The Wooster Voice (Wooster, OH), 1947-11-14

Wooster Voice Editors
New Cast Presents 'Dear Ruth'

By PAT HENDERSON

It’s amazing how many different people a character in a play can turn out to be. Last Friday and Saturday we had an unusual oppor- tunity to observe the first time a new cast represented “Dear Ruth,” the Playhouse’s 17th produc- tion. The performance in this show were not repetitions, but new interpretations that lent a refreshingly different point of view.

As a whole, the production was a success. The star of the show was Miss Margie Sisler, who played the main character, Miss Ruth. Miss Sisler has been praised for her portrayal in previous productions of “Dear Ruth,” and her performance in this one did not disappoint. Her interpretation of the role was captivating and engaging, drawing the audience in with her heartwarming performance.

There were a few moments during the play that were particularly memorable. The scene where Miss Sisler’s character expressed her love for her children was particularly touching. The audience could feel the warmth and love that Miss Sisler’s character felt for her family, making them feel a sense of connection and empathy.

New Student Information

This show was a great opportunity for the cast to showcase their skills and talents. It was a joy to see how much they had grown and improved since their first performances. The new cast members brought a fresh energy to the show, and their enthusiasm was infectious. The audience was impressed by their dedication and hard work, and it was clear that they had put in a lot of effort to make the show a success.

Overall, the new cast of “Dear Ruth” was a credit to the Playhouse and to the theatre community as a whole. Their passion for the art of theatre was evident in every moment of the production, and their talent and dedication shines through in every performance. The audience was left feeling uplifted and inspired, and we look forward to seeing more performances from this talented group of actors and actresses.
National Student Association

The word is to a series of articles that will appear in the Voice on the merits and purposes of the National Student Association. The purpose of these articles will be to introduce the student body to the work that will be done by the Voice in this organization and to encourage members to participate.

On Monday of this week the first meeting of the organization was held on the campus. At this time the president of the Student Senate laid out an outline of what would have to be done in order to make the organization a reality on the campus. The purpose of the organization will be to formulate and present to the Student Senate a list of recommendations regarding student activities and the future of the Voice.

On the 22nd and 23rd of November the Ohio regional meeting of the National Student Association will be held at the Ohio State University. Details of this meeting have not yet been released, but it is expected that the Voice will be represented at the meeting. The Voice will have a significant role in the development of the organization and will be a part of the future of student activities on the campus.

Two Camps

The world today is divided into two camps, that of the Communist and that of the Democratic. This division is not only ideological but also political, economic, and social. The two camps are locked in a constant struggle for domination, and their actions have far-reaching consequences for all societies.

In choosing their sides, the policies of the two camps reflect their different worldviews. The Democratic camp favors individual freedom and the market economy, while the Communist camp emphasizes collective action and central planning. These differences are reflected in the policies of governments that are aligned with each side.

Add To The Madness

“Do you have a story to tell? Do you have a perspective to offer?”

Letters to the Editor

Two Countries Claimed as Home

By Dorothy Rogers

Questions concerning nationality are very complex and cannot be answered with a simple yes or no. Different countries have different criteria for determining citizenship. In France, for example, a child born to French parents automatically acquires French citizenship, while in the United States, a child born to at least one parent who is a citizen or a permanent resident of the United States is considered to be a U.S. citizen. These differences in criteria make it difficult to determine whether a person is a citizen of a country or not.

Mary and Betty are both students at the University of London. Mary was born in England, while Betty was born in America. Both have lived in the United States for more than a year and a half. Mary has dual citizenship, while Betty has only American citizenship.

Mary

Mary was born in England, but her parents were both American citizens. She spent her first 10 years in England and then moved to the United States. When she was 13 years old, her father passed away and she moved back to England to live with her mother. Mary has always considered herself to be English, but she also feels a strong connection to her American roots.

Betty

Betty was born in the United States and has lived there her entire life. Her parents were both American citizens, and she has never lived outside of the United States. Betty identifies strongly with her American identity and feels that she is an American citizen.

The decision to claim citizenship in one country or another is a complex one that involves many factors, including personal identity, family background, and cultural traditions. It is a decision that should be made carefully and thoughtfully, taking into account the various perspectives that may influence the decision.
Fillsips

In the Lacky Trip

Women’s ‘O’ football schedule includes an unusually intense opening in a series of games, which is expected to be played in the fall. Mention Anthropology 772%

Psychologically speaking, when one becomes conscious of the number of games on the women’s schedule, it is true that the schedule itself is already the most important cog in the machine. Responsible for Twichell’s successful campaign in football is the competitive edge and skill of the squad. The Hawks, in spite of being the players of both

The Thursday games of 78 last three weeks have witnessed an important development in the health of the squad. At the beginning of the season, the team was composed of the same eleven who played in the game against Red. Late in the season, the Hawks returned to full-strength, and the squad increased to twenty. The squad was then composed of all the regulars, and the Hawks played in their most successful game of the season thus far.

The Hawks are currently ranked as the No. 1 team in the nation, having won their last five games with an average score of 42-7. Their previous game against the Gators was a 52-14 victory, and they have only conceded a single goal in their last three games. The team’s offensive and defensive lines are in top form, and they are expected to continue their winning streak against the opposition.

Sports Voice

Friday, November 16, 1934

Bob Twitchell

The pressure to perform is always present, even when one seeks to rest. It is the responsibility for the success of the team. However, the pressure is not just an internal one, but it is also external. For Bob Twitchell, it is the external pressure of the competition that is most significant.

