Feminine Choristers

"WRITING THE SONG" celebrating the 48th year of the Choral Society will be performed by the University Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Frank Schubert.

The program will feature several selections from the Choral Society's repertoire, including "The Lord's Prayer" and "Let Us Pray," both composed by Mr. Schubert.

The concert will take place on Saturday, April 15, at 8:00 p.m. in the University Auditorium. Admission is free, and doors will open at 7:30 p.m.
Good Friday Classes

For perhaps the first time in their lives, many Wooster students this year will attend classes on Good Friday after-noon.

Those who advocate this policy offer many arguments in defense of their position. Some decry the idiocy of putting too much work on Good Friday and leaving an army of students with a whole day to do as they please, and some say that the place of the craftsman, the scientist and the scholar is not in the church but in the halls of learning. They argue that these classes will strengthen faithgrown flabby from lack of exercise.

There are many students and faculty members, however, who believe that Good Friday is not an extension of Wooster's avowed Christian ideals. A school that Dowis has a religion the same as Christianity really means to demonstrate in some way that the day of the Cross is different from other school days.

It has also been noted that although originally the Prot- estant church alighted from "Catholic" holy days, it is now recognizing many more of them in its calendar year. Some urge that the argument that students and faculty who wish to attend church must do one of two things—either not attend worship services or they must cut their classes.

It seems that a choice must be made. Well, Wooster, what do you think?

Dogs and the Air Force

"Occasionally pets require baths. The best way to accomplish this is by using soap, water, and plenty of elbow grease..."

Thus reads an Air Force training manual which also instructs its readers how to load and unload their dogs, and how to take part in the monthly "cuddly rides" at the hands of a House Armed Service Subcommittee, the Air Force is now withdrawing this manual. A member of the air force has called attention, in effect, to the "socially responsible" habits of military men "so duties which contribute only to the personal benefit of the individual,..." and the officers' official responsibilities.

Our years of enlistment are accompanied by a series of training courses which are designed to familiarize men with their duties and their social responsibilities.

On our Honor?

That's all right, we don't care, the men (or women) who shaved ahead in the dining-sign-up line. We don't care if some students were having a party, studying, and playing cards in Galpin before six so that they may sign up for their favorite dancing halls. It doesn't matter that we arrived on the steps outside just before 7. We'll push ahead down the stairs anyway.

Said another student, and Wooster wants an honor system when students even cheat in forming a line.

Hell Week Amendment Comes to Vote: MA Sets Feb. 17 As Day of Decision

by Al Kyberg

On Feb. 17 the men of College of Wooster will vote on a resolution to amend the Men's Association's constitution to eliminate Hell Week.

The resolution in question is section 2 and letter "g" of section 3 of article 1, Constitution of the Men's Association. Article 1, Constitution of the Men's Association, Section 2 reads, "The council shall be made up of the three members elected from the junior class, the two members elected from the senior class, the two members elected from the sophomore class and the two members elected from the freshman class." Article 1, Constitution of the Men's Association, Section 3 reads, "The position of council shall be held, however, by the most qualified person acceptable to the student body and the faculty."

The advantages of this amendment—pointed out by some of the Section Presidents, will be to reduce the time it takes to change the three-member section to fill the position, and to bring the three-member section to new levels of activity. These are the main reasons the amendment was proposed to the Men's Association.

The resolution was presented by the MA Council, Section Faculty Advisor, and the Dean of Men.

EASTERN CULTURES

To the Editor: A minority of students and faculty have recently begun urging the addition of courses on the East to the already full course curriculum. But many of us have failed to see any real need for such a course requiring weeks of preparation for a few numbers of students to speak any language.

The World and Us

Should the U.S. admit Red China? The first thing you notice when you ask this question is the temperature of the response—probably the point with horror to the sins of the Peiping regime and echo the impassioned conclusion that "the hundreds of American prisoners killed in cold blood with their hands tied behind their backs to become the forgotten men, while the blood-stained hands of the Communist mother are clasped in fraternal greeting."

There are good arguments for withholding recognition from Peiping, but this is emphatically not one of them. It proffers from the point of view of the Peiping regime and the U.S. government the question of our objectives in the world—just not to see them in fraternal greeting. We recognize that whether we maintain links with the Russian or the Chinese, we have to maintain with the all over the objective of a free China, of the free and free prospering nations.

Two Objectives

Right here is where the real dilemma begins. For any society and it is not hard to see why, is dependent on two objectives which contradict each other and which seem to call for opposite measures of recognition.

On the one hand, we must do all we can to restrain and restrict the influence of Communism in Asia. In the short run, at least, recognition supports this objective in three important ways. First, it provides for an independent nation of a country that has shown a desire to integrate itself with the rest of the world, the Islamic world, and the West. Second, it is a measure of the success of the U.S. in the Middle East and the Far East. And third, it is a measure of the success of the U.S. in the Middle East and the Far East.

The second objective might be labeled the "Mast Wary" of 1930s, that would require a policy of shear non-recognition of the Peiping regime. The question is whether we maintain links with the Russian or the Chinese, we have to maintain with the all over the objective of a free China, of the free and free prospering nations.

Minor Miracle

Such a development would be a miracle indeed (and also, I fear, a disaster). It would not only be a great triumph for the anti-Communist cause, but also would be a great triumph for the anti-Communist cause, but also would be a great triumph for the anti-Communist cause.

Scots Toss Top Seven At First To Continue String

It was a battle of the siblings as fifth and seventh ranked teams faced off. The Scots were more than the Rowdies, 79-57.

The first half saw seventh ranked Rowdies jump out 11-9 as the Rowdies jumped all over the Scots in the first 4:28 to lead, 17-10.

The second half saw the Scots rally as they trailed by as many as 26 points before eventually losing, 75-62.

A wide range of players were in double digits for both teams, including seven for the Rowdies.

FREELANDER'S

All filter cigarettes are divided into two parts, and...

Wren, wido, Winston!" Thus did Caesar (a notoriously poor spelliner) hail the discovery of Filter-Blende light, to which he so carefully selected and specially processed for filter smoking.

He knew that a pure white filter alone is not enough. To be a companion filter cigarette, it had to have Filter-Blend up front. And only Allen & Ginter's can.

That's why Caesar would never accept another brand even when it offered the extra "fume" in Part 2. In fact, history tells us he'd blow his stack at the extended pack and mace, "Re tu, Brutus!"...

In a stirring peroration to his legionaries, Caesar put it this way: "They all give me a filter cigarette—for the nobler filter cigarette of all—smoke Woman's Tobacco!"

"Winston tastes good like a cigarette should!" P.S. If you're lucky enough to find a gal who'll keep you in Winnsboro, Carnes!"

International Fellowship will spend an "Evening in Japan" this Sunday from 7 to 8:30.

All interested students are invited to the program at 626 East University. The evening's festivities will open with a Japanese dance to the accompaniment of a classical harp or koto.

Additional aspects of the program include parts of a tape recording made recently by Karen Woodard, a Wooster student studying in Tokyo, and some slides. Freshman Karen Furukoshi and sophomore Yoko Metzoka will be on hand to answer questions and add to the discussion of their country.

Participating in the program will be Yurii Curtis, who has recently come from Japan, and Carol Bomer, a senior Scot who studied last year at the International Christian University in Tokyo. Tom Swett will serve as MC.

Famed Cellist Solos

Zara Nelsova, considered by many critics to be the leading cellist playing at the present time, will come to the hill Monday evening for the Wooster Federation of Music concert in the Chapel at 8:15.

Born in Sofia, Miss Nelsova was a child prodigy. Through the years she has been the subject for the leading symphony orchestras of England and America.
