College Press Polls: Undergraduates, Answers Reveal Ike's Popularity Won

by ACP

Many Republican politicians have attempted to interpret President Eisenhower's transient pop up last November 6 and its equal endorsement for the Republican party. Republican politicians are prone to believe that "the public is so deluged with weekend Eisenhower more than the facts to support that belief." The polls are taken to give an opinion of the on-going debate on the matter, as far as college student opinion is concerned.

The number of students who favor the Republican candidate is equal to the number of students who favor the Democratic candidate. The number of students who favor the Republican candidate has increased slightly this year. However, the number of students who favor the Democratic candidate has decreased slightly this year.

The polls are taken to give an opinion of the on-going debate on the matter, as far as college student opinion is concerned.

Levy Airs Views On Cheating; Senate Backs Administration

To the Editor:

Within the past two weeks a student has been suspended for cheating in course work. The Student Senate has supported the administrative action in this and similar cases.

Perhaps the whole problem of cheating needs airing. Certainly no one can condone the practice, and apparently a serious penalty is necessary to deter other students from participating in the same activity. In no instance can all who break the rule be caught and reprimanded. This does not mean that those who are caught should go unpunished. If a college is to judge its students as individuals, then the student's accomplishments must be his own. If they are not, steps must be taken to insure that they will.

Yet it has been reported that cheating occurs in more than the isolated case in which action is taken. This is a serious problem. If for cheating is widespread, then even the severe occasional punishment of individuals is not sufficient to eliminate cheating. The real problem is not the individual who is caught, but the cheating that is more widespread. For if this overall cheating which ultimately lowers the standards of the college and defeats its purpose.

However, the student body must realize that cheating is their problem, that they are the ones who suffer from the lowered academic standing that results from it, and that the solution does not lie in greater faculty or administrative policing, but in a more responsible attitude not only on the part of those students who cheat and those who do not cheat but also on the part of those who are aware of cheating and condone it with social approval.

To some students, support of administrative policy is evidence of rubber-stamp action. Yet it should be realized that responsible student government in colleges supports measures in which students believe the correct policy has been outlined and criticism when action taken is viewed as wrong.

Wooster Challenges Denison Saturday; Otterbein Falls, Fourth Straight Victim

by Art Humphreys

The story of Wooster swimming is not a tale of great stars or outstanding teams. Victory-wise, swimming ranks lower than most other Wooster sports. Neither is it a story of continuous defeat. The Scrots team has taken the Conference crown only once, but rarely has it finished the season in the cellar.

Swimming Beginning
Coach Carl Rumsen brought swimming to Wooster. He arrived in 1921 and the next year he organized a team. There were almost no college teams in Ohio, and so most of the meets were with YMCA teams. The first inter-collegiate meet was with Case, who lost, in 1923.

The next season Wooster beat Case, Hiram, and Western Re- serve in a quadrangular meet. Wooster swimmers were the best in Northern Ohio. Our teams swam wide that first decade in search of collegiate competition. Scott Romney downed Michigan University and Car- negie Tech but were beaten by the University of Pittsburgh. We also met Michigan State and Notre Dame. Our 50 foot pool was one of the finest in the country.

But by 1936, neighboring colleges had built bigger pools and launched teams. From the first Ohio Conference meet in that year until 1953, Oberlin and Kenyon dominated Confer- ence swimming. Oberlin won eight times, Kenyon won six times, and Case slipped in one victory.

There are six Ohio Conference teams at present—Akron, Ken- yon, Oberlin, Ohio Wesleyan, Wittenberg, and Wooster. Coach Johnny Swiftart took over for Coach Munson when the latter was on sabatical at the end of the season. (Continued on Page Four)

The 1953 season. He has coached the team since.
In the 1953 meet, Oberlin, champion the four previous years, was favored to win. Halfway through the contest the Scots and the Yeomen were tied for the lead. Wooster had a slight edge going into the final race, the 440 yard relay. Oberlin won this event but Wooster's second place was enough to bring victory. Final score: Wooster 66, Oberlin 64, Kenyon 46.

Passed Peak
That was the peak of Wooster's swimming history. In 1954, Wooster scored 41 points to cap fourth place. Kenyon won the meet. In 1955, Kenyon took victory with 98 points and Wooster came in fourth with 26. In 1956, the Scots placed fifth with two points to win Kenyon's 107.

This year the swimmers have not won a dual meet and only placed fifth in the Conference relays.

Basketball

moving to lead by 50-33 at halftime. The final score was 96-73.
Tonight the Scots take on the Ashland Eagles at Severson Gymnasium and hope to repeat last month's margin of victory. Even though the Eagles have not came up with victory so far, their attack has been bolstered by the return of Don Hershhey, who was ineligible last semester. He tallied 34 points against Ohio Northern in his first game out, but Ashland still lost, 100-106. The Denison team has several regulars returning from last year, led by Lou Mitchell, their all-time high scorer, and present a strong attack.
