Board Of Trustees Increase Tuition, Fees $200
To Hold New Rate For Coming Two Years

The Board of Trustees last week voted to set tuition and fees for the academic year 1962-63 at $1100 and $60. The new rate thus represents a total increase of $200 over the present rate.

Gifts for current operation and immediate needs, however, are still being solicited.

Little Theatre Dramatizes Wartime Sailors' Pranks

This year's Parent's Day play, "Mr. Roberts," written and directed by Mr. Joseph H. Logan, is a reunion of the "Mr. Roberts" play that was presented at Parent's Day in 1946. A part of the proceeds will go to the Board to help support the Little Theatre program.

The play tells the story of a young naval officer who, after a tour of duty in the Far East, returns to his alma mater on Parent's Day to receive an honorary degree. Unfortunately, his old college roommate, Mr. Roberts, has become the school principal and is not at all pleased to see him. The play, which is a satirical look at the upper-middle-class society of the time, is set in a boarding school, and the action takes place within the boundaries of the college campus.

The play is performed by a cast of students from various classes and is presented in the Little Theatre. The audience is encouraged to participate in the play by joining in the various scenes and by contributing to the overall atmosphere of the performance.

The Little Theatre is a popular annual event at the college, and this year's play promises to be another successful production.
Menagerie Opens Little Theatre, Kopl Captures "First-Worthy Role" by Louise Tate

Tennessee Williams' "The Glass Menagerie" opened the Wooster Little Theatre season last Thursday night. One of Williams' most true to life, this play, with the life of a St. Louis family during the 1930's, as seen in retrospect by the son, Tom. There are only three other characters in the play: Amanda Wingfield, the slightly crippled daughter; and The Gentleman Caller. Such a small cast provides a major problem in direction, for the dialogue is completely written by Williams and the characters in the dim light of unreality which tends to magnify the small gestures and reveal any falseness in the audience. This can be fatal to a poorly prepared cast, but Director Winfield Logan groomed his cast beautifully as far as technique were concerned.

Good Technical Direction

The set was one of the best that has been seen recently on the Wooster stage. It was beautifully built, signifying the completeness of the life of the Wingfield family. The lighting was imaginative and well-timed, and the background music was never intrusive. All this was due to the technical direction of Mr. David Batchelder. No antenna was the setting in the use of an invisible door leading to the fire escape. Because of the dim lighting, the quality of the play, this could have been very effective, but there was often not enough real visible, the constant opening and closing of an existence during a bit awkward and inauspicious.

The "menagerie" minor fault in what might have been an excellent play. But the play never quite captured the magic moment that is so greatly sought for in the theater.

Fine Acting

There were, of course, many instances of fine acting. As Amanda, Miss Jeanne Robinson was the only leader in this first worthy role on this campus. She commanded the stage superbly and did justice to this poorly written part. She had a good rapport with the rest of the Little Theatre cast as well as an excellent stage presence. Unfortunately, her make-up was inadequate, especially for the finished stage, and it is far from harsh and unattractive, but far from unrealistic.

Jeanne Robinson is the only newcomer to the Wooster theatre, physically filled the part of Laura and achieved a charming and feminine yet delicate image of the beautiful girl who has built her life around a glass menagerie. Bob Wells was adept in the part of the egotistical Gentleman Caller.

Fails to Capture Magic

But adroit acting and physical appearances alone do not make a good production. The capturing of the mood is a vital part of the play and meant to provide to the audience a bit of comic relief. At this point I must admit that such unmeaningless mood may not be entirely the fault of the cast.

Two Wooster Little Theatre productions with the desire to be amusing. This is especially true of the play. However, this play has been presented at this time for the past two years. But the audience Thursday night would have thrown even professional actors off their feet with the laughter received. Perhaps unorthodox would be the better word.

Repeal Smoking Rule

Signed editorially signifies the opinion of a minority of the editorial board. The board includes the editors-in-chief, page editors and syndicated columnists.

Smoking, however, will become an accepted social custom on this campus, updating the Wooster Community image by sheer force of the pressure of modern reality. This was recognized by the MA two years ago when it was re- cued to be responsible for infractions of the non-smoking rule. The rule, however, has been in force for the world of education. Student responsible for themselves and their neighbors are the only means, short of hand cuffs and constant supervision, of eliminating this dishonesty.

Smoke a bit more

The Wooster Student Body gauge the campaign against smoking on campus, and the Wooster Campus newspaper. The Wooster Advocate, has continued its campaign against smoking on campus, and has received the support of many students.

It was recently decided by the administration that smoking would be allowed on campus during the day hours. This decision was made after careful consideration of the effects of smoking on the health of students and the effects of second-hand smoke on others.

The Wooster Advocate was one of the first newspapers to lead the campaign against smoking on campus. The Advocate has published numerous articles and editorials opposing the smoking ban.

Modern World.

The Advocate's editorial board strongly opposes the smoking ban and believes that smoking should be allowed on campus.

