When the curtain goes up on "Two Blind Mice" next Wednesday, theatre patrons will get a new clown on the Washington scene. Topping the bill will be Junior Turner, George Smith, and Dave Turner.

"Two Blind Mice" starts its four-day run at the Little Theatre on March 15, the Wooster audience in for another entertainment by comedy team Bill McGraw and Liz Roberts. The play, one of the best on Broadway in 1960, in a strictly funny piece, has been hailed as a cross between "Streetcar and Old Hats" and "Can't Take It With You." With each of the animal characters of "Two Sided Life" thrown in. As usual, the preview engagements of Two Blind Mice will be a golden opportunity for the Wooster audience to experience the comedy of this top-notch comedy team for the first time in its six-month run.

The caption of a speaker in a previous production of Two Blind Mice will be received by the Wooster audience for the first time in its six-month run.

The greatest question of our day is the question of foreign policy. Since the war of the nations these relations have seriously deteriorated, until now they are in what may be called a state of war. Should this dangerous trend continue another war might be on the horizon. What happens, we are told, will lead to war.

Wooster Chalks Up Two Victories On Penn Trip
Both Allegheny and Slippery Rock Fall To Scots In Season Finale

Coach More Hole and his campus marched through Western Pennsylvania last Monday and Tuesday to find a host reception awaiting them. On Monday night, the second night's action saw the Scots participate in and become victims of the most fantastic basketball. They were held in both games with only minutes left to play, but they emerged victorious by slim margins. By defeating Slippery Rock 76-40 and Allegheny 80-54, they closed their seventh and fifth straight victories over out-of-town teams.

On Monday night the Scots gave the fans at home another fourteen quarters of basketball. In the first game, the fourth quarter, they scored with a vengeance. After having.Allow the function to run to completion...
