The program, titled "Variety Show," is sponsored by the Student Senate and the Department of Fine Arts. In addition, the show will broadcast part of the fall convocation from 4:00 to 5:45, bringing to the campus a variety of music, drama and general entertainment.

Senate Suggests Changes in Dance, Union Job Policies

Policies concerning use and student policy of the Student Union was considered by the Senate Monday night meeting.

By a vote of 11, the senators passed a motion by Dick Duke that the Social Calendar Committee of the Senate inquire into the possibility of keeping the Union Center open during the off hours of the campuses, even in the event of a change in the recent border resolution by the border resolution committee with the State University.

That is the purpose of the Senate strike action in connection with the recent border resolution is not clear. However, the Senate strike at the border resolution is not, in essence, a strike against the campus, but against the board of directors.

That was the terms of the strike action which is specifically the purpose of the Senate strike at the border resolution. If the Senate strike is successful, it will be for the purpose of increasing the power of the student union at the station operators. The opening of the station will be the event of the floor. Williams as general chairman to the committee, will be the event of the floor.

Election Aftermath

The American people got excited Tuesday and turned out to vote in greater numbers than ever before. But the results were in the general expected ones, and although there were a few surprises, the returns should go far to reestablish the policies and political prophets all over the country.

The increase in the power of the Republicans may be attributed to a conservative trend in America, but to what extent it is not clear.

It is not clear that the Republican party is the "one-party government" on the eve of the elections on their side. But this factor is likely less important than the open questions before the record vote, indicating as it does that the American people would be given their chance to go to the polls.

The Republican increase in vote has been divided without much doubt. Most important perhaps is the vote for Dewey. It was dying before, it is certainly dead now.

And the old "isolationism" has been brought to light. The anti-Americanism was defeated on the basis of its isolationism this year, and all attempts on the part of the Administration to prove that the opposition of foreign policy is only the old issue with new words have failed. Except for the Committee men, the major concern of foreign policy seems to center around the question of which of the two issues is more serious.

Even to many Republicans, the success of the Joe McCarthy in Tuesday's battle seems a disappointment in what had been expected to be a year of demagoguery began over a year ago by the stimulus to war in Pennsylvania. Science of that there were 298-old Communists (or probably the Communist party) in the Department, and the resulting "Ahlschmid analysis". This was the same story for the Maryland speech, in which the veteran Democratic Senator, Edward F. Tydings has just lost his political life.

And Scott Lucas has expressed the hope that the Ford administration may be able to improve his image. The lame duck would have a hard time in improving it.

Lucas is without doubt one of the bitterest critics of the Ford administration. As majority leader, he had to sit with the Senate as minority leader when the Senate went into session a few years ago or face the issue of a battle for a body who back in the Senate. It is a body that the status quo until the end is due. Meanwhile, the leadership of the House, a speaker and a well-briefed Democrat, managed to get his program through Congress with his name and spend all his waking hours for his own ends. He has been a friend of several important organizations and talking about the money.

Lucas is right in talking about the money. He is right in talking about the money. He is right in talking about the money.

If you want to know what the real news is, look at the front pages of the newspapers. They are filled with stories about the money. They are filled with stories about the money. They are filled with stories about the money.

Attention, Fun-Lovers!

Dear Editor:

I am writing in support of a special Senate committee on gambling, which is currently reviewing the issue. It seems that the committee is ill-advised in its approach to the problem. I believe that gambling is a serious problem that requires serious attention.

The committee is considering legislation that would allow gambling in certain states. However, I believe that this legislation would have negative consequences. Gambling can lead to addiction and can harm individuals and families. I urge the committee to consider the negative effects of gambling before making any decisions.

I hope that my letter can help to raise awareness of the issue and encourage the committee to take a responsible approach to gambling.

Sincerely,

Third and Fourth Catch Lead By Early Victories In Second Round

Kirk spent the season's three final games in the four-man line, which included seniors Bob Sprague and Seniors Herb Culler, and junior Jack Chalk. The quartet had been a consistent unit all season and had a combined average of 17 points per game. Their play was evident when they scored 57 of the Gators' 181 total points against the Scots.

The results of the final round of the tournament were significant for the Gators, as they moved closer to the top of the league standings. With the victory, the Gators improved their position in the SEC, and their success could have implications for their future prospects.

The game between the Gators and the Scots was a thrilling match, with both teams displaying exceptional skill and strategy. The Gators managed to secure the victory, thanks to their strong defense and offensive play. The Scots, on the other hand, showed resilience and fought until the end, adding to the excitement of the game.

The next game scheduled for the Gators was against the Scots, and it was expected to be a tough match. The Gators would need to maintain their focus and continue their winning streak to secure a position in the top tier of the league standings.
Dr. Lowry Invites Suggestions
For Use Of College's Vacant Lot
By Jean Mende
A large tract of land lying south of Wayne Avenue, east of Palmer Avenue, and adjoining the Alumni Road, in the city, and plans for its ultimate use must be considered. It is the remainder of a large tract of 162 acres that came into the possession of the College in 1932. Of the original 167 acres, 15 were used for the present golf course, and a tract of 40 acres lending on the main road was later sold to the city for highly needed in electrical work. The present uses of new land have added two large lots to this tract south of Wayne Avenue immediately adjoining the golf course.
The old farm house in the center of the tract at the base of University Hill is now being torn down. The College is considering long range plans for the proper use of the remaining 112 acres.
A committee appointed by the Board of Trustees, consisting of Presi dent Lowry as chairman, Mr. Daniel C. Frazier, Mr. E. M. Beale, Mr. Bruce Brown, and Mr. John M. Docken, is in charge of such suggestions and recommendations. This committee, to consider the present use of this land and to make ultimate recommendations to the Board. President Lowry has said, "We need to make some long-range concept of the future use of this valuable land in order to proceed with the development of the college and the campus proper."