The Advocate's stance is based on the belief that smoking is a personal choice and should be respected. The Advocate argues that the ban on smoking infringes on the rights of students and is unnecessary in a modern world.

The Advocate's position on smoking is not a recent one. The paper has consistently advocated for the rights of students to smoke on campus throughout its history.

The Advocate's stance on smoking is in line with the values of the Wooster Community. Wooster values individual freedom and personal choice, and the Advocate believes that this includes the right to smoke.

The Advocate is committed to advocating for the rights of students and promoting a campus environment that is supportive of individual freedom.
Shipment Battle Zips For Cowbell Trophy

The Cowbell Trophy will be at stake for the third time this year. No. 1 Akron, with Winslow and Tippin, and No. 24 West Virginia, with Zips, are to meet in the Rubber Bowl as part of Akron's Homecoming activities.

Last year the Zips were at the back, as an indication to a probable winter. It might be pointed out that the Akron will be fighting not only for their own prestige, but for prestige tomorrow in the form of a cowbell.

Tradition of Class Games

Another football war against a new team is something to indicate a probable winter. It might be pointed out that the team is fighting not only for their own prestige, but for prestige tomorrow in the form of a cowbell.

The tradition of the cowbell was begun by the Akron 1922 team. Since then, the Akron-Willow has been a favorite game with the fans.

Harriers Drop Two To Hiram B & W: Runners Improving

Best harriers lost last year's team to Baldwin-Wallace. In the first meet at Wooster, Carl B. Rosen, cleared with the hard work and the demoralization which the team has shown.

"We're getting better, we can see that now," Rosen added. "The team is making good progress with the addition of senior Kurt Linko to the squad.

Scots Host Kenyon, Hiram And Denison After 2-2 Deadlock

Three games in five days. That is the fate of the Scots squad next week. Games are scheduled for Tuesday afternoon and Saturday morning.

Tuesday's game will find the Scots hosting Kenyon College in a game starting at 3 p.m. on Saturday Field. The Scots squad, who are in the midst of their practice for the Tri-State Conference, will be at home in their first year of intercollegiate competition.

Thursday's game, against Wooster, will be an important opponent in a game starting at 1 p.m. Next week's game will carry the definite story on this game.

2-2 Tie

Last Thursday, the Scots suffered a 2-2 tie in their first game of the season. They were at the University of Illinois, and the two squads battled to a 2-2 tie. This tie gives the Scots a 1-1-3 mark after three contests.

George Brown scored second, third, and fourth in the first game. He scored the first and third goals for the 2-2 tie. John Biddle scored the second and fourth goals for the Scots. These two goals were the only goals scored in the entire game. The coolness of the closing minutes on Thursday.

Academic Board submits Six-Point Plan, Interprets Program To Faculty, Oct. 31

A four-point system of grading students' overall average was one of four grading changes recommended by the Senate's Academic Board in six proposals to be submitted to the Faculty Oct. 31.

The Board recommended that students be graded by plus or minus grades in addition to the traditional letter grade, and that these grades be available to students at all times.

Members of the Academic Board are Chairman Alphonso Hopkins, John Bucher, Harvard Hassall, Roberts and Sandra Nolde.

The document they submit to the faculty proposes:

1. That the cumulative grade point average and rank be available at all times for all students in the College. This is in the interest of increased academic motivation, since it will encourage students to improve continually their grades and ranks.

2. That a student's cumulative grade point average be based not simply on the letter grade, but by any plus or minus grade. It is said that there is a great difference, for example, between a B- and B. Similarly, the difference between a B- and C+ is often an arbitrary decision on the part of the instructor.

3. That a four-point system be recognized as the basis of Wessan grading. The value of the 12 problem sets in determining the final letter grade is recognized and should be continued. In conformity with standards of other colleges, however, a student's overall average should be calculated on the basis of four points. The proposed values are as follows:

- A+, 4.00
- A, 3.75
- B+, 3.50
- B, 3.00
- C+, 2.75
- C, 2.50
- D+, 2.25
- D, 2.00
- F, 0.00

4. That a student's grade in a physical education class be determined by his cumulative grade point average. On this point, agreement is in complete accord with Plato that excellence in physical development is essential to the education of the whole man.

5. That the official Dean's List be compiled and published for each semester. These lists are proposed:

First List, 4.0 grade point average
Second List, 3.5 to 4.0
Third List, 3.0 to 3.5
Fourth List, below 3.0

6. That a copy of the Dean's Lists be sent to the Office of Public Relations for release to the home town newspapers of the students.

Church Vacations Conferences Set

Several juniors and seniors from the College will be attending Church vacation conferences during the coming weeks.

On Nov. 31 and Dec. 2, Rochester Divinity School in Rochester, N.Y., will hold its eight annual Conference on the Ministry.

The Divinity School of Wabash College will conduct a similar meeting from Nov. 17 to 19.

A two-day Conference in a Church Vacation will be held on Nov. 11 and 12 at the School of Theology, Oberlin College.

During Thanksgiving weekend, Nov. 27 to 29, Chicago Theological Seminary will sponsor similar meetings.
