Keith Henry Attends Leadership Training School; Republican Aims and AccomplishmentsPresented

by Shirley Nelson

Keith Henry, a senior majoring in political science at Wooster, was in Washing-town, D.C., between sessions to par-ticipate in the Young Repub-ican Leadership Training School. This intensive course that emphasized leadership was held from Monday, January 23 through Friday, January 27 in the Raleigh Hotel.

Congressmen Choose

Each Republican Congressman had the opportunity to choose a Young Republican in his state to attend the school. Keith was sponsored by Mr. McCulloch, R.C., who represents the Fourth Ohio District. Mr. McCulloch spoke in the evening of the Young Republican's Lincoln Day Dinner here last year. The speaker pointed out that in his room and nots.

The faculty of the school was very good. It was composed of such notable as Leonard Hall, Chairman, Republican National Committee; Arthur Sum-

Musicans Give Sunday Concert

The new Davis Memorial organ in the church was dedicated during a major organ recital by Mr. Carroll this Sunday evening at 8:15.

The program will open by Dr. Robert Willoughby, assistant professor of music at Oberlin College, and Alan Collin, associate professor of music at Wooster. Mr. Willoughby has appeared frequently as a solo artist at the church and will be joined in recital by Mr. Carroll and Mr. Collins in presenting contrasting programs by Bach and Locatelli for flute, violin, and organ.

Contemporary Compositions

Mr. Carroll will open the program with three contemporary compositions. "Bolero" by Piazzolla on tenor and III ter recitif ig is a composition based on an old church hymn. "Dr. Jazz" is by Jean Langfeld, a blind French organist who has made several tours through the U.S. The conserting work in this group is Marcel Dupre's Variations on a Noel. Bach on Program

In addition to the works for flute, solo, and organ in the sectional hall of the program, Mr. Carroll will play J. S. Bach's cembalo organ compositions, Toccata, Adagio, and Passacaglia in C Major.

UCF Shows Film, Announces Agenda

First on UCF's agenda for the new season is a film on Martin Luther, to be shown in Scott Auditorium on February 4, to which Mr. Carroll will welcome those who wish to discuss the ideas presented in the film, which begins with the Reformation in Lower Kane.

On February 19, "Pryce" Wesley will tell about the evolution of the English language with special reference to the English language in its own and various other languages.

January Graduates Bid Wooster Adieu

by Paula Carroll

June is usually the time when alumni meet their alma maters. But this was not true for five Wooster students. In January, Martha Bronson, Clifford Elliot, Fay Marker, Jack Purcell and Willis Smith completed the necessary requirements, thus entitling them to their Bachelor of Arts degree.

The Former Mo Boustoun

Mo Boustoun, originally from Wheaton, Illinois, where he attended Wheaton College, is now Mrs. Robert Weikel. She and her husband have been living in the P.C. Bow on College, where they have been spending their time and enjoy the College's facilities.

Excited in Athletics

Cliff Elliot爱好 baseball, shown by the fact that he won four letters in this sport. He attended Wooster High School being offered a scholarship to the College. While at college he majored in Physical Education, and some day hopes to be a coach.

Fay Marker, from Muncie, Indiana, was a Physical Education Major. If everything goes well, (Continued on Page Three) refused. "Although patrolling has tended to reduce the number of calls for assistance, it is still inadequately, and speeding continues. Until the traffic situation improves, we will, at our own expense, provide police on the streets at least as a temporary measure." Such patrolling was done just before Christmas holidays, and was considered effective.

Carroll Students

The College also recommended an improvement of the Lighting along Beall Avenue. It believes that this is far more effective than any further extension of parking or other restrictions on the east side of the street.

Both city and college officials are disturbed by the many reports of carelessness on the part of students in crossing Beall Avenue. At ultimate solution they have drawn up is that all traffic be rerouted around Wooster, but this solution is not likely to be considered. The College feels that special attention be given to the safety of the student during the busy hours of the street at night, and strict police enforcing the area are imperative.

