretful.

The concert reportedly fills the chapel to the rafters by giving performance of works by Beethoven and Bach. Granted, the compositions presented by the choir are great works of art, but I wonder if some of those in these audiences are present only to keep up their part of the "muni- mental intellectulessness" of this campus.

If surveys were taken, how many Wooster students could say that they enjoy Bach more than a still more stirring a match than Hall or Goldband? By "enjoy" I do mean study of chord stucture, contrapuntal devices or melodic configuration in their stress, the works of the masters are superior; instead, I mean ENJOY with capital letters, such as can be experienced by sitting back and listening.

The band concert is a part of our American Heritage, and a link with the past; but if every town took pride in their bandstand, I would be liable to wager the size of Sunday's audience that Wooster in certain areas was not equal to the progressive movements of the present to time. This is a picture into the past, a fault which in my opinion is just as bad as being unconcerned about the present.

To the Editor:

The following short story was told to the local bartenders by a congenial group of C's and draft card barmen.

Parson: I have been the successful husband sitting one evening in your local bar, reading a certain paper. There is a knock at the door. You open and find standing before you a man of enormous size. Since you are a good Christian, you invite him in as it is impossible for you to refuse anyone. He promptly proceeds to say that he has come to kill your wife and children; he makes it clear that he has no intention of bothering you, unless you interfere.

The stranger claims that he must do this to fulfill deep religious beliefs and that he will do so. He now starts moving slowly toward the kitchen, carrying a box of work on you. As you are in this point you have the choice of shooting him with your own close-at-hand re- or of standing by to see whether or not he really means it.

He isn't stopping and your wife and children, trapped in the kitchen, are already screaming. You know that you could never restrain him by force since his strength is far superior. Yet the opportunity of the average American is to be confronted with his own weakness and decide for himself. "Thou shalt not kill!" So you ask, "the fish, or the soul?"

You pull the trigger. You think further, "Jesus loved all men, but he didn't follow Satan in doing so."

Americanized Age Poses Difficulties For Tourists Pursuing Experience'

by Ron Wallace

"Live, live," enjoins Henry James' protagonist Lambeth Strether in The Ambassadors. And much like Strether himself, many Wooster students might refer forth from Wooster's President American continent, to the continent which James viewed as symbolized of experience, mystery, and enrichment.

But it has been difficult in this American age to rid oneself of the phlegmatic, pseudo-American view of life which has invaded even those in the tra-ditionally exoticating European cities are now equipped with all the com-forts of home; they are now drink- ing water, American food, private cars, the hotels, fast cars. Even- rial passes on the modern trains, and the grandeur of the American language.

Fortunately, America has penetr- ated mostly into the more c o n s c i e n t i o n o f Europe and is a tourist can still encounter the mystery and ex- perience of an earlier world. The secret to a memorable tour rests with the decision to make the trip as leisurely and unstructured as possible. And the most effective way to encounter the bizarre side of Paris can be, you will no doubt have a sense of the carnival atmosphere, the American tours, and the larger limited opportunity for the per- sistence of assorted lecherous Frenchmen, connotes excellently with the cultural attractions of the city.

An exciting as the bizarre side of Paris can be, you will no doubt have an awareness of the carnivals, the American tours, and overt denial of conventional modesty posed by the street-wise public caricatures. And you may have discovered that even when no matter how loud you shout in French, the English don't seem to understand.

hibition of 150 photographs depicting recent prize-winning architectural projects. The display will open next week at the College Art Center. The purpose of the exhibition, which is being circulated by the American Federation of Art, is to illustrate the progress made during recent years in the successful intercalation of the various building arts such as archi-

too many of your readers were playing the game for what they could get out of it. Honesty would have improved the best policy.

College administrations could just as well admit that they don't de- fend the status quo necessarily because it is Good and Right, but merely because they have not taken much time and effort—things which are to be expected of the costs. The alumni (and money-givers) don't like change either; and besides, what is there to be gained by the way we did it in the Good Old Days?

And when proposing marriage, a man would say: "I think you will be able to satisfy some of my psychological and physical yearnings and even have sufficient lusts to make you a good risk, for a while, your."

Humanitarians unite. Maybe the field is a better place to die out of than he born into anyway. If you were, about 500 men would sign in Congress and admit that all men are not equally fit. The world is not even and a little better for the fact that we are different; you and Americans would laugh and say: "Ho, ho. Those politicians. Ha, ha, we can stay away with it without getting caught."

And when told of the millions of people starving, in India, and throughout the world, many U.S. politicians would at least be able to say: "We are usually better than the dirty begars."

For they're too stupid to their own poor people to lose their own problem, let 'em starve. "It will help ease the population anyway."

