BIG FOUR DRIVE BEGINS FRIDAY

Students Favor Dewey, Predict FDR Will Win

Whom would you vote for in the coming presidential election?

From the 469 students who participated in the Voice presidential poll in chapel last Tuesday, Oct. 31, the following tabulation was compiled.

315 of the number would vote for Thomas Dewey, 128 would support Franklin D. Roosevelt, and 26 would vote a socialist ticket, choosing candidate Norman Thomas.

Indication that Wooster students are not too optimistic about the republican candidate's chances was revealed in the answers to the second question, "Who do you think will be elected?" 306 students think Mr. Roosevelt will be elected, while only 159 feel that Mr. Dewey will be the next president.

Of those who are eligible to vote, being over twenty-one years old, 32 would choose Dewey, 18 Roosevelt, and 7 Norman Thomas.

According to classes, the votes were graduated in accordance with the number of class members. 129 freshmen, 85 sophomores, 54 juniors, and 41 seniors would choose Mr. Dewey. Roosevelt garnered 58 freshman votes, 35 sophomore, 21 junior, and 17 senior. Mr. Thomas polled 12 freshman votes, 2 sophomore votes, 6 junior votes, and 6 senior votes.

As Wooster goes, so goes the nation. We shall know if this statement is true on Nov. 7.

Organization Orgies

Our clubs are going places! Why not come out to the meetings and go with them?

The next meeting of the International Relations Club will be held Wednesday, Nov. 8, when the members will trek to the high school auditorium to participate in the Wooster Community Forum. Emil Ludwig, noted German biographer and historian, will be the speaker. John Frenz, Grace Hofstetter, Lois Schaible, Julia Carson, Betsy Welsh, Mary Ann Brown, Pat McKee, Blanche Locke, Pat Burneson, Dorothy Vaughn, Lee Onthank, Esther Purdy, Anne Austin, Katherine Bush, Doris Scheu, Ann Gashorn, Betty Morgan, and Marjorie Stewart. Additional delegates to the Ohio Valley Conference are Dorothy Vaughn, Bob Clarke, and Jack Purdy.

Seventeen members of Pembroke journeyed to Cleveland Tuesday to see "Othello". Active members are presenting special programs this semester to fill out the club's many cultural activities. The organization hopes to present a program in Chapel sometime in the near future.

French Club is sponsoring a "Cafe Chardon" in lower Babcock, Friday, Nov. 3, at 7:30 P.M. There will be entertainment and refreshments. All who are interested in French are invited to attend the meeting.

Thursday, Nov. 21, Professor Schreiber of the German Department will speak to the Classical Club. The members of this organization are chosen from upper-class Greek and Latin students and freshmen taking second semester Latin. Officers of this club are: vice-president, Ellen Klein, secretary, Mildred Forbes, and treasurer, Portia Desenberg.

Plans are under way to combine the Classical Club with Eta Sigma Phi, the honorary society of this organization. If they merge, simultaneous meetings will be held. Also they hope to sponsor Latin tests for high school students.

Miss Mayer Speaks To College on World Student Service Fund

Miss Lola Mayer, a Traveling Secretary of the World Student Service Fund, will open the Big Four Drive at Chapel on Friday when she speaks from first hand experience about the problems confronting students in Europe and the work the WSSF is doing in assisting students all over the world.

Miss Mayer is a native of Germany and has experienced the difficulties of students under the Nazi regime. In 1940 she left Germany and has lived and traveled in Holland, Belgium, France, Italy, and Switzerland. After studying at the University of London for a year, she came to the United States in 1941.

Miss Mayer's interest in the World Student Service Fund began when she was a student at the University of Washington from which she graduated in 1944. She worked actively on the all-campus drives. At college Miss Mayer was active in International Relations Club, the Debating Club, the Y.W.C.A., Campus Religious Council and Intercultural Fellowships.

Miss Mayer will have luncheon with the Big Four Cabinet on Friday and will meet with the solicitors for the Big Four Drive. She will meet informally with students and faculty in Babcock Lounge Friday afternoon from 4 to 5 P.M. and will be available for conferences on Saturday.

Oh Shack.. Oh Luckies.. Oh Misery!

I don't think I'll ever know just how I got back to my room, but I do know that one leg is permanently crippled, that I won't be able to move my right arm with comfort for a long time, that there is a bad bruise in the vicinity of my left eye, and that I am suffering from a mild concussion.

