Color Day Is Under Way; Queen's Ball Friday Night

This year's Color Day should be bigger and better than ever judging from a calendar of events which promises plenty for everyone to do, with an accent on fun and sports in the way that Color Day-time outdoors. Officiating, Color Day has already started, since Saturday, Pack Day, the student colors' annual "sandwich," has opened in steamy May weather, that Color Day will run through Saturday night.

Friday night, the plans will shine in light of the newly adorned Queen's Ball flag, held for the Queen and guest of honor of the fiftieth birthday celebration.

Meanwhile, Color Day is saddened by the passing of the man who established this festival many years ago. President Haner, the "Grand Marshal," the man who has been in charge of the festival since the very beginning, has passed into the tradition of Color Day.

Color Day plans will be held on Sunday afternoon, with the traditional Color Day dance round off the day's activities.

Sunday will be highlighted by the color-watching committee, with the Reverend C. J. L. Boe holding the gavel, and a color-parade of all students, those wearing colors of the group they are affiliated with, in the chapel.

SAC Pledges Falling Behind. Meeker Says

Western Christian County treasurer Joe Meeker has, in a very significant way, started this session of school year, in which the SAC pledges are due. Each student is expected to bring in $2.80 to the SAC treasury, which amount is then used to pay for the various SAC functions throughout the year.

But the worst of it is, Meeker adds that the SAC has budgeted $220 dollars short of their present amount. And the explanation over $500 dollars short from this amount.

Some theory, increasing president, is going to get the students to work and do their duty. They can then be paid.

Drew told the group that "Color Days will pretty well end," and adjourned the body.

Voice Rated Best 'Large' Ohio College Weekly

Cleveland College Gets Second OCNA Award - Denison Is Third

First place and a gold cup went to the Wooster Voice last week at the Ohio College Newspaper Association's 25th Annual Convention, held this year at Kent State University. For the second straight year, Denison University won first place, with the next year's winner, and the third place went to Kenyon with the Vindicator for third place last year. Wooster Voice took the fourth place and the Ohio Western Transcript and the Sentinel Award.

Little known to the convention was that the paper had won the first place, and the next year's competition with the Vindicator for third place last year. Wooster Voice took the fourth place and the Ohio Western Transcript and the Sentinel Award.

Three sections of the Voice have been rated in the top ten nation-wide by the Newspaper Association of America. The writing and layout sections of the Voice have been rated in the top ten, and the cartoon section has been rated in the top ten of the nation-wide competition.

Dakew Up! STRONG GOLF SQUAD POINTS TOWARD TITLE

With Dick Baer

While the track men perform before spectators Saturday, the golfers will be making the rounds comparatively unobserved. And yet the golfers, too, are competitive.

Golf is an unusual school sport in that it is almost technically unattainable. Many times during which the coach either gets the mulligan and has a team, or doesn't hold a fielding team because he hasn't given the coach the green light. But Dick doesn't look for that big benediction here. In football, he at least gets a little golf and wood being appointed golf coach here. "Most of the golf on the other hand has turned to football." He has a hard row to hoe if he's going to maintain competitive principles in the squad. He explains these principles as being both in football and golf or any other sport.

He simply can't expect to take four freshmen and mold them into a varsity Ohio Continent team within four years unless these freshmen are polished golfers. He lies the fundamentals of the game to the young men. They all began playing the game at the age of nine with the excep- tion of one board who at this age was merely capable of his father's five-iron. He can't take the game up on his. All of them on high school varsity and many of them have given the game real study. They are now ready to go to college.

In track, Dick and Baer Paige received four golf boys from a Penn State Meet. While he has worked on his golf boys this fall and trained with Baer to improve the football tournament. Dick must have a team in the Northwestern Ohio Conference. Dick offers four years ago in the fall of 1939. But he told the golf boys later, he would be ineligible to play for the team. That the team opened their season on the Kent State, Dick had a job for the young man. Joe Lazic, who is generally acknowledged as around the conference aside as his best golfer.

During track season, the team not only practices long drives but also the men have developed solid swings in their drives and jolted the college's team in their four-year won. And that Dick can probably be the best golfer has the Ohio Continent. We hope to entertain in high school as college competition. He was as as people in the field back in the days and he has a spill shot that will be the assault plan that we can. We hope to make it through, the pressure is enormous in college, which gives him a chance to work with the finest student. The man and during the season is match play, which eliminates total scores to make the man who wins the match the winner. Dick believes the best golfer is a better match player than individual scores. Dick has a long ball that can carry three and his driving distance.

Dick figures Baer Paige has a better chance to win individual titles than match results. The team has the win in the tournament. From any age, the track men have a long ball in their hole. Dick Paige and Wawashenke Westerhout are on the third and the golf boys were on the only other strong team. A proposition day may easily be added to the schedule of a long ball to carry the number one spot. Such a forecast is in any event it might happen to us.

East And West Clash On Korea
In Day-long Model UN Debate

By Betty Doherty

The tension between East and West exploded in a war of words in Letter Gulpin last Saturday, as student delegates representing forty nations met at the Fourth Annual U.N. Model Assembly. The American delegation managed to secure a two-thirds majority vote for a resolution calling on all U.N. countries to avoid aggression in the area.

The last minute details were provided by an introduction address by Mr. Va. Rominger, of the Department of History, who drew some parallels between the old League of Nations and the U.N. Mr. Rominger warned the delegates that world peace depends on the U.S., and that the existence of a Korea question will take a large degree determination of the survival of the U.N.

Miss Carol Ross presided over the intricate China-Korea discussions, and on many occasions reminded delegates to keep their remarks relevant to the object at hand. The main conflict in the floor was between the U.S. and the British delegation, represented by Tom Markey and Peter Kelley, on the one side, and the Communist delegates led by Robert Ferguson representing the USSR on the other.

In these two extreme points were Salla and a Communard who had been disarmed and holed himself up in a beach hut, Jack Loomer, a member of the USSR, and the representative of the Chinese in the U.N.

They were both put in the middle of the afternoon session after having failed to obtain previous approval by the U.S. to address the Assembly. A small group of students representing China in the U.N. was also detained.

The Model Assembly was sponsored by the International Relations Club.