It is strange that these things which give meaning to life are lies. But none of their lies. Actualities are true, realities are true, but not all realities are actual, and not all actualities are real, yet. There is a humanism—unite. We have need of you.

Theological Ramsey derived his position on the just war from the concept of charity; he argued that, in the absence of the effective presence of a superior political authority, U.S. forces were left to the heart of Christian charity, "deliver as many as possible from tyranny."

Ramsey stressed that "the morality of war does not stop with the fact of war." The conduct of the war must be continually evaluated. Several conferences charged that Dr. Ramsey did not justify the "fact of war" in Vietnam, before moving to a moral evaluation of the conduct of that war. He justified "the collateral deaths of many civilians" in warfare of counter-insurgency, because the guerrillas themselves are responsible for making civilians military targets.

Dr. Ernest Leffler, from the Brookings Institution in Washington, D.C., reinforced Quade's emphasis on the obligations of power; he asserted that we must renounce the "arrogance of isolationism" in order to serve emerging nations as refuge squads. According to Leffler, "We are embarking dangerously."

Many conferences felt that, of the five lecturers, Dr. Leffler was the principle opponent of reasoned discussion.

When I was one-and-twenty, I heard a wise man say, "Give crowns and pounds and guineas But not your heart away; Give pears and away and rubies But keep your fancy free." But I was one-and-twenty, No use to talk to me.

When I was one-and-twenty, I heard him say again, "The heart out of the bosom Was never given in vain;" Tis paid with signs a plenty And sold for endless rue. And I am two-and-twenty, And oh, 'tis true, 'tis true.

NLF Press Correspondent Says Vietnamese Follow US Student Anti-War Demonstrations

by Alexander Jack

Ed. Note: The "Voice" has subscribed to the Oriental Southeast Press Services service, which has sent two student correspondents to NLF's headquarters. Following is a portion of the most recent of the releases.

PRAGUE — In a two and one-half hour interview with the National Liberation Front's (NLF) chief European diplomatic mission, Pham Van Chong, of the NLF Liberation Press Agency, described the impact of American student demonstrations on the course of the war. Mr. Pham told how the Vietnamese follow closely the draft resistance movement, teach-in, and associated events, particularly at the University of California at Berkeley and the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

"Not all Vietnamese know what SDS (Students for a Democratic Society) is," he explained, "but virtually all know the name of Norman Morrison." In this connection, Mr. Pham referred to a poem "Emily, My Child" composed by a prominent American youth in memory of Mr. Morrison, who burned himself to death in front of the Pentagon to protest American foreign policy.

Mr. Pham acknowledged receiving donations of medical supplies and money from a group of Oberlin students and many others across the United States who participated in a human权利 project organized by a Quaker Action Group last December. The Quakers sponsored project sent equal amounts of aid to North Vietnam, South Vietnam, and the NLF. The supplies and money were forwarded directly to the NLF's Medical Service, Mr. Pham reported. "We highly value these gifts," he commented, "not because of the material value, but more importantly because of the moral behind them."

NLF Determination

The NLF believes that America has completely misaligned its will to resist. "I am not boasting," Mr. Pham maintained, "but the Vietnamese are very sensitive and justly mov- ing about their animosities—no complex. They then more or less completely destroyed the Vietnamese struggle for national independence since 40 D.C. against the Chinese, French, Japanese, and now the Americans. As to some claims that it is not Vietnam, Mr. Pham presently exists, Mr. Pham has everything planned. "Up until the Geneva agreement, we were the only one Vietnam for thousands of years. When France came in the 19th century, there was only one. When Britain left in 1945, there was only one. When France left again in 1945, Vietnam was again one. The American sup- ported a temporary military demar- cation from the North and South Vietnam, not the State Department or the White House. They may help us, of course, but not decide things".

The NLF correspondent concluded with the following observations: "It's the affair of South Viet- nam, not the State Department or the White House. They may help us, of course, but not decide things."

Vocational Seminar Features Medicine

by Norm Mackay

This coming Tuesday, March 14, at 7:30 in the Lib- rary Lecture Room, the CCA Vocational Seminar Series, under the chairmanship of Bill Plesh, will conduct a panel on medicine. The panel members will each describe duties and training in their own and related fields for the duration of an hour. There will be a brief discussion, after which students are free to leave or to stay and participate in an informal discussion and answer questions with the speakers in the discus- sion that follows.