Why? The answer is very simple: they got a new shipment of cigarettes in at the Shack. Now I'll grant you that it is a great occasion, so great an occasion in fact that I exert superhuman effort to be there myself. BUT when it comes to the point where my fellow smokers come armed with thumb-crushers, brass knuckles, and spiked girdles, that's where I draw the line.

This is how it happened. My last class of the day behind me, I bounced to the Shack and entered. By entered I mean that I beat and bounced against the door until whoever was on the other side got tired of having the door hit him in the face and moved back a few inches. That's all I needed, a few inches—I'm a mere shadow of my former self.

Anyhow I was in, and I do mean IN. I saw that by twisting a few arms I could maneuver myself into a strategic position before the

Y.W.C.A. Plans Tour For Co-eds

Last invitation to Wooster co-eds! Come and get acquainted with girls from eighteen colleges in Ohio. What? World Acquaintance Tour of the Northern Ohio College Y.W.C.A.s.

When? Saturday, Nov. 11, from 8:30 to 3:30 P.M.

Where? Haydn Hall, Western Reserve University, Cleveland.

Theme: "Faiths Men Live By".

Highlights of the tour include visiting St. Agnes Church, St. Johns Beckwith Memorial Church (an Italian Presbyterian Church), and St. James A. M. E. Church where Walter Anderson will lead the singing of Negro spirituals. Of special interest will be attendance of a Jewish Service at The Temple. Registrations should be given to Lilamay Walkden, conference chairman, by Nov. 4. The cost of $1.05 includes registration, brunch, and a real Italian spaghetti lunch.

Classes Elect Presidents

Martha Purdy and Ben McDonald were elected presidents of the junior and sophomore classes at the final elections Friday.

The other junior officers include Lucy Hunter, vice president; Jeanne Wagner, secretary; and Bob Forsberg, treasurer. Ben McDonald will be assisted by Betty Marker, vice president; Emelyn Jarvis, secretary; and Cornelia Lybarger, treasurer.

Young Moderns Discuss Morals at SEF Meeting

At the political rally held during Forum last Sunday the Republican party was represented by Emily Kuhles, the speaker for the Democrats was Phyllis Uher, and the representative for the Socialists was Albert Spritzer. Each speaker tried to prove that his party has the best program to secure world peace, economic and political justice, and racial equality. The meeting concluded with an open discussion led by chairman Mary Ann Brown.

How To Be Modern and Moral is the theme of the discussion which will be led by Julie Carson and Gordon Marwick at the next meeting of Sunday Evening Forum.

Other programs for the semester were planned by the leaders group which consists of Dave Blackshear, Bob Forsberg, Ben McDonald, Jack Purdy, Don Shaw, Paul Ohmura, Connie Wallett, Vivian Douglas, Julie Carson, Jeanne Swan, Tex Wolford, Alice Rogers, Ruth Cameron, and Pat Cooper.

Religion in the home will be discussed under the leadership of Jean Wagner and Dave Blackshear on Nov. 12.

Thanksgiving Vesper Services led by students will be held in chapel Sunday, Nov. 19. Jeanne Swan and Jo Davis are in charge of this meeting.

M.S.G.A. Elects Marwick President For 44-45 Year

Gordon Marwick was elected president of the Men's Self-Government Association at their recent meeting. Serving on the council are John Chidester, Ed Koch, Hal Vandersall, Waldo Woodbury, Jim Preble, George Deuble, Stan Morse, Phil Frank, Don Shaw, Glen Schwartz, and Myron Bellinger. These men represent each section, freshmen, as well as town students.

President Marwick announces that the new administration will go into action at the meeting this evening when the damage done by Hallowe'en pranksters will be dealt with.

M.S.G.A. sponsored the all-college Hallowe'en party Tuesday evening in the gym with Dr. and Mrs. William Schreiber and Dr. Vergilius Fern acting as chaperones. Prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Jean Harris and Steve Horvath of the freshman class; Jean in blanket and war paint impersonated Pocahontas and Steve came as a tramp. Refreshments of cider and doughnuts were served, the vic providing music for round and square dancing.

Dr. Clayton Ellsworth will speak to the German Club Monday evening, Nov. 6, at 7:00 in lower Babcock on "The Arts and Crafts of the Pennsylvania Germans", illustrating his lecture with slides.

Student Senators Meet With Profs

Tonight at 7:30 the Student-Faculty committee is meeting in the Trustees' room. Students are asked to present any ideas they have to any of the student senators.

Glenn Miller will reign at the Vic Dance the senate is sponsoring this Saturday evening in lower Babcock at 8 o'clock. His recordings will be played exclusively.