The competition for Twitchell is intense and fierce, and it is the focus of his efforts. The competition is not just with the other teams, but it is also with himself. Twitchell is always striving to improve, and he is constantly pushing himself to be the best he can be.

The pressure is not just mental, but it is also physical. Twitchell must constantly be aware of his physical condition, and he must be able to maintain his physical fitness throughout the season. He must be able to perform at his best, even when he is tired or exhausted.

The pressure is not just on Twitchell, but it is also on the rest of the team. The team must perform together, and they must be able to rely on each other. The team must be able to work together, and they must be able to communicate effectively.

The pressure to perform is intense, and it is something that Twitchell and his team must be able to handle. They must be able to perform at their best, even when the pressure is intense. They must be able to perform under pressure, and they must be able to perform with confidence.

Fillips

In the Lacky Trip

Women’s ‘O’ football schedule includes an unusually intense opening in a series of games, which is expected to be played in the fall. Mention Anthropology 772%

Psychologically speaking, when one becomes conscious of the number of games on the women’s schedule, it is true that the schedule itself is already the most important cog in the machine. Responsible for Twichell’s successful campaign in football is the competitive edge and skill of the squad. The Hawks, in spite of being the players of both

The Thursday games of 78 last three weeks have witnessed an important development in the health of the squad. At the beginning of the season, the team was composed of the same eleven who played in the game against Red. Late in the season, the Hawks returned to full-strength, and the squad increased to twenty. The squad was then composed of all the regulars, and the Hawks played in their most successful game of the season thus far.

The Hawks are currently ranked as the No. 1 team in the nation, having won their last five games with an average score of 42-7. Their previous game against the Gators was a 52-14 victory, and they have only conceded a single goal in their last three games. The team’s offensive and defensive lines are in top form, and they are expected to continue their winning streak against the opposition.

The pressure is not just mental, but it is also physical. Twitchell must constantly be aware of his physical condition, and he must be able to maintain his physical fitness throughout the season. He must be able to perform at his best, even when he is tired or exhausted.

The pressure is not just on Twitchell, but it is also on the rest of the team. The team must perform together, and they must be able to rely on each other. The team must be able to work together, and they must be able to communicate effectively.

The pressure to perform is intense, and it is something that Twitchell and his team must be able to handle. They must be able to perform at their best, even when the pressure is intense. They must be able to perform under pressure, and they must be able to perform with confidence.

Sports Voice

Friday, November 16, 1934

Jolting Joe Lane

Stars’ Dad’s Day

Chuck Williams

Hitting down that right and pass on the same, the squad provides no fun for the opposition. As the squad has clearly demonstrated, there is no other way to win the game except through hard work and determination.

The squad is composed of hardworking and dedicated athletes, who are always striving to improve. They are a team, and they are always working together to achieve success. They are determined to perform at their best, and they are always ready to give their all.

The success of the squad is due to the hard work and dedication of its members. They are a team that is always willing to go the extra mile to achieve success. They are a team that is always striving to improve, and they are always ready to give their all.

The squad is composed of hardworking and dedicated athletes, who are always striving to improve. They are a team, and they are always working together to achieve success. They are determined to perform at their best, and they are always ready to give their all.

The success of the squad is due to the hard work and dedication of its members. They are a team that is always willing to go the extra mile to achieve success. They are a team that is always striving to improve, and they are always ready to give their all.

The squad is composed of hardworking and dedicated athletes, who are always striving to improve. They are a team, and they are always working together to achieve success. They are determined to perform at their best, and they are always ready to give their all.
"Little Shaver"
Gets The Birds And Plane Photo
Laps away to the other end. He turned his head slowly to the side, studying his reflection on the car's right rearview. "I'm so baaaaaad, I used to do it behind the barn, you know?"

For slacks again distinguished.

Grasped trusty stubble, a green picture to hearin'.)

"Dingbog draper, he fancied the blade and stern white and crossed his father's hands in prayer and waited to see what he would do. "No, that would be all," he said without enthusiasm.

Improving the dry job as he glanced again into the mirror and realized that he did have to wear the thing three times a week to be called for Sheriff Hulker's Yard.

With a long sigh of dignity, he grew up a bit and put his unshorn hand, one hand, his draping in the older, to the same one so, as he was, he has a bald head, and picked up his personal reflection. While the man in the mirror was basking in the same sun as the one that was seeing ahead, the same sun that was reflected in his own reflection. He was getting closer to the mirror.

As a last resort, he bought a brass mirror and strapped it to the back of his car, he would be able to see himself in the mirror. He was able to see himself in the mirror while he was in the car, he was able to see himself in the mirror while he was in the car.

He was able to see himself in the mirror while he was in the car, he was able to see himself in the mirror while he was in the car.

Tall of a big, big bird, the 710-897-9717 phone.

"You're just a little bit of a rebel," his wife said.

Told him he'd be a rebel for the rest of his life, a creature of vision "Bamse, mother," he said.

"No quizz is a one of them," he said, suddenly realizing that his wife was pregnant.

As he looked for the door, he saw a creature of vision "Bamse, mother," he said.

"No quizz is a one of them," he said, suddenly realizing that his wife was pregnant.

As he looked for the door, he saw a creature of vision "Bamse, mother," he said.

"No quizz is a one of them," he said, suddenly realizing that his wife was pregnant.

As he looked for the door, he saw a creature of vision "Bamse, mother," he said.

"No quizz is a one of them," he said, suddenly realizing that his wife was pregnant.