Cleveland Alumni Offer Assistance To I.S. Students

The members of the Cleveland-Wooster Club of the Alumni Association have announced that they would like to offer free rooms, letters of reference and other assistance to students desiring to do Independent Study research in the Cleveland-Wooster vicinity.

This plan will aid students by making available new areas of primary source material easily available. The areas will cover especially, education, economics, government, music, and the sciences.

Public Library

The area of history students will find help in the Public Library, which contains over 3,000,000 books, periodicals, and recordings. In addition, there is Western Reserve University, which specializes in American and many other local schools, and libraries which specialize in law.

Wellesley College

The county, city, church, and private welfare agencies in the city can give many leads to students doing research in sociology.

Economics students may be assisted by taking advantage of the nationally known Cleveland-based corporations.

Students: After completing your work before Christmas turn in your time slips to the Treasurer's Office and receive your pay. Do not ask to be paid more than once. If you are not retained to be paid, leave your time slips and a check will be ready when you return from Christmas vacation.

as well as the banks, including a federal reserve bank.

Speak: Anyone who wishes to visit one of the city's radio stations should make arrangements. There are several professional and amateur stations.

Art, religion, and music students can find excellent study material in the Art Museum, in the churches of the city, and among the city's churches and private musical groups.

Helpful Institutions

Casa Torre and Western Reserve are two institutions which may be very helpful to students doing research in the sciences. The Club has pointed out that these two institutions are open to the possibilities available to students who are interested in the field and who will take advantage of it. Further specific information on the two institutions can be obtained from Mrs. King in the Alumni Office by calling 212-0125. The University's address is 128 Street, Cleveland 20, Ohio.

Senate Movie

The Senate movie to be shown this term is Stars and Stripes Forever, starring C. J. Welles, Deborah Paget, Robert Wagner, and Ruth Hussey.

Dr. Delbert G. Lean, professor emeritus of the College, lectured on the rastrum as he brings Dickens' "Christmas Carol" to life, as he has done for three Wooster generations, since 1908.

Gore Directs "Donna Nobis Pacem" At Annual Choir Concert Tuesday

Dr. Richard T. Gore will direct the Choir Concert of the College in its annual Christmas Concert Tuesday, December 17, at 8:15 p.m. in the Memorial Chapel. Jean Blair, soprano, and Dale K. Moore, baritone, will be the featured workers of the evening. This concert was written in 1925 to celebrate the centennial of the Huldensfield Choral Society, one of England's leading choral groups. The prayer for peace from the Men, trans. poems by Walt Whitman, and selected scripture passages that form the coming of Prince of Peace comprise the setting for this work. It is one of Vaughan Williams' larger choral works and has become a great favorite in this country. Dr. Gore will order the place for the music for this concert when he was in England.

Jean Blair, the soprano soloist, is an Akron resident and a pupil of Arthur Reginald. She is a student at the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Akron and a member of the Akron Civic Chorus. Mrs. Blair also has appeared on radio and television programs in that city.

Dale K. Moore, baritone soloist, appeared on many programs when he was here last year substituting for Mr. Trump.

Dr. Leam Recreats 'Christmas Carol'; Brings Scrooge And Marley To Chapel by Margi Elliott

Wednesday, December 18, Dr. Delbert G. Lean will present his traditional reading of Charles Dickens' The Christmas Carol, in the Memorial Chapel at 8:15 p.m. This is the forty-seventh time Dr. Lean has rendered his portrayal of the ghost of Marley and the three spirits.

Dr. Lean is a Professor Emeritus of Wooster. He served on the faculty from 1908 until he retired as head of the Speech Department in 1946. In 1951 the College of Wooster bestowed on Dr. Lean an honorary degree of Doctor of Literature. Although in full retirement at the age of 79, Dr. Lean makes his annual return to Wooster from his home in Florida where he lives with his wife. A daughter, Mrs. Hayes, lives with him in Florida.

Nuclear Scientist Discusses Society

"Science and Society" will be the topic of Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, distinguished atomic scientist who is a member of the National Science Service in Washington, D.C. Dr. Lapp will speak in the Memorial Chapel on January 10 at 8:15 p.m.

Dr. Lapp, whose research in atomic fall-out precipitated last year's attention to this problem, is also known as the author of the first popular book on atomic energy, "When We Have Must We Hide?" His talk will include some discussion of space research, and the effect of the atom upon such matters as solar sup-pol-population, medicine, and industry. It has been described as a landmark at the horizons of science.