Nancy Parkinson is the newly elected vice-president of the student senate.

Students Work For Departmental Honors

Permission to work for departmental honors was granted by the Honors Committee of the Faculty at its meeting on Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Annual Campaign Seeks $1650 Goal In Coming Week

The Big Four Drive, THE DRIVE of the Wooster year, begins officially this Friday when Lola Mayer of the World Student Service Fund speaks in chapel.

The goal this year is $1650 of which $600 supports our Wooster-in-India teacher helping to spread Christian ideals; $350, Y.W.C.A.; $300, W.S.S.F.; $75, Week of Prayer; $65, Y.M.C.A.; $25, Freshman Forum; $25, Sunday Evening Forum; $210, Big Four Organization. The Drive is the only financial drive of the entire year for the above mentioned items.

Pledges may be paid in three installments — during the Drive from Nov. 3 to 10, in January and in March. By giving now you give all you have to give and want to give for the ENTIRE year to support these organizations. That extra dollar won't be missed!

Each student and faculty member will be solicited. Those who are assisting Bob Forsberg, chairman of the Drive, as solicitors are: Marie Allen, Jan Baxter, Kay Bush, May Bush, Harriet Calkins, Marcia Chandler, Pat Cooper, Margaret Craft, Ruth Dagg, Jo Davis, Betty Lou Dickens, Harriet Drake, Anne Fisher, Ruth Frost, Jo Fuller, Marg Goldsmith, Nancy Helm, Pris Horger, Margaret King, Ellen Kline, Lottie Kornfeld, John N. Laudenslager, Elizabeth MacMillan, Betty Marr, Virginia Miller, Shirley Parker, Jean Anne Pierce, Martha Purdy, Margaret Rath, Janet Reid, Amy Robertson, Lois Scott, Jean Sommers, Betty Stuckslager, Jane Stewart, Peg Stoll, Jeanne Swan, Esther Swinney, Phyllis Uher, Elizabeth Warner, Sally Wade, Lilamay Walkden, Ruth Whiston, Ed Beatty, Sam Bell, Dave Blackshear, Bob Curry, Gordon Marwick, Paul Ohmura, Jim Preble, and Jack Purdy.

Ohio Synod Members Will Visit Campus

Representatives from the fourteen Presbyteries of Ohio will meet in Wooster Nov. 13-15 to see the college at work. These representatives, chairmen of the committees on Christian Education in the various Presbyteries, will live on the campus, eat in the dining halls, and visit classes during the day to get a better idea of what we do.

Rev. Lawrence Hucksoll of the First Presbyterian Church, Portsmouth, O., will head this meeting. He is the chairman of the Portsmouth committee on Christian Education and chairman of the Wooster Long Range Planning Conference of the Synod of Ohio. This conference will be the first of a series of such groups to interest the Synod of Ohio in college.

Freshman Forum

"Cooperatives" is the subject of Freshman Forum's meeting this Sunday morning at 9:30 in lower Galpin. Dr. Eberhart will present the subject, and Bob Forsberg will lead the discussion which follows. All freshmen are urged to attend.

Chapel Programs

Friday, Nov. 3—Miss Lola Mayer, representative of the World Student Service Fund will speak.

Tuesday, Nov. 7—Prof. Cowles will talk on regulations of academic attire and procedure as requested by many students who were interested in the gowns and hoods worn at the inauguration.

Thursday, Nov. 9—Mr. Emil Ludwig, well-known historian, who was brought to Wooster by the Community Forum, will address us in chapel.

... Or Forever Hold Your Peace

Yes, it's your paper. Yes, it is the "official student publication". Technically it expresses the opinions of a mere handful, of the hardy few who are interested enough to do unrewarding and unremitting labor. Naturally it takes form from the subconscious outline in the minds of those who write, who make up, and who decide "yes" or "no".

But when it is accused of being a black-souled Isolationist, a traditional stick-in-the-mud, and a faculty-controlled paper, it begins to growl ominously.

To begin with, the famed Isolationist viewpoint was held three years ago, before the United States entered the war. It is not traditional and is not the viewpoint of the present staff. That issue is the one upon which the staff is not divided.

It does not claim to any more tradition than any other organization. It tries to be unbogoted, intelligent, and at least mildly adult.

Faculty supervision is almost nil. The committee on publications is behind us but never in the way. They trust us sufficiently so as not to interfere. And we in turn heed the mores of good taste.

