Church Class Cut

Proposals for the compulsory church cut and for the modification of the class cut system were the key results of the December 1 meeting of the Student Senate.

Dean Ralph Young, chairman of a subcommittee appointed to study the church cut problem, moved that the church cut system be changed to a one-time, one-year observation plan. This plan, as outlined by Sallie Leat and Young, included, first, that there be a seasonal support system of a cut on the card that will be issued where and how many times he or she has been to church. Second, the minimum attendance of a student must be eight times a semester, and third, that the system of credit is to be administered by the student body by the student senator program. After discussing these plans, the Wooster cut was continued and recommended to the faculty that the same system as last year be continued.

Two bills were proposed to provide details for the system. The subcommittee recommended that the language be included in the bills and that conferences be scheduled with faculty advisors to discuss the case of students who have not been able to meet the requirement. Dean William Tawson made a motion to approve the bills as they were written. The bills were passed and the motions were seconded.

The second task force problem was then brought before the committee. It was said that the grading system was not used too much and that it was all the professors used them. Dean Tawson said that the name he referred to as a subcommittee, and his motion was seconded.

To Cut Vacations
The Student Senate, at its meeting last Monday night, voted to officially approve the faculty suggestion that the Thanksgiving recess, President John Woolley, will announce a letter to the faculty stating the senate's views on the plan, which would cut the vacation down to three and a half days at the end of the semester.

The Senate also set the date for the vacation for the selection of women students of all classes. Petitioners will be filed January 5 and, it is hoped, will be filed January 12.

MOSE HOLE's LITTLE BROTHER is the basketball coaching legend, Phil "Moose" Holes. Despite the young boys' efforts to break free of Moose's control, no amount of coaching can break the magical bond between father and son. Both are well-respected and beloved in the community, and their presence is missed when they're not around.

IN CAGE OPENERS

The 1952-53 Scott basketball team opened its season at North Manchester, Indiana, by losing to the Manchester College cagers, 74-46.

The score was close as the first three quarters with the Eagles hold- ing only a one-point lead, 41.14, as the final buzzer went. The Eagles fell to the third period Moneys, 32-31, for 24 points while giving the Scots only four. From then on, the game was sewed up for Manchester and even though the Scots surprised their opponents in the last period the hosts walked away with the victory.

The big hole in the side of the Scots was Don Heye who scored 21 points, his 21st of the season. Phil Holf, who had 16, men had more points than Minnesota's top man, Bob Velched, who had 14.

One thing that hurt the Scots and helped cut them off the center was the final shot. The Scots missed 11 out of 17 foul shots. This is a shooting per-

...has that "extra" something

Perhaps it's her friendly manner... Or her desire to be of service to people...

Regardless of what you call it, it is this "plus" quality that best describes the type of person a Telephone Representative is...

She is carefully selected for her job, and fully trained to help telephone customers with any problems regarding their phones. And, she indicates, she represents the telephone company to the public.

Giving efficient service to each individual who calls on her is the essence of her job... actually, she does much more than that. Through her friendly manner, and her genuine desire to be helpful, the Service Representative is living up to the tradition of "THE SPIRIT OF SERVICE."
