The Grass? Keep Off!

"Grass is itself a child, the produced balance of the vegetation," says the acknowledged authority on Grass (and its respective Leaers). Are YOU the one who is murdering this child? Can you sleep nights? Has your heavy foot crushed ten thousand blades of grass—of which, we learn, struggles for birth each year at this time? Yes, it's Spring. But let's learn to live in accord with Spring. To understand the truth, go without shoes and socks, and let your bare feet find the grass, that william struggle for birth under your every tread.

Get the Idea? There is a moral to it all—and it goes something like this: KEEP the GRASS! It's Yellow. The State has declared it the state grass of our campus to be the 'worst I've ever seen it at this time of year' and it's the fault of the majority of us white-shoed, white-gloved, white-g Equinized students.

One more Appeal to Authority—Carl Sandburg, in a poem aptly entitled "Grass," states the solution to the problem clearly and simply:

I am the grass.
Let me grow.

The North Atlantic Pact in Practice

The North Atlantic Pact is currently the subject of widespread discussion and comment—and rightly so. It is the only thing that is to be expected. The purpose of this article is to give a few of the following practical considerations of the Pact are made.

The Pact's main aim is to provide a maximum deterrent against aggression, by the implementation of the principle of collective self-defense. This, of course, is always a serious business.

Shaffer Defines Campus Sites; Sights Suffer Accordingly

Recently I asked a student what he thought about the Wooster Voice. "Well, I'll be deep in thought!" he replied. "I'm really giving it a try. mboxt after a few weeks I'm kind ofjad at it."

I, of course, couldn't resist.

1. The statue of Abraham Lincoln was not erected by the freshman class in honor of his declaration of Thanksgiving. Nay, but, lin is there because the bunch of ponies took root. It happened that Mr. Lincoln stepped outside the chapel during the intermission of a concert when a group of trustees came by. His left foot is on a cigarette butt.

Ever had a class assignment in this operative institution which requires all members of said class to go in the library in order to search magazine cols on any subject over which the student has found what he's looking for?

Or do you, like all the rest of us, had four hours except the particular one you're looking for . . . because some viceroy has decided that the Sunday School, which is the only one in the district to own the magazine to the door for a few days in order to give the reference be properly considered.

What kind of a deal is this where our princes can cause twentyseven to come back day after day to check a reference, only to find that the magazine they have is scarcely disguise of the other class of time?

When an assignment is made for the entire work on the magazine, a suit which, as many, has limited reference possibilities, the only possible attitude is one of that considering that other students will be seeking the same information.

Taking a magazine from the library, or removing the issue from the magazine, taking it away from the sale, is a sort of apparent act of war, an act of a feeble for the demonstration and a sensational attitude, which is no way can justified.

You see it? I see it.

Noon or even cardboard, 'twould serve the same purpose.

And you, sir, question the same?

It has been suggested that coathangers stem from dry-cleaning plants.

Spring Sports Draw 130 Athletes; 47 Contests Scheduled by E. M. Hole

From the number of athletes who have answered the coach's call it would seem that there is considerable interest in the spring sports this year. A total of 130 members have reported for action on the four spring squads. Keeping up a weather eye these departments and the coaching staff are taking advantage of every available hour in an effort to be ready and able for the 47 intercollegiate contests scheduled by Athletic Director E. M. Hole.

Spring weather has arrived and with it come the joys and pleasures of the spring and summer sports, such as baseball, track, tennis, and golf. The latter sport mean of necessity be the subject of this article. Tennis has hardly set foot on its field of interest but I feel that the Wooster squad will find itself at those who use the golf course whether they use it the day or at night, deserve a talking to.