Yes, it's your publication — if you want it different, speak up — constructively!

Feast and Fast

"The only thing which digs a Wooster student out of the mud of apathy and arouses him to indignation is the food", we heard said on the campus recently. It's probably painfully true. With all the meetings and activities plus trying to do a little honest studying, a poor befuddled student doesn't have much brain or muscle left for the extras in life — politics or what-have-you. But even the most sublimely preoccupied mind behind the thickest academic specs is bound to notice a thing which is thrown in its face three times a day. Like food, for instance.

Our purpose is not to criticize the food — we realize this is war — and besides that has been done already. We decline to mention the overabundance of starches or the superfluity of "potatoes, tomatoes, and ice cream". But we do decry the inconsistency of the menus. There seems, to our feeble brain, to be no rational explanation for being offered a "starvation diet" for a couple of days and then being suddenly transported to the proverbial land of milk and honey for another short sojourn.

In case this sounds like exaggeration, mention may be made of one recent memorable day in the "show dorm" of Wooster. Lunch comprised macaroni, dessert, milk, and bread and butter; supper ditto, with the minor substitution of stew for the macaroni. (Beg your pardon, there were olives at lunch). Lunch the next day was a side-bursting affair of spanish rice, cooked carrots, lettuce salad, dessert, milk, and, as the crowning touch, jelly for the bread and butter.

It is all perfectly edible — even palatable — but oh, the contrariety of periodically dashing to the Union to get filled up one time and being literally stuffed to the gills the next. We appreciate the efforts of the dormitory staffs, especially in times like these, but please — can't we have a little system?

TODAY . . . . .

by Betty Lou Dickens

"It may be dangerous to hate our enemies in time of war; it is also dangerous to become overly sentimental about them in time of peace."

What do you hope will be the ultimate outcome of this war? A just and lasting peace, you say. Lasting — but just Consider a moment. A just peace must prescribe justice to all nations. Justice to all nations would mean a peace strict and harsh beyond imaginations. If we were to treat Germany as justice would dictate, we would certainly ruin her.

Perhaps by "just" you mean "merciful". That is another story altogether.

There is danger in too just a peace; there is danger in too merciful a one. To mete out to Germany the justice she deserves would be to end her life as a nation; to mete out to Germany too merciful a peace would be to incur the wrath of the world and lay the foundations for another war.

It is all very well for Americans to speak of turning the cheek in the treatment of Germany. The rest of the world will not stand for such talk and if we try to write such sentiments into the peace treaty, we shall be balked by those nations most ravished by Nazism.

It is all right for citizens of Los Angeles or Lima to speak of Christian mercy! so is it right for the people of Lublin and Lidice to speak of Christian justice. Ask the Russians, the Poles, the Jews, the Czechs what they would have done with the aggressor. They have suffered; we haven't.

Germany has fought five aggressive wars within the memory of living men. Three she has won; one she theoretically lost; one she contests. The full impact of a military defeat she has never suffered. Since 1864 Germany has found war to be a quick and successful way to gain her ends. We must prove that idea false; we must show her that war does not pay.

In the era following World War I, we swallowed German propaganda hook, line, and sinker. We bent over backwards to be merciful to her, to give her another chance. The result is World War II.

Somewhere between those "sentimentalists" who desire a soft peace, and those "realists" out for blood, is a group who see both approaches dangerous to lasting peace. They seek another road.

To this group, I believe, the minister of last Sunday belonged. Mercy, he said, can be bestowed upon those capable of receiving it through repentance. The Nazis have no such capability. Sending them to Russia for ten or twenty years to work and restore that which they devastated, seemed feasible to him. Show mercy, then, to those elements of the German nation worthy of it; give justice to the Nazis.

You and I cannot determine all the details of the peace settlement. We can, however, decide upon what principles it shall be drawn. What will we have then? Shall it be the harsh peace of Vansittart, or the soft peace of the pacifist? Neither. It must be a just peace tempered with mercy — only then can it be lasting.

The Boy Stood on the Burning Deck

In the style of Ogden Nash
Once upon a time there was a boy named Herkimer Spink.

It was he who stood on a ship which the deck of was burning. All the swabbies had left.

Herkimer was alone. His old man was downstairs in the cellar of the ship.

Captain Spink was taking advantage of the smoke.

He was learning to inhale. Except he didn't learn.

He got too much smoke in his lungs and passed out.

So Herkimer really was alone. But he didn't know it.

Let's blow this fire trap, daddy dear, Herky called.