Curriculum: New vs Old

The new curriculum has recently suffered from criticism at the hands of a few students. The cry is raised that grammar and speech are no longer taught and that a Wooster graduate might not be exposed to all the great truths of literature, art, music, etc., during his four-year college career.

Charge: Students will not be required to demonstrate competence in writing or algebra under the new curriculum.

Answer:
1. The Introduction to Liberal Studies which replaces the freshman English course "will include systematic practice in writing and will be supplemented by a non-credit laboratory for students needing remedial work."
2. An examination will be given near the end of each semester by each of the committees of the faculty to determine competence in the use of written English.
3. "Students whose written English is found unsatisfactory by the Liberal Studies staff at the end of the freshman year or who fail the examination given at the end of the first semester of the sophomore year will be advised to take further work in composition."
4. Any student who does not pass a test at the end of the sophomore year designed to check competence in written English will not be allowed to gain upperclass status.

Charge: Students will not be required to demonstrate competence in oral communication under the new curriculum.

Answer:
1. Oral competence will be determined through an examination given by the Department of Speech under the direction of a special committee of the Faculty.
2. The examination will be given during the first semester of the freshman year.
3. Students who fail to demonstrate competence "to the satisfaction of the committee, will be required to take a non-credit speech lab course the following semester."

Charge: Students will not be required to expose themselves to the great men of literature, art, music, etc., under the new curriculum.

Answer:
1. Under the old curriculum a student was not required to take any course in music, art, or speech (excepting freshman speech). The program lists six hours of required literature and six hours elective, which could also be a literature course.
2. The new curriculum specifically requires that a student take a course in the Fine Arts as well as in literature.
3. Under the old curriculum the Dean of the College was empowered to waive up to 12 hours of requirements for individuals. The new curriculum discontinues this practice.

The new curriculum lowers the number of general requirements. Therefore, some imply, greater specialization will increase the possibility for more bores.

Is the most liberal education a guarantee against boredom?

HEIMWEH

This little ditty was composed by a Woosterian who had transferred away to a large university and was feeling homesick for the Old Ivory Tower.

This morning, as I walked to school, (a trek of half an hour) I judged myself the biggest fool since knighthood was in flower.

For, as I crossed the wind-sweptQuad, the piles of steel and stone had seemed to say, "Except for m’boy, you’re quite alone."

And so I was, amidst the press of thousands streaming to and fro. It made me miss the friendly lions I knew — not long ago.

I thought then of the autumn days:
the smell of burning leaves;
and Sunday walks on quiet ways:
Ohio corn in ordered sheaves.

I thought next of my chapel seat:
how sitting there, from thoughtful lips
I learned the size of Burn’s feet, the shape and speed of clipper ships.

The sights and sounds came streaming back —
g reased people waiting for the rock;
and Museum standing on the track, srolling roll at two o’clock.

The nights when weary piles of books had kept me up, I heard the walls of farm trains. And how Slim looks in passing flocks of knightingsales!

So, Jim, you take my Cadillacs;
and pass is passed.
And shake my hand, cuz I’m gonna’ head somewhere, to the Ohio! —

ICC-tivities byancy l. Kreh

Middle-winter has found the girls’ clubs in a whirl of activity, many of them playing their dancing roles as well as the traditional formulas. The Tropicals put on their dancer December in December, when they converted Lower Babcock into a Moulin Rouge atmosphere for “Chez Trompe”. January saw Peanuts with their dance and Sphinx with a Bermuda Ball. Echoes are beginning the new semester with a Winter Carnival and Imps will follow in the near future with a desert dance.

Spring Formals

The customary spring formals are in the rapid planning stage, several clubs combining their efforts for each of the affairs. Imps and Echoes have chosen as their theme “A Night in Old Heidelberg”. Lower Babcock will be the scene of this Fifth of the March formals.

Non-Date Affairs

Non-date affairs have also entered into the club functions. Prisms are being entertained by both Imps and Echoes for a Valentine party. Prisms found time to have an impromptu dance for three of their members, while Echoes had a bowling party. Imps will get together this Saturday for a Valentine party and Kere for a new formal, are in planning.

