Peace Workshop Gets Under Way

by Jim Cooper

Regardless of the manner by which various professionaldducers, the Wooster World Peace Workshop is continuing to hold its sessions at the Wooster Armory as scheduled.

This morning the session was centered around peace through agriculture with Mr. Frank Janosky, US. Department of Agriculture, as the speaker. Mr. Janosky deals with the work of the Foreign Agricultural Service, and the topic, "Food at the Heart of World Peace," was enthusiastically received.

The afternoon session dealt with the economics of world peace. Dr. Kermit Eve, who is Public Liaison Officer for the Food and Agriculture Organization of the UN, spoke on "World Agriculture and the Doctor of the University," and Mr. Eve suggested that the differences in the world's approach to hunger as a basic problem be explored more closely.

The evening session was devoted to the role of religion in world peace. Dr. Leonard E. Himes, Director of Religious Education at the American School of Social Religion, spoke on "The Role of Religious Leaders in the Promotion of Peace," and the discussion was very stimulating.

The workshop will continue until November 15, and the sessions will be held at the Wooster Armory. The public is invited to attend.

W. O'Neill Speaks Thursday Evening for YR Campaign

C. William O'Neill, Attorney general of Ohio, will climax the first year of the Young Republicans' "Home Sweet Home" campaign with a speech in Buckeye Hall this evening. Mr. O'Neill began his political career at the age of 22 when he was elected to the State legislature as a Republican. Since that time, he has been a Speaker of the House and Attorney general of Ohio, and is now a member of the United States Senate. He is currently being counted as one of the ablest and most promising young politicians in the nation.

The Young Republicans organization will start as numerous and energetic as any group beginning on Monday and running through Wednesday of this coming week. Keith M. Colwell, chairman of the club has announced that the student organization will be extending its activities into four primary areas, the program of the Young Republicans, the program for the purpose of organizing clubs, the program for the purpose of organizing districts, the program for the purpose of organizing state, and the program for the purpose of organizing national organizations.

The Young Republican program for this year includes a series of speeches to prominent figures in Ohio and national politics, and it is the intention of the organization to speak with Mayor Dave Miner, Governor James A. Rhodes, and Speaker of the House, William H. Dennis.

Other activities this year include the "Home Sweet Home" campaign to encourage young Republicans to go into politics, and the "Young Republicans' Political Club" which will be organized in the fall of this year.

The Young Republicans' "Home Sweet Home" campaign will be carried on with the help of the Young Republicans' "Home Sweet Home" committee and the Young Republicans' "Home Sweet Home" council.

A Clue In The Social Life Mystic Society

To the Editor of the VOICE

I have a few remarks on an anti-communist member type of the problems confronting the Senate Social Committee. When we were given the Wendell Willkie plan right after a few days. But then, I hope that a social aims was in active session this year I thought that perhaps the small bighal of the loaner committees was a bit too much.

The charge that Wendell Willkie is a social cosa and that he "Is it in the keen unification and solely for one's trap? Is it in the keen unification, soreness, rights, etc.?—Bundown.

You Won His Frank Applause

Dear Editor,

VOICE periodicals deal with the complaint that Wendell is failing "to face the world" as they go their own ways behind the rear of the bowels of the camp. With that, I'll give you that we have lots of room in which to dance, and we'll be glad to see you there.

But I would like to express my own appreciation for the way in which you have treated the subject, and your editorial faculty have made a splendid job of it.

The Brotherhood Model efforts. The generation of these two arts and businesses have been a great loss to the world. There are some who have no way to ask for others, partitions, or immediate benefits in order to get a part of the pie. If I were to have the chance to do this, I know that I would do it.

But the need was presented, and the collective community opposed and this is why.

In a Sunday-morning environment, betimes do get cramped at times. If you're feeling the pinch, just jump on the back and take some time to think of the times that others have been in that same situation. I personally do not think that this is a simple matter and a means of achieving a social goal.
WOOSTER VOICE

How much crying and complaining have you heard this year about refereeing in football and basketball and umpiring in baseball? Are the running backs of today any dirtier than those of yesteryear—those of our own school, for example? It is true that some of the rules have changed and some of the penalties have been increased, but back in the day of the forty-yard dash, the running back was the running back of today. Are you sitting in your living room or a stadium in the old days and think that they are better judges of the game than the officials of today? The answer is no.

This season the outcome of a couple of Wooster's games might have been different if the officials had been a little more lenient. But it was not the fault of the officials. It was the fault of the referees. Even the ones who think that they are the best judges of the game.

Of course, some teams have had a rough run of it this year. Many of the officials have been lenient, and some teams have had a rough time of it because the officials were lenient. But it is not the fault of the officials. It is the fault of the referees.

The point is, if you think that the officials are the reason for the poor performance of your favorite team, you are wrong. The reason for the poor performance of your favorite team is the fault of the referees.

So, let's give the officials a break. They are doing the best they can under the circumstances. The real reason for the poor performance of your favorite team is the fault of the referees. Not the officials.

What Goes On Here... by Joan Preston

People don't seem to be bothered to Halloween as the following bits of news will indicate. However, these are not to be taken as suggestions!

A student at North Texas State Teachers' college— fixed with signing the eighties statement in his college Burns that he is out a co-teenie— signed the name of Lawrence Brown, deposited Benson police box. A rotary public in the college administration building set it up without question. The student said he would put the pledge in his scrapbook. That Beria certainly gets around!

Appearing in prominent black type in The Northern Review is a want ad for the Queen's Crown— edition at the Homecoming dance. We wonder if the Queen was under it at the time?

Bruce Wemold, a Columbus university student, has been having car trouble— for more than two years now. It began back in 1951 when the engine of his 1919 model automobile cracked near New York City's Welfare Island. Unable to get the car started again, Wemold pushed it into a secluded corner and left it parked. Recently he received a warning letter from Welfare Island officials. They warned him to retrieve his deserted car, he and a friend went back to the island, and failing to get the motor running, they pushed the vehicle off a 20-foot cliff and into the ocean. An alert fishing saw the car being dumped, though, and notified the police. Now the two students are charged with "dumping refuse into New York City waters in violation of the sanitation laws," and the police are grappling for Wemold's white elephant.

That's New York!

Early on a Sunday morning, a fairy cross was spotted hanging in front of the student. The fairy, a prominent houseman at the University of Nevada, forewarned the cross, said the cross, about four feet high, appeared to have been stolen in goodtime car oil before placed in the Jewish fraternity's front lawn. Flanagan was said to have shot 12 to 15 feet into the air. Police said it was "probably the work of pranksters."