Daddy turned over and inhaled some more smoke.

The ship burned down to a mere raft.

About that time Herk remembered his father didn't swim any way, so he jumped off his raft and started for shore.

That was Herkimer's fatal mistake; he forgot he didn't swim either.

Don't name your son Herkimer.

Lt. John A. Permenter, commanding officer of Naval Academic Refresher Unit, presenting citation ribbon to Marine Tech. Sgt. Emmanuel DiTiberio.

By R. BEACH, S2/c

Students of Wooster, meet Emmanuel Di Tiberio, the newest hero in the campus V-5 trainee regiment. Those of you who were fortunate enough to be present at the Baldwin-Wallace football game last Saturday witnessed something more than a first class exhibition of football. Between the halves you football fans were an eye witness to something that not many civilians are able to see — the presentation of a military citation. Marine Lt. John W. Fellows read a special citation from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz to Marine Sergeant Emmanuel Di Tiberio. Let's take a look at this citation.

"For meritorious and efficient performance of duty as an aerial gunner attached to a bombing squadron during an engagement with the enemy in the Solomon Islands area on December 3, 1942. While participating in a strike against a strong Japanese task force, Sergeant Di Tiberio capably assisted his plane commander in carrying out an aggressive and successful attack."

"His skill and courage in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire and heavy fighter plane opposition contributed materially to the success of the mission and were in keeping with the highest traditions of the naval service."

"Chester W. Nimitz
Admiral U. S. Navy"

During his tour of duty in the combat area Di Tiberio was a turret gunner in a TBF and, as we have seen, he piled up quite a record for himself. It was during the battle of Tassafaronga Bay that he won the citation. In addition to this new letter of commendation he holds a Presidential Unit Citation and is entitled to wear an air crew insignia with three stars. The three stars designate action against enemy aircraft, enemy shipping, and enemy land installations.

On his last mission before returning to the States DiTiberio's plane ran into a Jap looking for trouble. With only eight rounds of ammunition left in his guns he got the Jap. Man, that's gunnery!

To Technical Sergeant Emmanuel Di Tiberio go the plaudits from every one of us here at The College of Wooster, not only for being a hero but for being an "O.K. Joe" as well.

Apperntments

By Betty Stuckslager

I Never Left Home they called me in them days, until the weekend of rush parties. Or maybe someone had read So Little Time. Anyway, for you sophomores it's going to be an eddying and precipitous time, it says here in my notes, or maybe you think it's just One Damn Thing After Another. But with the assistance of numerous friends whom I shall acknowledge when my book comes out, and in accordance with the regulations of the WPB, I have compiled a catalogued form of the parties, no, not according to alphabet, no, not even from left to right, but according to time, station, and ye olde almanacke. All rights reserved.

REPORTS ON SPORTS

By STAN MORSE

Last Saturday the football fans of Wooster and surrounding territory were witnesses to one of the greatest scenes on the gridiron in many seasons. The highly vaunted Yellow Jackets from Baldwin-Wallace entered Severance Stadium heavy favorites to down the light inexperienced Wooster eleven, and were treated none too lightly at the hands of the Swigartmen.

The Scots really played a game of football Saturday, making the Yellow Jackets come from behind all the way; and when the final whistle blew, the score board read 20-20, in one of the most surprising games of the season.

The Wooster eleven, in spite of B-W's Lee Tressel and signaling from the bench, stopped the Yellow Jackets cold in the first half and racked up all their points—20 of them.

It was evident from the opening kick-off that the Black and Gold seemed to have a shot in the arm, showing more spirit and fight than before this season. They knew they were the underdogs, being picked by the experts to be beaten by as many as 30 points, but they entered the game determined to win at all costs. No, they didn't win, but they proved conclusively that they had what it takes; and by holding the not so mighty Baldwin-Wallace team to a tie, humbled them just as much as if they were beaten.

The Yellow Jackets went home Saturday night in deep thought. Just what has Wooster got? They have no great Tressels or Bevans, their coach didn't do any signaling from the bench, they haven't even made a point all season; and yet they held the powerful, star-studded team from B-W to a tie and made them use every ounce of their reserve strength to pull through. This proves a point that is of all importance in football. It takes eleven men to make up a team, and that is what Wooster showed the world Saturday; they had a team.

