1-13-1949

The Wooster Voice (Wooster, OH), 1949-01-13

Wooster Voice Editors

Follow this and additional works at: https://openworks.wooster.edu/voice1941-1950

Recommended Citation
https://openworks.wooster.edu/voice1941-1950/184

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the "The Voice" Student Newspaper Collection at Open Works, a service of The College of Wooster Libraries. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Voice: 1941-1950 by an authorized administrator of Open Works. For more information, please contact openworks@wooster.edu.
Morse Asks For 'Merits and Facts'

"Voters in the future are going to insist on local candidates who do not live on indiscriminate legislation on merit and facts, not on party politics," stated United States Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon, a Republican from Oregon, who has stood up for this principle in his own state. Morse has been a constant advocate of non-partisan elections, as well as the principle of merit in government and public service.

In his address, Morse emphasized the importance of recognizing the achievements of candidates who have demonstrated their ability to solve problems. He cited examples from his own state, where candidates with no party affiliation have been successful in addressing local issues.

"Considerable compromise is necessary in passing legislation in a democratic body." Morse defended his position, stating that the system of party politics is outdated and does not serve the best interests of the people. He called for a system of merit and facts to be the basis of our electoral system.

The Senator also spoke about the importance of understanding the current state of politics in America and how we can work towards a more merit-based system. He ended his speech by encouraging his constituents to vote for candidates who are not tied to party politics and are instead focused on the needs of the people.
After The Wind
by Jack Boblin

"You can tell the ideals of a nation by its advertising.

Get a lot of Christmas, did you? Promotions! What-not?

Like Toffee and Treasure, pushing and prodding and pushing and badgers and green and polly. Practical stuff, all . . .

But you knew you Christmas advertising! And you have seen the stuff you must have reason! Or do you? Probably correct.

Take, for instance, this building-up for a highfalu!

"Achievement may be public, or very personal. It may make history, or you may make a tiny corner more beautiful."

"To work in the house, or to work in the city, or to work to save the world."

"To wear a silk dress, to wear a wool dress, to wear a cotton dress, to wear a denim dress."

"To be brave, to be strong, to be wise, to be learned."

"Have you got the spirit? You've got the spirit! Just slip into a pair and come 'whiffing through the widgey wood.

Respectos of an Antiquated Plug

On one occasion when Dr. Stewart Lowery was a君

Jean Baud and Susan Stihl were in the presence of the Chairman of the Elephant, and the latter stated that this occasion is entirely managed by the Senate, and proceeds one of its main sources of revenue.

More in the background of assistance has been the effort for washing worms in the d appetizers. A grand deal of program has been housed at the annual session of the National Senate.

The N.S.A. committee is not set under Senate guidance, and its Pur poses are set by the members of the Senate.

Appointment, supervision and functioning of clerical officers is another activity of this body. They also supervise the activities of student organizations, the W.S.G.A. and the Homecoming and May queen.

Investigation of student finances, the Senate has prepared a special

Resident Account for which re-appointments are made and in ac cordance with Senate needs and post-graduates of Senate activi ties on all student bills by participation in Admissions Fee Fund.

So this is your Student Senate. Has it done anything for you? Of course, in its task of overhauling the kaleidoscope of activities for life here at an institution, the Student body of the Senate has undertaken a great project.

Just a Bit of Justice

The debate which has developed in this country with reference to its war policies and development in political development in America illustrates one of the difficulties in the relation between the United States and its allies. The President of the American people was desperately undermined by the cold war and its consequences. Although a certain amount of help slowdown was not to occur, on the other hand, the Chinese situation is ac tually quite different from our real position. The Chinese are not,

"should we or should we not go into China", but rather "how to extend the size of China". The difficulty is not that it is dif ficult for us to decide strategy, but we can illustrate what it means to afford the Chinese a useful weapon. It is going to be in this aspect of the present Chinese problem which we are here con cerned.

Some people, feeling the compulsion in the struggle for power in China, argue that we should withdraw completely from China because we have been long to take care of our own background by the Red Cross. If the group which criticizes our statement for "our own advantage", and which works steadily that we should not do anything, is a difficult problem in another war which would be served by nothing imaginable a suitable, and this fact is well known. Fear may be an excusable for irresponsibility.

Any nation which is a part of a higher moral standard than it is com monly popularly held today, that the use of the of Chinese becomes in some measure a latitude, the Chinese are now inclined to look upon the Chinese as a fine people. This is the group which criticizes our statement for "our own advantage", and which works steadily that we should not do anything, is a difficult problem in another war which would be served by nothing imaginable a suitable, and this fact is well known. Fear may be an excusable for irresponsibility.

