Ohio Schools Plan Interschool Day At Wooster Parley

Plans for "Interlogopien Day"—a competitive undertaking sponsored by Wooster, Dennison, Denison, and Oberlin—were made Saturday at a meeting here of representatives of the four schools.

The result of discussions at several recent meetings of the DECA—Dean's Executives—was the decision to hold the event on the campus of each school, with visiting teams from the other three institutions.

The purpose of the event is to familiarize students with other schools and their programs. In the event of a tie, the team representing the school with the highest ranking in its respective division will win the contest.

Bentley's Torial for the day was "benefit of the state to be the open sesame which would be used by students to enter the colleges as they are organized in the various states."

The contest will be held in the morning, with the voting to be completed by 3 p.m. The results will be announced at the conclusion of the day's events.

The Schools Plan for the day:

Ohio State—"The Ohio State University"

Dennison—"The Dennison University"

Denison—"Denison University"

Oberlin—"Oberlin College"

Weather-Wise Senate Predicts Fair Color Day

It won't rain on Color Day—by action of the Senate in a 7-0 vote.

Even Lloyd's of London offered to insure the May festival against caprices of the elements, but the Senators were adamant. This year the famous insurance house calculated that they could offer policies to protect against the weather.

The vote was 7-0 in favor of favorable weather conditions. The weather committee said that there is a small chance of rain, but not enough to spoil the party.

Cornsall Brigade Wins Third For C. J. Ross

Even a few clouds were no deterrent to the Cornsall Brigade, which won its third straight title in the National Competition.

In this contest, the type of competition is such that the team with the most points wins. Miss Ross, as captain of the Cornsall Brigade, was chosen for the position, and the team was able to win by a margin of four points over the other teams.

The Cornsall Brigade was judged the best overall team in the competition, with the other teams finishing in second and third place.

WOOSTER GETS WILDER

Campus Awaits playwright's arrival this weekend

Thornem Wilder will arrive on the campus Saturday night or Sunday, according to a cable letter received this week, to play the role of stage manager in his own "Our Town" for a five-night run beginning Tuesday.

Originals scheduled to fly from Europe earlier in the week, the world-famed playwright and poet were delayed by his physician's order to rest.

Wilder will reside the degree of Doctor of Letters, honoris causa, from the College of Wooster in a special chapel convocation, Thursday, May 5, at 8:30 a.m., joined by three other Fulbright Prize winners in the presence of writing two plays for which he won his award the previous year.

A native of Madison, Wisconsin, Wilder covered most of the world where he was very young with his father; diplomas in Chicago and Yale and back to the rank of major in the air, he taught at the University of Chicago for his own name, and his son's will be considered first and foremost a poet.

Undergraduate and Congregationalist, his chief editors are for wild, and wilder.

For Educational Theory

Indonesia should send students to Wooster because Wooster is essentially Wisconsin. This is the theory of William Hanna, Wooster '31, Chief of Public Affairs for the band, Hanna Voicemen. The theory is based on the idea that all important countries in the world, the U.S. being the most important, Indonesia has had contact with. "And that's all she is," said Hanna, "because the Indonesians are eager to learn new democratic educational methods." The first step in establishing such a contact will be made in the next few months when an important Indonesian will visit this country in order to observe the good and bad of the new educational setup. According to Mr. Hanna, this officer will be an influential voice in the new Republic of the United States of Indonesia.

Have No Liberal Arts

Hanna estimates that there are only 2,000 college graduates in the Republic. Most of these have been trained in the fields most emphasized in that part of the world: law, medicine and engineering. There is no such thing as liberal arts. The only woman college graduate is editor of an Indonesian newspaper, she said.

"The situation here has far harder grounds to lay," said Hanna. "And I say 100 per cent possible that this is the fundamental need of education is to teach, think and write clearly.

The Indonesians will go for,

Jennifer "Pamela"

Public Affairs Officer Hanna will be in Jakarta for another year and he says: "It has the same democratic politico and administered," clearly, politically, they hold the U.S. in real friendly esteem. Atmospheric temperature remains between 80 and 90 degrees.

Mr. Hanna, the "newspaper reporter," got his first job after three years' teaching experience in China and from his duty in the navy's military government of Okinawa. As a "performed American" he is back in the country to break up on his Americanism. His home is in Wooster.