Not enough credit can be given these boys who were out there on the field. They fought every minute, ripping holes in the Yellow Jackets' forward wall as if it were made out of paper. The passing of Steve Stuka, quarterback extraordinary was the bright and shining light of the afternoon. It has been quite a few seasons since Johnny Swigart has come across a find like Stuka. He throws that pigskin like a baseball, and very seldom does he miss the mark. Also, he seems to like to run with the ball, tearing off some beautiful gains on the ground.

Giving credit where credit is due, we can't give too much praise to Munse and Johnny. Last Saturday they had their team out there doing what they had taught it, and taught the hard way. When the College finally decided to have a football team and the call was made for candidates, all were ex-high school players with little experience. Johnny and Munse had to start from the ground floor and build up, a job that was tiresome and difficult; but against B-W it paid dividends. One of the most pleasing things to see was the blocking. When Stuka made that beautiful run in the first quarter, the open field blocking was really a sight to see, and the spectators were able to see first-hand the results of many weeks' work.

Yes, Baldwin-Wallace was truly humbled, and the name Wooster was on every one's lips throughout the country. There was one cloud over the game though, and that was the way the Yellow Jacket coaches were playing the game from the side lines. It's too bad when a school like Baldwin-Wallace, that can put out a team that is rated not only as one of the best they have ever had, but also one of the top ones in the country, has to have a guide that is not playing. And it's too bad when a coach like Ray Watts can put together a team like the one he had this year and not be able to find a quarterback that can run his own ball game. That's just one of the black marks against college football that could easily be remedied by a few penalties.

All in all, though, it was a beautiful game to watch and one that was well played on the field. Both teams fought hard, and once again Wooster has proven herself capable of holding up her end of the game. The Black and Gold won't be forgotten; and this week against Oberlin, the Scots will kick-off on even terms with the Yeomen in what should be a real battle.

Now turning our spotlight to the nation-wide setup, we see that last week was the best football of the season. There were a few upsets, and on the whole every game was played close.

In a game that didn't draw so much attention until the score began to roll in, was the Notre Dame - Illinois contest. The Fighting Irish are rapidly losing a lot of the prestige they acquired during the season, and last week just barely eked by a spirited, speedy Illinois team by a score of 13-7.

It was a tough one for the Illini to lose, and a lucky one for the Irish to win. As the statistics will show, the scrappy Illinois eleven outplayed, outsmarted, and out-fought Notre Dame for the full four quarters of the game. Buddy Young, the Illini speedster was seriously hurt in the last play of the first half, and was forced to remain out of the rest of the game. If Young had been able to stay in there the score would have very likely been reversed, as he gave the fans the thrill of their life in the first quarter. The very first time Buddy got his hands on the ball he raced around end for 76 yards and a touchdown. Here's another player of All-American caliber to keep the experts on their toes.

The Buckeyes rolled on as usual, plowing over Minnesota, 34-14, to keep their slate clean, and run their win streak to five straight. As predicted earlier in the season, the Illinois-Ohio State game should really be a battle and will no doubt be the deciding factor in the race for the Big Ten championship.

Army continued to roll unhindered toward the goal of national acclaim as they opened up against Duke to count up 26 points to the Blue Devils' 7. It was only after a hectic first half that the Cadets were able to do anything, as they spent the first half hour staving off scoring thrusts by the Duke team and wound up at the tail end of a 7-6 score at halftime.

Navy, after a long wait, finally unleashed its powerful attack to whitewash Pennsylvania, 26-0. This was expected to be a close game, as Penn was undefeated so

This week-end brings not only our last home game, with Oberlin, but also the last chance you'll have to buy your hot dogs, coffee, peanuts, and candy at the W.A.A. refreshment stand in the stadium. Step right up, football enthusiasts, and snag your snacks. Anyone wishing to help out behind the counter please see Lucy Hunter in Holden by Friday.

All the clubs seem to be doing well both in spirit and attendance—the Dancing Club in particular. They already have made plans for a Modern Dance Recital later in the season. Miss Lowrie will welcome all interested every Monday, Tuesday and Thursday between 4 and 5:30. The Swimming Club also shows signs of progress. The first half hour of the evening is devoted to form swimming topped off with a half hour of speed swimming.

Last week the campus welcomed back Ensign Emma Able, a member of last year's Physical Education staff. She has just received her commission from the Waves' Officer Training School at Smith College and will soon be on her way to Washington, D. C. for further training. Our best wishes go with her as she continues to serve Uncle Sam in the months to come.

A rummage sale, sponsored by the W.A.A. in cooperation with the War Council will soon be started. Begin saving all your old clothes and belongings girls, as one more contribution to our war effort.