Four areas of medicine will be represented on the panel. Dr. Dwight Huns from Pinitup, Pa., is an experienced plastic surgeon, who holds the office of President of the Plastic Surgery Association for Ohio and Pennsylvania. Dr. Huns will address the student body in Chapel during the morning of the seminar. Also on the panel will be Dr. Robert A. Anderson, an internist and general practitioner. Dr. William R. Schlueter, an ear, nose and throat specialist; and Dr. Harry D. Wen- ker, a dentist. The panelists are also alumni of the college, and the last-named's practice is the local area. According to latest reports, there is a serious manpower shortage in U.S. medicine. The present ratio of doctors to population is 141 to 10,000. With a population on the rise there will be an insurmountable demand for M.D.'s for the present ratio to be maintained. A major problem today is the lack of facilities and the shortage of teachers. In addition, a complex system of reserved duty and specialized duty, every day with educators, trained in 20th century medical practice, have to most of the students who will be practicing medicine in the 21st century.
Rajabi, Black Excel In OC Mat Finals

by Jim Hanna

Mo Rajabi and Don Black managed second place finishes in the Ohio Conference Wrestling Tournament last Wednesday to place Wooster as number seven with 25 points. Hiram, with five champions and three runners-up, won the tournament scoring over four times as many points as Wooster. Baldwin-Wallace's Bob Butler who had handed Rajabi his only loss of the season; Rajabi drove the match into overtime by freezing the score at 3-3. Butler, however, took over in the extra minutes to win, 4-0.

Black (150 lb.) coasted into the finals by overcoming Wittenberg's Chris Wilt, 7-1, in the first round, scoring a 4:47 pin over Heidelberg's Gay Bacher in the quarter-finals and by putting down Denison's Jack Hilt, 5-1, in the semifinals. Black tied up with Jim Rumbahm from Hiram in the finals and was taken down. Rumbahm had last year won the conference crown at this same weight.

Jeff Ney (177 lb.) was the only other club to win. Ney clipped the quarter-finals with an 8-3 program of Oberlin's Bob Nolan, but was stopped there when Denison's Bob Gibson came from behind to win 6-3.

Stev Lynch (125 lb.) put on an impressive show in spite of twice losing. Against Ohio Wesleyan's Bob Tegtmann, who was picked to win a close-up runner-up, Lynch was clipped, 5-4. In the consolation, Lynch battled ex-champion conference pairing Harry Markle of Hiram to overtime deadlock but was called for a stalling violation. In the decision of the referee, Lynch was given a live in the third and a forfeit in the consolation.

Gary Okulo (115 lb.), Rich Hill (130 lb.), John Eberly (134 lb.), Bob Bostiner (167 lb.) and Ed Smith (191 lb.) all gained the quarter-finals on byes but were unable to advance any further.

The season will be one week longer for Mo Rajabi and Don Black who will travel to Pennsylvania this weekend to represent Wooster in the Small College Nationals at Wilkes College.

Rolling Raiders Stingy Scots In Division Tourney Opener

Facing a Mt. Union team which they had taken 797-1 earlier in the year, the Scots were beaten handily by Mount's Purple Raiders, 79-57, in the first round Northern Division Tournament game at Amherst's Memorial Hall last Thursday night. Wooster couldn't find the basket and Mount's courageously,ailing guard Bob Hoyt turned in a great performance as he shot over the Scots' zone and man-for-man defense to had the Scots their third straight loss.

Saved by the Bell

Mt. Union dominated the boards from the beginning and opened up an 18-5 lead with 10 minutes to running in the half. By the buzzer it was 33-14 Mount's favor.

The Scots managed only 7 of 31 shots from the floor in the first half as the Raiders' defense really did the job. Seeing that their own zone defense was leaving too much open space, the Scots switched to the man-for-man midway through the half and pulled away further on Hoyt and center Craig Eldridge.

Wooster didn't get going until shortly after the second half began, but the Raiders already had a commanding 40-16 lead that kept that wide for the rest of the game.

Line-up Shuffle

Coach Van Wise switched his usual starting line-up that night to include all four seniors—Hoberry, Hoffa, Rucker and Jordan— along with Ruth Thompson. Thompson ended up high man for the Scots with 13 points. Tim Jorda, held to one for the whole first half, finished the night with seven points to put his final career total over 1,102.

Mount's Craig Eldridge was high man with 22 points after turning in a great offensive performance as he notched 17 points on top.

Tanked Record 2-6 Mark; Unbeaten Delts Clinch IM Title

by Rick Ames

In the Ohio Conference Championships last weekend, the Scots merrily finished seventh out of nine participating teams. The disappointing seventh was not a surprise since there was an improvement overall in last year's tenth place finish.

Krenyon, as expected, was first with 430 points; point that were Denison and Wittenberg were far back with 256 and 243 points, respectively. Wooster's point total was 36-downed also by Oberlin, Ohio Wesleyan and Baldwin-Wallace.

Pete Finferock was 11th in the 200 individuals final. He had 2:39.8 and also eighth in the 300-yard individual medley in 2:21.5. Bruce Hallock took tenth place in the 200-yard breaststroke to check in 2:36 flat, the same time as the ninth finisher.