Good luck, Pumps, in your "Knit for Korea" race and congratulations, Trumps, on winning the interclub swimming meet.

Co-eds Advocate A Year Abroad

by Tom Scott

The following is a synopsis of a letter to the editor from three Wooster students, Shirley Falteich, Christine Grifffiths, and Sally Underwood who, as many of you know, are studying at the University of Edinburgh in Scotland this year. The letter is an expression of the fact that one of friendly communication, for the girls are doing their best to call to Wooster students the idea of a year or more of study in this University.

The first problem that comes to mind when an idea such as this is mentioned is expense. However, the girls report that it is quite possible to remain at a European university at no more cost than one would ordinarily encounter at Wooster and this includes travel expenses. The advantages of a year or more in this type of situation are summed up in the adjectives that the girls used through the letter, worthwhile, enjoyable, broadening, educational, bureaucratic.

Cosmopolitan Atmosphere

The immediate impression of the school that is mentioned is the cosmopolitan atmosphere that is evident. Students from all over the world dressed in kilts, saries, turbans, and Bermuda shorts are living and working together in a common interest, knowledge, and understanding.

Scottish Life

It is further mentioned that the adjustment to this new environment was made so much more easily through the friendliness and understanding of the university people. There was an added benefit at this point about the variety of campus activities available from the Mountain Climbing Association, and the Scottish Country Dancing Society to the conservation Club. (One of the members, exactly in which areas the numbers of this society are conservative. With all this typical Scottish life going on, the girls felt that it was their duty to set an example of as much as possible in the year time and they have found that this somewhat hindered their study habits.

"Progressive" Edinburgh

Apparently, education at Edinburgh University is what we would call "progressive." There are no requirements to attend lectures or taking exams. In fact the only requirement is that one must pass his exams to get a degree, but if you should fail, you can retake the examination the next year and try again.

Traditional Edinburgh

The next item is one which I feel bears the serious consideration of all of us. It concerns the treatment of the students within the faculty. It seems that when the professor is involved in something, he is decked out in full regalia and is accompanied by a porter who carries a glass of water, or some- thing. At the professor’s entrance, he is preceded by a terrible mass of ringing of bells or by hissing and booing indicating some sort of disgrace. However, these sound effects are carried on throughout the town and inhibits any sort of dialogue. The present administration is planning to change all this, but it will be some time before the professor in no uncertain terms has the ability to present his subject material.

Beautiful Edinburgh

Along with the obvious cultural growth that can be realized in living with people of different nations and the understanding that can grow out of the intermingling of these ideas, there is the city of Edinburgh itself. It has beautiful views, impressive buildings, and wonderful history.

In summation, the girls have this to say, "We hope that other Wooster students will realize the opportunities available abroad and if anyone would like any sort of information to just write us and we will be glad to assist in any way."

FEBRUARY 1st - Up to breakfast, which methought was hearty and sustaining, though I did not care for Tea (a new drink from China).
FEBRUARY 2nd - To the bookstore, where I met with my textbook, which is quite dry and stilby, and I am told is much; but upon meeting Mr. Townsend, told him for his life.
FEBRUARY 3rd - Up and to breakfast, which consisted of do-re-mi: Mr. Trump being upon my arm, was much pleased with the notes. Methought he showed very little patience.

FEBRUARY 5th - Today is Friday, for which I humbly give thanks. I took dinner with Miss Kastl in Holden Hills, where the dinner was elegant and informative, turning upon the first of London, which burnt a good many people.
FEBRUARY 6th - A great commotion toward Severance Gymnasium this evening; upon entering, I found vast crowds of people swarming and rolling with terror; methought it was the plague again and hastened to tell the King. The King, methought, justly alarmed declared that no one should be allowed, unless he sailed for seat by boat from Severance to Kenaiden, I looked off into my room, and read the book of John.
FEBRUARY 7th (Lord's Day) Up and to church, where Mr. Blackwood preached a truly fine sermon; methought a young lady in the last row did turn properattention to it; encountering the service, I was thoroughly pleased. A woman, methought, in my room, and so home to bed.