In a letter that began with the Manhattan Project, Dr. Lapp has worked with such famous figures as Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, H. C. Urey, and Professor Reginald Stephenson, a leading man of the Department of Physics.

There will be no admission charge to this program sponsored by the College Lecture Committee.

Senator Potter Speaks in Chapel by William VanTilburg

Charles E. Potter, the senior United States Senator from Michigan, will speak in the Wooster Chapel on December 16. Senator Potter comes under the sponsorship of the Institute of Politics, and is the Republican speaker of this semester.

When the late Senator Vandenberg of Michigan died in 1952, a young lawyer, one with a background in the fields of Representatives, the United States Army, the work of family and individual rehabilitation and assistance was elected to his place in Congress. This man be-designed 1938 as Administrator of the Bureau of So-

Table Aid in Cheboygan County, Michigan. Here he initiated a program of personal and group rehabilitation rather than the usual hand-outs of bread line ord. This work as social administrator was interrupted by the second World War—a broader field of service in which Senator Potter played an almost full role.

He was seriously injured three times as an officer in Europe, and this action resulted in the loss of both lower limbs. During and after rehabilitation in the hospital he wrote a manual on community planning for severely disabled veterans; a guide that has now become the standard in many states. For his work, physically handicapped, he has won national recognition. Senator Potter was elected to Congress to fill a vacancy in 1942, he was re-elected to the eighty-first and eighty-second, and served during that time on the Committee on Un-American Activities and Education and Labor. In 1952 he was named one of the 10 outstanding young men in the United States by the University of Michigan Junior Chamber of Commerce.

The senator was born on October 30, 1916 in Lapere, Michigan. He attended Lapere public schools and graduated from Eastern Michigan College in 1935. He received his two master's degrees in 1946 and 1947.

Students Suggest An Honor Code

To the Editor:

It seems surprising to find here so little focus of thought on scholastic honesty. The general response of a person approached is satisfaction in doing things as they are. The member of the Wooster Hasty feelings that there is not real need for concern as to honor. Since he is himself honest, nothing more matters - including the scholastic standard of the College. This attitude reflects no sense of social obligation of "I am my brother's keeper."

Defining Honesty

The purpose of this letter is to suggest that there be a serious consideration of scholastic honors. Scholastic honors, its need, its rewards. Our first request is that each of us better define and understand honesty. We should ask that the faculty of each department make known exactly what they do and do not consider cheating. This might classify such questions as whether copying homework can be honest, and whether correcting punctuation and spelling words when typing a friend's theme is approved. Another step forward can be taken if each of us asks ourselves if we would be willing to state the following:

1. I myself practice academic honesty.
2. I will speak in support of academic honesty.
3. I will not cheat.

In the future, I will speak personally and as a friend to the individual involved.

My request is: that the student body of the College of Wooster were willing to make the three statements above, if the faculty were willing to define cheating, the understood would be happy to concede that they had been badly disillusioned as to the concern for academic honesty at Wooster

Chesnut Ponders Chapel Incident

To the Editor:

Last Thursday's bell ringing incident in Chapel seemed to paint out some important elements in student-faculty adminis- tration relations on this campus. One doesn't have to combine such pranks to wonder what is wrong with certain members of the administration that they can't laugh at a practical joke played on them. As it is ten o'clock, a person's sense of humor, especially his ability to laugh at himself, is vital to his personality. Have we become so scared that we can't have a good laugh together? College students have been noted for their pranks down through the ages. Are we Woosterites sup- posed to be some special breed of students?

More important, however, is a second matter. Granted, it was a childish trick. But wasn't the reaction to it among some of those sitting in the choir loft just as childish? Is it mature and re- sponsible action to let such a prank upset and compose enough to suck and show evident disgust before the whole student body? This seems to be a case of a childish action producing a childish reaction. One might hope that those members of the administration and faculty re- acted in such a way had the prank been serious and the person a sense of a few who laughed and then tried to stop the thing. It's just fortunate that it finally stop- ped, else we might be sitting there still like pausing children refusing to play until we have our own way.

Economics Prof. Hans Jenny of Tufts University was in ceremonies held at Cleveland last week. A member of the Wooster faculty since 1949, he came to the United States after World War II from Switzerland.

Study-minded Oberlin really gets ribbed in Ohio college circles. The rumor here has been that they have to close the labs to get anyone to attend a dance, etc. At a recent Congressional Club meeting, a representative asked, in connection with the enlargement problem, if we wanted the 'Oberlin type' stu- dent here. A colleague immedi- ately petitioned the chair for a definition of the 'Oberlin stu- dent.' Speaker Paul Reeder bopped the gavel and remitted: 'The chair holds that there is no such definition!'