The 400-yard freestyle relay of Ted Bell, Bob Ruffing, Bob Koff, and Court Van Deusen, took seventh place in a time of 3:59.9.

The 400-yard medley relay accounted for the rest of the points with an eight-place finish, 4:08.6.

In retrospect, the Scots had a dual record of two wins and six losses over the season plus the loss in the triangular meet on Feb. 25. The bright spot of the season has been the emergence of Pete Finferock, Bob Brons and Bruce Hallock as the best crop of freshman swimmers in recent years.

Coach Pat O'Brien, however, feels that the competitive swimming program cannot progress unless new facilities become available.

GOING UP FOR A SHOT, Wooster's Luke Haffo (30) gets clogged by Mount Union's Bob Stehlik in the Scots' first round Northern Division Tournament game at Amherst last Thursday night. The Raiders downed Wooster, 79-57.

Girls' Basketball

Once 4-0, Wooster Scotomes have bumped heads with three tough opponents and suffered low shooting percentages to drop to a 4-3 record with just one game remaining in the season. Baldwin-Wallace dumped Wooster for its most recent loss here Saturday by running when Yellow Jackets matched a 37-31 score. The Scots could sink only 19% of their shots and top scorer Jans Hardy was held to 3 points. Maxine Wil-lick was high for Wooster with 6 points. Tomorrow a game against Malone College finishes out the girls' season.

Trackmen Set For Conference Relays by Bob Landman

With the OAC indoor track and field meet coming up this Saturday at Denison, Wooster has three individuals and two relay teams qualified. In the con-ference trials at Granville last weekend, Jim Murti was among seven qualifiers in the long jump and a 20 1/2" club. Chuck Nott's vault of 12'1" earned him one of the 10 qualifying spots in the pole vault and Jim Jardine high jumped 5' 10" to easily in-clude in the ten man field for that event.

In the eight lap relay Artie Wil-son, Paul Reeves, Marti and Wal-ter Laydner put together a time of 2:15.8 to qualify for one of six final positions. The mile relay team is automatically entered in the meet and didn't have to run last Saturday. Marti, Reeves, Wilson and Hugh Ruffing will represent the Scots on this event and Wayne Howstler will go as an alternate.

to overcome the small, but necessary, being enforced by the women's Affairs Committee.

Dave, a junior, would also like to revise the TUB operation. This would include free music every weekend and the elimination of the damage for game facilities such as ping pong. Also helpful would be an expansion of the intramural sports to include ping pong and pool. To create a more casual atmosphere Dave advocated the present rule preventing women from wearing slacks to lunch and of the regulation prohibiting smoking in the women's parlor.

Jenny Coppton, a junior candidate for Vice-President of Campus Affairs, serves on the Women's Primary Court for two years and attended as Co-Chairman of Homecoming 1966. She feels it is the "function of the CAB to initiate social life and to coordinate student and administration opinions." Jenny, this year's Publicity Chairman for the CCA, urges the establishment of an inner-college publicity and transportation system. This would inform Wooster students of activities at other campuses. To determine student attitudes Jenny would, if elected, circulate a questionnaire "touching all parts of the campus."

Also a candidate for Campus Affairs is Carol Harkler, a JR and Co-Chairman of Parent's Day 1966. She emphasizes in her platform that the "CAB needs to emphasize a variety of regular events. We should have more than one activity available on a given night."

In addition, a more casual approach to social events, Carol suggests functions such as record dances after basketball games. Until the new union is finished we need to emphasize what we have to work with now.

Carol also calls for a re-evaluation of Big Name Entertainment. We should determine if the student support of this event, great though it is, justifies such a large expenditure of funds.

Running for the office of Vice-President of Men's Affairs is Bob Drake, a sophomore transfer student from Duke University. While at Duke, Bob served as a dormitory officer.

Bob sees the office of Vice-President as a "position in which one can be a communicator to the administration." Says Bob: "The administration ought to extend to the social realm the same trust they have in the students in the area of academics." To help accomplish this, Bob advocates "study and dialogue on the drinking rule and the elimination of chapter meetings at section open houses."

Also running for Men's Affairs is Jim Roberson. Current holding the chairmanship of the Admissions Committee and serving on the SGA legislature, Jim vigorously supports "the sections' right to regulate their own Hell Week activities." He wishes, though, to improve these events by carefully following the present rules concerning the pledges' time spent on pre-Hell Week duties. He says: "If we can clean up any of the problems that may exist . . . then we won't have to correct themselves from faculty or administration interference."

Jim also pledges support of those men who wish to defy the church attendance rules. However, he gives this word only if the men involved actively try to revise the trustees and administration that their position is right and only if they accept the consequences of their stand.