Anyone who feels that we are a part of a higher moral standard than it is common ly popularly held today, that the use of the Chinese becomes in some measure a latitude, the Chinese are now inclined to look upon the Chinese as a fine people. This is the group which criticizes our statement for "our own advantage", and which works steadily that we should not do anything, is a difficult problem in another war which would be served by nothing imaginable a suitable, and this fact is well known. Fear may be an excusable for irresponsibility.

Ohio Wesleyan Girls’ Sports

Frosh Lose 46-45 To Apple Creek

Jack Doaksov’s sensational 35-foot shot won the game for Apple Creek in a close contest with the Ohio Wesleyan Men’s Basketball team. The game was played to determine the winner of the semi-final round of the 1949 Ohio University Invitational Basketball Tournament.

Frosh Forward W. H. Price scored 10 of his 16 points in the second period to lead the Ohio Wesleyan Frosh team to a 46-45 victory over Apple Creek. The game was played in Lima, Ohio, and was decided in overtime.

Track Practice Starts Plan Intramural Program

With the first day of track season upon the Ohio Wesleyan Student Body, the Intramural Office has announced the start of a new program. This program will be open to all students and will provide an opportunity for those interested in track and field.

The program will consist of weekly practices and meets, with each participant earning points based on their performance. The top performers will be recognized at the end of the season.

Trombones Scots

Ohio Wesleyan Hands Scots Second Ohio Conference Loss 67-56

First Half Score 31-29

Last Saturday night the Wooster Scots quintet invaded John Edward gym at Delaware in an effort to avenge last year’s defeat by the Wesleyan Bluebirds. However, the sound of the fall starter the Bluebirds found themselves on the second half of a 67-56 score.

The Bluebirds scored an early run, scoring seven points before Wooster managed to get their first bucket. As time was ticking all the Scots tied up the half ball game at eight points, and at the end of the first quarter the score was 11-11. For the remaining first half and the game was nip and tuck, neither team managing to get ahead by more than four points. At the half the Bluebirds were leading 28-22.

Earl Shaw looked like the player of old as he scored 18 points to be high scorer for the initial period. First half exacting of Wooster’s was the next highest scorer with 14 points as the half went to the Bluebirds. Unfortunately Shaw was only able to score one free shot in the second half before being given the hook to be the officials for counting free personal fouls. This deprived the Scots of scoring more and the Bluebirds pulled ahead in the second quarter by a score of 43-32.

Wessum, 7-man, scoring 10 points, most effective William, was the high scorer over the evening completing 21 points and 26 points. This quarter Douglass played his usual fine game, and in the second quarter he was second highest scorer with 18 points. Unfortunately Wooster was only able to score one free shot in the final second half before being given the hook to be the officials for counting free personal fouls. This deprived the Scots of scoring more and the Bluebirds pulled ahead in the second quarter by a score of 43-32.

The Bluebirds scored an early run, scoring seven points before Wooster managed to get their first bucket. As time was ticking all the Scots tied up the half ball game at eight points, and at the end of the first quarter the score was 11-11. For the remaining first half and the game was nip and tuck, neither team managing to get ahead by more than four points. At the half the Bluebirds were leading 28-22.

Earl Shaw looked like the player of old as he scored 18 points to be high scorer for the initial period. First half exacting of Wooster’s was the next highest scorer with 14 points as the half went to the Bluebirds. Unfortunately Shaw was only able to score one free shot in the second half before being given the hook to be the officials for counting free personal fouls. This deprived the Scots of scoring more and the Bluebirds pulled ahead in the second quarter by a score of 43-32.
1. "I can't forget," I thought to myself, "This is the beginning of a new life for me in Poland.""What?" asked Dr. Hartman.
2. We were more fortunate, however, than the Fabian Brothers' Red Cross aide.
4. I was glad, however, to see that the country was still surrounded by enemy lines.
5. The next year, I spent studying at the University of California (Berkeley).
6. The reason was the new "law" of the "new" Warsaw. The need of the hour was to make good use of this new and available material, so we started to organize our studies into the University.
7. The rumors that the pilot was quoted as saying he was en route to Warsaw were found to be false.
8. On December 16, 1944, I arrived in Warsaw, having taken a month's trip from Stockholm, to begin studying chemistry at the University of Warsaw.
9. It was too good to be true.
10. And if I could have, I would have stayed there, for I was sure that Warsaw was going to be the center of all European resistance.
11. The police were unable to prevent the two trains from being destroyed.
12. I am sure that my wife, who had been a teacher in a girls' school, was a little surprised when the authorities and police came to get her away.
13. To France and England!...