Far in the season; but the Annapolis eleven had been pushed around too much already, and were out for blood. In perhaps the biggest upset of the day, Michigan whipped Purdue to the tune of 40 to 14. This was picked to be the closest game of the day, with the nod going to Purdue. The Wolverines upset the apple cart, however, and really poured on the coal. It seems that Michigan, after getting off to a rather disappointing start, is gathering momentum as it goes along. And this bodes no good for her opponents.

Well, that little bug is biting again, so once again we will pick the winners for Saturday. This gets harder as the season progresses, but we're in too deep to stop now. Pay close attention, as this is the straight dope. Alabama over Georgia—that should be close; Texas A & M over Arkansas—the Aggies are on the way back; Army over Villanova—that's not so hard; Case over Rochester—Bill Lund is the reason there; Columbia over Cornell—if Colgate can do it, so can

Columbia; Georgia Tech over Duke—that one is really up to you; Ohio State over Indiana—close, but the nod goes to State; Nebraska over Iowa—we'll stick by the home team; Mississippi State over Kentucky—too much power; Louisiana State over Tennessee—Louisiana has a powerhouse this year; Michigan over Penn—Pennsylvania will be out for it, but the Wolverines are too much; Minnesota over Northwestern—close one; Navy over Notre Dame—and it's not going to be an upset; Penn State over Syracuse; Purdue over Wisconsin—power, even if they were beaten last week; Yale over Dartmouth—the Yale bulldogs are undefeated; and finally Rice over Texas Tech.

Scots Play Oberlin Saturday to Wind Up Current Season

Come Saturday, the rejuvenated Wooster Scots will play host again, this time to the Yeomen of Oberlin College. The scrappy team from Oberlin will bring their team of Navy V-12s to Severance Stadium for a game that, from all indications, should attract wide attention, as it will be the first time this year that the Scots have gone onto the field on even terms.

Coach Lysle K. Butler's team this year has had quite a few hard knocks, and to this date has yet to come out of a game on the win side of the ledger. Sept. 16, the Yeomen opened the season holding the strong Denison eleven to a 7-7 tie, thus attracting some glances from the sports world. The following week, however, Oberlin lost to Miami 13-6, and has been on the wrong side of the score ever since. Sept. 30, Baldwin-Wallace warped the Yeoman 35-0, and the next week Case repeated the trick to the tune of 18-6. Rochester whipped Oberlin 21-0, and that was the last contest to date.

The only common foes that Wooster and Oberlin have met are Case and Baldwin-Wallace. Case beat the Scots 19-0, while last week Wooster held B-W to a 20-20 deadlock. Oberlin bowed to the Case Rough Riders 18-6, and were walked over by B-W 35-0. By a comparison of scores, the game Saturday should be very close with the Scots holding down the long end of the odds, if any.

Last year, the Oberlin Yeomen beat the Wooster Scots 27-0, and in 1942 the Scots suffered the first defeat at the hands of the Yeomen in 11 years. From 1931 to 1942, the Wooster team ruled the roost as far as Oberlin was concerned, and come Saturday the Scotty will be out to bring that victory back home again for another 11 years.

The Buttermen will be out to stop the passing of Steve Stuka this week; but if they are as ineffective as Baldwin-Wallace, it should be a game that is more than interesting. Game time: 2:30.

Columbia; Georgia Tech over Duke—that one is really up to you; Ohio State over Indiana—close, but the nod goes to State; Nebraska over Iowa—we'll stick by the home team; Mississippi State over Kentucky—too much power; Louisiana State over Tennessee—Louisiana has a powerhouse this year; Michigan over Penn—Pennsylvania will be out for it, but the Wolverines are too much; Minnesota over Northwestern—close one; Navy over Notre Dame—and it's not going to be an upset; Penn State over Syracuse; Purdue over Wisconsin—power, even if they were beaten last week; Yale over Dartmouth—the Yale bulldogs are undefeated; and finally Rice over Texas Tech.

Wooster Upsets Baldwin-Wallace; Plays 20-20 Tie

By BEN McDONALD

It was a cold day in October when the cocky Baldwin-Wallace team came thundering down to Wooster. On that same eventful day that same team departed with an entirely different air. In fact, they literally crawled home.

The Wooster team fought hard to keep in the lead, until the last few minutes of play when the Baldwin-Wallace eleven scored the tying tally.

The Baldwin-Wallace aerial circus seemed like a myth Saturday; it just wasn't able to function, as the Scots were breaking it up continually.