FEBRUARY 11th - Up, and to hear Mr. Moore lecture on Shakespeare, who is a second rate playwright, and will not sell, although I enjoyed the dances in MACBETH and the flying spirits in MUCH ADO Mr. Moore, it seemed, has a different opinion, and ranks Shakespeare with our great writer, Richard Mobly.
FEBRUARY 12th - Today I did take a comely whiff to a Dance, and she wore the latest fashion from Paris, called a saucy, which becomes her very well, but methought it showed too much of her legs, coming only to her ankles.

WOOSTER VOICE

"Why did the American boys do so poorly in the Winter Olympics at Cortina?" This question is being asked all over the United States, and seems to be a bit of a mystery. In sports. In Russia, Finland, Nor- way, and other European countries where there is continual ice and snow, knowledge of ice skating and skating is a form of survival.

Only in New England and a few western states do we have skating areas. The prices of participation and equipment, however, are tre- mendous. On the other hand, ath- letes have become a state-sponsored program in Russia. They are making it a case of national pride, reminiscent of Hitler's at- tempt during the 1936 Olympics at Berlin. With the exception of the recently completed Dartmouth Winter Carnival in New Hamps- hire, there is little or none interest in the U.S.A.

We did do well in hockey and figure skating because there is a great number of rinks in recent years, with the de-emphasis of football in certain eastern and western areas, ice hockey has become a sport of national interest.

America's decides triumph over the usually dominating Canada was no wonder to the many follow- ers of the prep, collegiate and pro sport.

Another problem which will arise in the Melbourne, Australian games, in distance running. The "poorer" countries of Europe lead in these endurance events because they are used to traveling long distances on foot. Various forms of transportation in European coun- tries is simply limited. Thus America must face the fact that she can never challenge the likes of Zatopek and Company in this event. This is a fact that they will have to accept in other track events.

Russia is lacking her chops for the Melbourne games, and it is up to the United States to stop them! As the Ohio Conference Cage race gets back into the stands once again, the schools have a historic opportunity to make up the losses of recent years, and compete with the big brothers of the Conference. To make this year a success, the following men should be able to contribute:

Akron 8 1 0 1000
Ashland 7 1 285
Bluffton 6 0 600
Bowling Green 3 500
Bowster 3 100
Chet 1 500
Cortina 1 100
Delts 5 452
Elmendorf 5 7 417
Ohio Wesleyan 3 5 375
Ohio 3 5 375
Ohio Northern 3 5 375
Penn 3 3 333
Pleasant Hill 2 0 700
Riverside 3 3 333

A Long Way to Go

The 1955-56 season is to be an interesting battle between Akron and Delts, as the latter, with a good variation from pre-season dope. Although the title is far from be- ing claimed, observers feel that the three teams to watch would be Delts, Lehigh, De- lmar, and Akron. The Big Red, of course, are right in the middle. However, the Mountain Men have been somewhat of a disap- pointment. The Scots, perpetually a strong team, this season have been quite an exciting team. Their 5-3-1 record is quite formidable. With a chance to win a league championship, the Scots have a good chance of competing in the national meet in the spring.

The Mounties, with a 4-3 record, have been a constant threat to the Big Red. With a strong 5-4 record, they have been a surprise team, and have been_regression during the year.

Four of the bright spots in the Wooster basketball picture are (top) Jerry Smith and Dick Retart; and (bottom) Chet Welty and Freshman Bob Ramirez.

