When Dianists Meet

All Classes Go To Polls To Select Officers Tuesday

Over 153 classes for Homecoming Queen, class or smart officers were introduced in chapel this morning, officially opening the full campaign season. Elections to fill the 73 vacant offices will be held Thursday afternoon.

Healing the list of hopefuls are Homecoming Candidates Mary Jose Reiner, Martha Durrance, Laura Geyer, Dolly Dandridge and Betty Jane Mitchell, one of which will be picked to reign over the traditional Homecoming weekend activities.

According to sentence president Bob Hewlett, all candidates were turned out for this election for this year after any other elections of the past few years. As long as the candidates were turned out, however, not all of them were returned with enough signatures for nomination. There is only one unannounced office, while all of the rest of the seven are for four or more candidates. A complete list of other rank and files and the offices they seek follow:

WOOSTER VICTORY SPORTS
Scots Win Hiram In Opener, 28-14

After getting off to a 7-to-0 deficit in the first period, the Wooster football team pulled off a 28-to-14 victory over the Hiram Terriers in the third quarter of Wooster's opening football contest of the 1952 football season at Wooster on Saturday, September 28, 1952. In the first quarter Peter Baughman took the kickoff and scrambled 61 yards behind the line of scrimmage for the first Wooster touchdown as he eluded the extra point attempt.

The second quarter began with the Terriers in possession, but they were unable to get the ball past mid-field.

In the second quarter the Terriers began to show signs of a revival. However, the Wooster defense stood firm on the Terriers' last two possessions of the quarter. The defense's performance was good, with the Terriers only able to gain 77 yards.

The third quarter saw the Terriers gain some momentum, but they were held to only 104 yards in the period.

In the fourth quarter Wooster kicked off to the Terriers, who were unable to make any progress and were forced to punt on their last drive of the game.

The Wooster team dominated the game, with a final score of 28-14. The team's performance was impressive, with the defense holding Hiram to only 170 yards in the game.

Unbeaten Gridders Face Kenyon Lords in Gambier Game

Looking for its third victory in as many games, the Wooster football squad will journey to Gambier to encounter afternoon to play the Kenyon Lords at the historic train station in Gambier. Kenyon is ranked by the second team in the state as the weakest of the first three opponents on this year's schedule and Coach Phil Shipley, with Quarterback Jim Evans in his line to perform, believes that Gambier is a great lack of experience.

The Lords also lack big men, a fact that tends to bolster the smallest squad in town. In addition, the Wooster team is deemed by the Kenyon players as not as strong as some, a sport that draws many football prospecs.

Among the new returning Harrowers were Kenyon's Don Reedy and Jack Shipley, both of whom are expected to make key contributions.

On the defensive, Wooster's strength lies in its speed and agility, with the team's secondary unit expected to play a key role in the game.

The game is set for Gambier, with the Kenyon team coming in as a strong favorite. However, Wooster's recent showing suggests that anything is possible in this classic college football rivalry.
Coed Dining Poses Social Problem; Writer Predicts Speechless Females

Generations of Wooster students have looked warily at Oberlin's coed dining plan, and the future of college dining may look as though some of the group which once scorned and questioned the plan would be the best able to give it a try. At least some of the older people seem to agree. But present generation is an exception, and tradition of dining on such matters, it seems, is a fading one.

There is one major difference between the radical change in campus eating and the eating plans of the past, and that is the idea of 'everyone pays'—and generally does—eat and drink until they are full. It's the speaker of the day, and ignorance of those of the opposite sex, who is at stake on the other end of the pew. But dining with unsympathetic company is no easy matter. The dining hall is the one place where all, even the most social, are expected to say something to their neighbors. When eating with close friends where one does not see all day, there is always much to be said in the hall before, during, or after the meal; one is dining, becoming mechanical and conversation rapid. It is not so with strangers where some of the opposite sex, at that. There is the dilemma and the decline of table manners, rather to raise the standards of the men or to meet the standards of the women, as the case may be. In addition, there is the added burden of talking to people who have been like what are the traditional for the group of what are the traditional for the group and the large amount of what are the traditional for the group and the large amount of what are the traditional for the group, although the large amount of what are the traditional for the group, although the large amount of what are the traditional for the group, although the large amount of what are the traditional for the group, although the large amount of what are the traditional for the group, although the large amount of what are the traditional for the group.

One of the main defects in Our Time, it provides no protection for the helpless men of the college. Indeed, if we should ever go too far in making the male students of the college consider entirely of the advantage of the women, we will have not solved the problem for the women, but for the men. We will have not solved the problem for the women, but for the men. We will have not solved the problem for the women, but for the men.