Lee Tressel, the Yellow Jackets' star full back and one of the nation's leading scorers, made all three of the visitors' touchdowns. But for the magnificent running of Tressel, Baldwin-Wallace would not have been in the ball game, much less scoring three touchdowns.

Wooster looked like a different team out there Saturday with both their offensive and defensive play really inspiring. A lot of credit goes to Coaches Johnny Swigart and Carl Munson for their untiring efforts to produce a good ball club. Steve Stuka, Wooster triple threat backfield man, proved to help sum up that score.

Shortly after the kickoff the fans were brought to their feet by a spectacle never before enacted in the Stadium. Ralph Benedict faded back to throw a pass, but was trapped behind the line of scrimmage, and let go a short wobbly aerial. Big Harry Robison, Scot tackle, grabbed the loose ball in midair and scampered 45 yards untouched for the first Wooster score of the season. Bob Mueller went in and place-kicked the extra point. Score: Wooster 7, B-W 0.

Much to the delight of the fans and dismay of the visitors, the Scots were showing more spark. The Yellow Jackets received a short kickoff in midfield, and Roberts sliced a punt out of bounds on the Wooster 40.

On the first play, Steve Stuka received the ball on a reverse, and with the aid of some of the most beautiful blocking seen in the Stadium, scooted around right end and toted the ball down the sidelines to the visitors' 5-yard line. After two plunges into the line, Planck went over. Mueller again came in and kicked the extra point. Score: Wooster 14, B-W 0.

The Baldwin-Wallace eleven now began to realize that they were really in a ball game, and were going to have to dig in to make a showing. After a switch of the ball, Dick Ragle's short punt gave B-W the ball on the Wooster 40-yard line. Six plays later the Jackets were on the six-yard line due to the running of Lee Tressel.

On the second play of the second quarter, Tressel again carried the ball, this time to hit pay dirt. Casper added the extra point from placement. Score: Wooster 14, B-W 7.

Before many of the fans could get their breath, the Scots had that touchdown back. Planck received the kick-off and took the ball back to the Wooster 47. On the first play it was Stuka again, this time fading for a pass. He spied Bill Hoelt far down the field, and let fly with a beautiful pass that traveled nearly 50 yards in the air. Hoelt caught it on the fly and roared for the goal. Mueller missed his first placement of the day, as the half ended. Score: Wooster 20, B-W 7.

Early in the third period the Scots threatened again but were unable to push the ball across and lost it on downs on the Baldwin-Wallace 22.

Taking over, the Yellow Jackets began a sustained march down the field with Tressel carrying the ball nearly every play. Five first downs put the visitors on Wooster's 7-yard line, with first and goal to go. On the third play, Tressel drove over for the score. Casper split the uprights for the extra pointer. Score: Wooster 20, B-W 14.

In the beginning of the final frame, the Scots pushed deeper into enemy territory but were halted by a penalty. A few minutes later, Wooster got another chance. Meredith scooping up a Baldwin-Wallace fumble on the midfield stripe. Taking to the air the Scots began to move steadily down the field, when Tressel intercepted a pass on his own 3-yard line, and ran it back to midfield again. Time was running short as the visitors dug in and began to march.

With a succession of passes the Berea boys moved the ball down to the Wooster 5.

On the first drive, Tressel picked up only a half yard. On the second try he bucked over for the tying score. With the game pending on this all-important point, the Yellow Jackets lined up to kick. Ray Watts, B-W coach, missed the boat when he sent in instructions to pass for the point. Roberts took the ball from center, and flipped a short one out to Casper in the flat, but it was too high, and B-W's chances went with the wind. Score: Wooster 20, B-W 20.

The game ended a minute later with the Scots in possession of the ball at midfield.

The Scots came into their own last Saturday, and showed a doubting world that it still could put out a football team. This week, against Oberlin, you should see some mighty fine football.

For your glamour moments, Glentex's Icemist, Dewmist, and Cloudmist scarfs selling from $1.49 to $3.95 are your answer. They make for that fragile air, coming in such luscious shades as fuchsia, pale blue, black, Kelly, and a very eye-taking combination of fuchsia and purple.

Sticking our neck out, we predict a fad. With babushkas unflattering for some and frostbitten ears impractical for all, the lowly earmuff resurrected on some campuses a few years back will rise again in Wooster. Freedlanders have 'em in toasty-warm lambs wool for a paltry 39c. You'll find them in a beaverly brown, taupe, blue, and green. If bears only knew it, keeping warm is lots more fun than hibernating all winter.