Frost Five On Go: Behringer Pleased

Again we see the JV on the court but this time they look like a team. Behringer's team. The past few practices have been lively, with great speed and accurate; the boys really move. The shots are good and there are a lot fewer misses. Some key passes play a role in the way they come out as they rack up the points. Coach Behringer feels better about this team than he did at the begin- ning of the season. Said Behr- inger, "They're a good bunch of boys. They really hustle, have a lot of spirit and put up quite a few nice shots. One thing that the team does lack is good rebound- ing. In the opinion of Behringer, the host all around ballplayer is one of the best defensive players in the Conference. In the Conference games, the boys can win all six of their remaining games and will have the best record of any Conference team of Wooster with the way they have not lost to any conference team. Last year's freshmen team lost only one game. All in all, the boys deserve a tremendous amount of credit. They have come a long way since the first game. The team stills they have to play are Denison, Muskingum, Kenyon, Heidelberg, Oberlin, and Ohio Western. Although any one of these rivals could beat them, as long as they show up there is a chance of pulling through a pretty good year if they can beat Kenyon. Their next game is with Kenyon at Wooster on February 11.

Scots Cagers Meet Kenyon Tomorrow:

Avenge Early Reversal, Topple Ashland

Saturday night at Sewranto Gym, the in-season Wooster College basketball five will resume Ohio conference action against Kenyon College. The Holmen, who trimmed the Lords in a January con- test will again be employed as solid favorites. Playing on their home floor last Friday, Second avenged a previous reversal and soundly trounced the Ashland Eagles, 65-50.

For the first six minutes, the encounter couldn't have been closer as the lead changed hands no fewer than four times before the Scots took the lead for good, 10-16, event won good on a jump toss by ChetWelty.

At this point the Scots offense opened all throttles, and, within three minutes, enjoyed a commanding 34-16 advantage. With the tireless trio of Smith, Garcia, and Dixon hitting freely, the Black and Gold increased this lead to 50-26 at the horn.

Tankmen Host To Fenn Foxes Today

Still seeking their initial victory after seven defeats, the Wooster College tackle unit met highly touted Fenn at Severance Pool this afternoon and will travel to Springfield tomorrow for a battle with Wrighten.

Skid at Slippery Rock

On January 14, better freestyle swimmers enabled Slippery Rock State Teachers to score an exciting 56-35 success. Coach Johnny Swiggart's charges took an early lead as they swept the first event, the 200-yard medley relay. Slippery Rock, however, retaliated when Ed Work created a laurel in the 100-yard breast stroke events.

Kandle, Smith Top Kenarden Scoring

First round statistics help show just how close the Kenarden League race is. First place Fifth Section leads in team offense by a scant seven points and ranks third to Seventh and Seventeen in team defense. Offensively, the teams are arranged almost exactly in accordance with their standing in the League, the picture is considerably out of balance in the defensive statistics. Maulers Scorch Tri Kaps

The Maulers came out on top in the first of the intra-section games when they downed the Tri Kapps 55-30. Dick Melghan and Bill Burns led the Maulers with 18 and 16, respectively. The Tri Kapps were aided by Dave Watson's 10. Pete Sneed and Bob Thompson led the Rakers to a 55-28 victory over the Eight Balls, 14 points each, helped out by Charles Mesker with 12, as the Eight Balls won 9, faced the Ranks. Opening night.

Junior Co-eds 'Winter' In Tennessee;
Fiske Students Spend Semester Here

by Tom Scott

During the second semester of each year, Wooster carries on a unique exchange program with students from Fiske University, located in Nashville, Tennessee. Fiske is a Liberal Arts school of about 800 students with opportunities for 100 co-eds.

Last year, as you may remember, Anne Dickerson and Dave Lewis went on our campus for the spring term. This year we have two men, Herron Hallon and Jim Parish. In exchange, two Wooster Juniors, Eleanor Nordleit and Joan Garrett, have gone south for the winter. Under the provisions of the plan, the exchange student pays his fees at his home school and then spends the semester at the other college. One further note at this point, directed to those of you who may be interested in this plan for various and sundry reasons: Wooster students are required to carry on their IS program while at Fiske.

Men Comment on Friendliness

The two men who are here have not really seen enough of the country yet to form any opinions; but they both commented on the friendliness of the people and the ease with which they were accepted at Fiske.