Sophomore Fred Takosh broke his nose in a basketball game. He had taken the game from a horse and rider relay. The college obtained a special permit to perform a delicate bone setting. Fred will be laid up at one of the hospitals in Cleveland for several weeks at least, and would appreciate visits.

Biv Stockard and George Kan- das of Cleveland will attend the Christmas F o r m a l tomorrow night at Wooster. Vic and Ruth Colvin, Jim Null and Sue Reed teamed on the successful stag dance last weekend - the social board is ready to sponsor another and organize an ice-skating party.

While Secretary of the Ohio College Association, Speech Pro- fessor Garber Drashal received the following from Seely, Ark. "We want to start a college in Ohio. Can you give us information on locations and required funds?" As a prank, he never th e l e s s a n- swered, indicated further help if they would state the preferred size of the town. He has received many responses.

Freshmen in the outer reaches of the Chapel see things with a different perspective. The trans- cends people get the glimpse of a speaker, including unshined shoes, skirt lengths, and shing- ling legs. Balcony viewers look down on the unsupervised mass. A fresh in the latter is noted one morning the strange pattern of two full rows of sophomore women knitting away . . .

Woes of love and dining: a girl held a First Kenndara dining ticket while her beau dined sec- ond and shift. Deciding that they would like to be together, they agreed to exchange for common tickets. Somehow signals got crossed. Beau ended up at first shift while girl friend ate second shift.

power in an oligarchy such as we have here at Wooster can have an open mind to suggestions from the students in certain matters. But still, rule by the few, those more permanent factors of our community has to be.

Therefore, we could save ourselves a lot of valuable time if we would recognize the fact that we can do nothing about changing college policies except for making intelligent and constructive suggestions. Either make some constructive suggestions or keep your gripes to yourselves concerning the Chapel and church required attendance and other situations. If we consider the campus in an oligarchical situation then those who have made the rules and regulations must also enforce them. Thus it is not our responsibility to judge our peers on rules which were set up by the college.

The Volleyball Playday last Saturday was a grand success. All the teams played well, and they certainly had a lot of spirit. Some action shots, one of each team, and a photo of the WRRD team are on the WRA bulletin board in the gym.

For Foresters Have Scots Up A Tree, 86-82; Overtake Black And Gold After Trail ing

by Art Humphries

Tomorrow night the Scots open the Ohio Conference season as they travel to Springfield to take on the Ball Whitenberg team. Two big factors that the Scots must take care of will be Terry Deems 6-7 rebounders that were called to down the Scots last maximum, 77-76. Also returning will be the boy who scored 41 points against us, Don Edwards.

The Scots have the added experience of two games under their belts as they journey tomorrow. Last Saturday the team opened the season at Lake Forest, Illinois, as they were edged out by their hosts, 86-82. Last night Grove City was a guest of the Plaid in the initial contest on the friendly hardwood on Severance Gym.

The first encounter saw the Scots lead most of the way, not relinquishing the lead until the last minute when the eventual winners knotted the count at 80-80. Then Tom Lewis, who led the home marksmen with a total of 26 points for the evening, took command and led his squad to the final buzzer, victorious.

Danny Thomas showed the way for the Scots as he tallied 16 points in the first half to pace the Scots to an early lead. At one stage the Scot bulge reached as high as 11 points but the Lakers gradually narrowed the gap and cut the margin to three points by halftime, 44-41.

In the second half Thomas and Tom Dennison sparked the Scots as the team traded baskets, with the Scots holding the upper hand but by no more than a few points at any time. Finally the hosts managed to catch up and then went ahead in the closing seconds to nail down the victory.

Thomas led all scorers with 28 points, followed by Lewis, 25, and Tom Dennison’s 19. Next in line for the Scots were Dan Dixon with 13 and Joe Dennison with 11.

Meanwhile the Scot J.V.'s picked up their first win of the campaign by downsing the Northwestern Athletic Club last Saturday night, 83-67, at Severance Gym. The game was close most of the way and the outcome was in doubt until the final minutes of action. The Scot junior kept ahead but with five minutes to go led by only 68-65. Then the game broke open and the Scots poured in points to leave their opponents behind.

Cliff Perkins led the scorers with 26 points, closely followed by teammates Ron Bobal who bucketed 25 markers. Dan Hensley led the N.A.C. with 21 tallies.
